VOTE DUE TONIGHT ON DEATH PENALTY

Times News Service

OTTAWA — The vote on a government bill limiting the death penalty to murderers of policemen and prison guards is expected to come in the Commons tonight.

The division will come on second reading—approval in principle—of the measure, which calls for a five-year trial period.

If the bill gets through, as seemed likely today, it will then be up for clause-by-clause study before third and final reading in the Commons.

A motion to adjourn debate on the bill was defeated 125 to 71 Wednesday night and this was interpreted by some supporters of the bill as evidence that it is on its way to passage.

WINTER ELECTION?

'Mean Business' Says Stanfield

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Canadians may be in for a winter election.

Members of Parliament are having to face up to this cheerless prospect with the entry Wednesday of Conservative Leader Robert Stansfield into the Commons.

The Progressive Conservative back-benchers beat their desks like drums as the party changed guard on Parliament Hill.

The new national leader from Nova Scotia, moved with almost shy reluctance through the ritual by which all new members are introducing to the green carpeted chamber. His predecessor John Diefenbaker was absent.

After he took his seat Mr. Stanfield met the press outside the chamber. He made it quite clear that he will make every effort to defeat the Liberal minority government and bring on an early election.

"It is our duty to defeat the government in the House if we can. We mean business," he said. "We're not there to obstruct, but to be effective."

SOFT SPOKEN

Inside the house he was soft spoken.

After he had been greeted formally in the Commons he promised, "It will be my endeavor to assist in the operation of the House and in forwarding the business of the country."

But outside the House talking to newspaper, radio and TV reporters, he was more belligerent. He was asked what he regarded as the top issue today and replied, "national unity."

He also cited the economic problems confronting the government as of prime importance, demanding action.

Inflationary pressures, he warned, could destroy Canada's competitive position in world markets. It could rob the country of satisfactory rate growth.

HIS HATE IN HAND

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters) — A sailor has "I hate the navy" tattooed on his right hand so it shows every time he salutes an officer, the Royal Navy said Wednesday.

It was discovered by a naval doctor who interviewed more than 2,000 sailors to find why they had tattoos. Seventy per cent received their decorations while under the influence of alcohol.

FUND IN HOME STRETCH

Little People Help By Raising $9.01

The United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal turned into the home stretch today with donations topping 90 per cent of the $600,000 objective.

Audited collections at noon stood at $540,948, or 90.1 per cent of the sought-after goal.

That's a lot of money but a lot of little people have made it possible.

"We put on two plays and raised $9.01," says a note handed a university student canvasser Wednesday.

"We heard about all the kids with no homes, food and things so we raised some money to help."

Children who signed the note were:

Lab Blast Sends Two To Hospital

Sprayed With Acid, Glass

By DON VIPOND

A shattering blast in a government research laboratory this morning sprayed two men with acid and glass fragments.

Both were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance after a safety shower in the laboratory failed to work.

Dr. Joseph Baker, 44, of 3498 Lovat, is in "fair" condition with multiple laceration and acid burns. His lab technician, William Eric Payne, 20, of 905 Lawndale, was treated for similar but less serious injuries and released.

Windows and light fixtures splintered and chemicals powdered the second-floor laboratory at the Federal Forestry Research Building on West Burnside just north of the Trans-Canada Highway after the explosion about 9:40 a.m.

EXPLOSIVE LIQUID

The injured men were working with percloric acid, an explosive and corrosive liquid used to break down organic matter.

When the blast occurred four flasks of the acid were housed in a metal oven-like enclosure called a fume hood which is equipped with an exhaust system.

A glass sliding door closing off the hood was blown to bits.

"It almost blew my ears off," Martin Taimon, a research technician in an office across the hall, said of the noise.

COVERED WITH BLOOD

Both men were covered with blood.

Saanich police, firemen and two ambulances converged on the building.

"It was a terrific explosion," said assistant fire chief Thomas Moss. He said Mr. Payne's shirt was almost blasted right off.

"It was just hanging in shreds."

Both laboratory director R. R. Lejeune and Ajai Manksingh, a research scientist, described Dr. Baker as a veteran scientist

DOUBT GROWING

Gestapo Chief Or Peddler?

BULLETIN

PANAMA CITY (Reuters)—West German hopes that it had caught up with Nazi war criminal Heinrich Mueller, were smashed Thursday by a left thumb print attached to a 1942 Panamanian immigration form. Lt.-Col. Hector Valdez, Panamanian investigations department chief, said the 1942 finger-print matches that of Francis Willard Keith, held here on suspicion of being Mueller.

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Detective Chief Hector Valdez, who arrested a shabby insecticide peddler at request of the West German government, said today he doubted the man was Gestapo Chief Heinrich Mueller, Adolf Hitler's chief torturer and mass executioner.

The man, listed on his Panamanian identification card as F. (Francis) Willard Keith, was being held in a ground floor jail cell opening onto a sunlit courtyard. Occasionally he strolled outside under the watchful eyes of guards.

Valdez said Mueller had been coming in and out of Panama since 1941 selling wines and insecticides.

West Germany asked for his extradition and said it based the identification on handwriting experts and on the fact Mueller's wife identified him from photographs. His photographs were sent to West Germany for indentification.

PAPERS FROM U.S.

Valdez exhibited the man's identification papers which said he was born Feb. 21, 1906, in Webb City, Mo., that his father was listed as William Keith and his mother as Frances. One credential showed he entered Panama Dec. 23, 1952, from Venezuela with a U.S. passport.

Mrs. Mueller identified the man as her husband Wednesday when a Berlin prosecutor entered her candy shop in Munich and confronted her with photographs of the arrested man. But 24 hours later, her

The action forced the hospital to restrict admissions to emergency cases.

Tough, New Curbs Price of Huge Loan

POUND STRONGER

LONDON (UPI)—The pound sterling surged higher in brisk trading today on the strength of reports of a $1 billion international loan to bolster the sagging currency.

The hectic trading on foreign exchanges caught speculators gambling on the possibility of a devaluation "on the wrong foot," market sources said. They clamored for sterling so rates soared.

By noon, the pound held at 2.7843, having earlier touched 2.7847 against the U.S. dollar. The Canadian dollar was ¼ cent cheaper at 2.9881 while sharp gains were registered against all European currencies.

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Britain may be forced to impose tougher economic curbs, including the possibility of new import controls, as the price for a new $1,000,000,000 medium-term loan by 11 industrial countries, including Canada.

Informants said today the British government has been virtually assured that it will get this massive support to underpin the wobbly pound, but that lenders want strong guarantees of repayment.

Britain's biggest problem is that she cannot export enough goods and services to cover the cost of her much-needed imports. Various measures, such as higher commodity and income taxes, dented the internal demand for goods temporarily. But now the consumer market is swelling again, including the market for imports.

One official suggested that if import controls come, they likely will be slapped on luxury goods. Canada has a growing market here for some manufactured items but she still is a main shipper of raw materials which Britain requires for her own production and exports drive.

During the 1964 sterling crisis, the government imposed an extra duty of 15 per cent on manufactured goods.

This brought protests from Britain's trading partners, mainly those in Europe. The surcharge was reduced and finally eliminated last year. This time quotas on imports of luxury goods are reported to be under consideration.

Under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT—a country can impose import restrictions, without fear of massive retaliation by her trading partners, if she can show the

Police Defuse Bomb

LONDON (AP)—A parcel containing a bomb was found on the steps of the new Ulster government office in Mayfair today a few hours before its official opening by Princess Alexandra.

Police dismantled the device, which had a clock and explosive mixture, and put a guard on the building.

An explosives expert was summoned.

Police described the bomb as obviously a home-made job. It contained what they called a highly volatile mixture of sodium chlorate, weed killer and sugar.

The street past the new Ulster (Northern Ireland) office was closed.

MAY BE IRA PLOT

A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to speculate whether the bomb might have been placed there by agents of the Irish Republican Army, an organization now declared illegal in both parts of Ireland.

The Ulster office is headquarters of the Ulster agent, Sir William Jenkins, who represents the self-governing Northern Ireland administration here.

The northern part of Ireland remains linked with Britain, while the south is an independent republic.

Guests at today's opening ceremony by Princess Alexandra, cousin of the Queen, were to include Lord Erskine, governor of Northern Ireland, Capt. Terence O'Neill, the Northern Ireland Prime Minister, and representatives of the British government.

'Public' Winning In Bennett View

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial finance ministers attending a closed conference with Finance Minister Sharp today described the meeting in terms ranging from "constructive" to "black enough."

Mr. Sharp presided at the first session of a two-day conference during which the current economic situation was reviewed by Bank of Canada economists. Later the ministers will discuss what should be done about inflation, taxes, and medical care insurance.

Emerging from the West Block committee room for lunch, Paul Dozois, finance minister of Quebec, said the conference so far had been constructive. He would not comment further, until he had more of the federal government's views and the thoughts of other provincial ministers.

C. S. MacNaughton, provincial treasurer of Ontario, said the problem confronting the country is difficult, and "the situation is black enough." Ontario is prepared to join the federal government in reducing government expenditures, he added.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia was asked: "Who's winning?" "The public," he said as he pushed through the crowd of reporters outside the conference room.

Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick, also his province's top representative at the meeting, said Mr. Sharp's expenditure-cutting and taxing plan for the immediate future has got to be supported. If it were not, inflation would become "a whole lot worse."

APPROVES HIGHER TAXES

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan was asked whether he thought higher taxes would be necessary.

"Oh yes, a necessity," he said. "I think all the provinces will have to increase taxes."

None of the provincial representatives made any formal statement public about his contribution to the conference.

The conference started as scheduled with a review of the current economic situation and prospects for the future, prepared by the Bank of Canada and the federal finance department.

MOST SERIOUS BATTLE IN TWO YEARS

Greeks Cool Off Cyprus Confrontation

NICOSIA (AP) — Tension eased on Cyprus today as Greek Cypriot troops withdrew at sunrise from two villages they overran in the most serious outbreak of communal fighting in nearly two years.

The government forces also released to UN peace-keeping troops about 250 Turkish-Cypriot men who had been rounded up in a house-to-house search Wednesday after eight hours of fighting.

The UN troops took control of the villages and prepared to return the men home.

In Ankara, Turkey's cabinet met through the night, its armed forces were placed on the alert and Turkey's airports were closed to civilian traffic for seveal hours. But the Greek-Cypriot backdown appeared to ease the threat of retaliation from Turkey, 40 miles north of Cyprus, and the Turkish airports reopened.

UN sources in Nicosia said medical teams from the UN peace force found 23 Turkish-Cypriot bodies in the two villages 40 miles south of Nicosia, Turkish Kophinou and Greek-Turkish Ayios Theodorus.

SAY ONE KILLED

Greek-Cypriot officers on the scene said only one of their soldiers was killed.

UN headquarters in Nicosia said the number of casualties had not been established, but seven wounded Turkish-Cypriot civilians had been evacuated to Nicosia.

Turkish President Cevdet Sunday broke off a tour of Turkey's eastern provinces to hurry back to Ankara. Gen. Cemal Tual, chief of the Turkish general staff, met twice during the night with the cabinet. One of the commanders told newspaper men the armed forces had been put on the alert and might intervene in Cyprus "if necessary."

Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel said the cabinet would inform the Parliament about the situation on Cyprus. In answer to queries, he did not say the crisis had lessened but noted that Greek-Cypriot troops had pulled back.

A diplomat in Ankara said it was believed pressure from the Greek government in Athens played a role in the withdrawal. Turkish Ambassador Turan Tului conferred in Athens today with Greek Foreign Undersecretary Constantine Christopoulos but there was no announcement afterward.

action is essential to overcome a financial or currency crisis.

When the pound came under heavy attack in 1964, the 11 industrialized nations made available to Britain $1,000,000,000 in standby credits. Britain could draw on these foreign currencies as she required them to replenish depleted reserves. But those credits were only for about six months. What Britain now likely will receive will be a firm loan for three years.

Prime Minister Wilson met with his cabinet today, and some members of his Labor party were reported unhappy with the new reported borrowing and the restrictions on the economy it would bring.

Britain's international trading position, hard hit by dock strikes and the Middle East war's closure of the Suez Canal, has sent the pound tumbling to its lowest position for years.

Financial authorities said it would come under still sterner pressure this weekend as foreign holders of sterling switch to other currencies for fear of devaluation-unless new and impressive foreign credits could be arranged.

SEEK CREDITS

These credits, authoritative sources said, are being sought from advanced industrial nations, among them the United States, Canada, West Germany and Switzerland.

But the big question in the lobbies of Parliament was whether Wilson's government could accept the inevitable conditions tied to the credits—conditions almost certainly demanding cuts in social welfare programs.

The pound's troubles appeared to be a hammer blow to Wilson's determination to seek membership in the European Common Market, unless international credit backing is found on such a scale as to make devaluation unnecessary.

who had worked with percloric acid for years and exercised every precaution.

Mr. Manksingh said the acid is regularly used as an agent in analysis but always "drop by drop."

It can be touched off if it is mixed with other chemicals too rapidly or accidentally jolted.

Mr. Lejeune and Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart said an investigation will be conducted to try to uncover the cause of the blast.

Talks Suspended By Newspaper Guild

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province was turned down, Pacific Press Ltd. said Wednesday.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the over-all increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

daughter said, Mrs. Mueller began to have her doubts.

The daughter told newsmen: "She says the man in the pictures had a lot more hair than my father did, and that among millions of people there are always some look alikes." Pictures from Third Reich days showed Mueller affected an extreme Prussian-style haircut—a sparse brush on top and high shaven sides.

Simon Wiesenthal, the man who helped track down Adolf Eichmann, said in Vienna he is "more than doubtful" about the Mueller identity.

He also said Mueller would not have had to work as a peddler since he would have access to "dark funds" after the war as other Nazi war criminals did.

In Bonn, informed sources said Israel was seeking to have the arrested man extradited to the Jewish state. Israel has a death penalty. West Germany does not.

In Berlin, the prosecutors said a lack of fingerprint specimens may make extradition more difficult than expected. Legal sources here said it might take a year.

steadily he pointed out.

"The government is so badly strapped for money it has no room to manoevre," he said.

He stressed that he was "not crying alarm, but the country is facing some very difficult problems and it is very important we get some satisfactory answers."

Mr Stanfield said that in his opinion the government did not appear to be meeting the problems effectively.

"I don't think we should pull our punches just to make it easy for the government," he said. "If they are defeated in the house — that's it.

"If you belive the government is not handling things properly as we do, then you have got to take responsibility," he said.

LOST CONFIDENCE

Clearly Mr. Stanfield will seize every opportunity that presents itself to defeat the Liberal minority government and bring on an early election. He repeated it would be an "act of patriotism" if the Conservatives could oust the liberals. He said the Liberal government has lost the confidence of Canadians.

The minority government now holds half the occupied seats in the Commons. The standing is: Liberals, 132; Conservatives, 95 New Democratic Party, 22; Creditistes, eight; Social Credit, four; Independents, three; vacant one. Total seats in the Commons is 265.

Michael Starr acted as opposition leader until Mr. Stanfield took a seat in the Commons.

Mr Starr is quietly confident that if the official opposition (the Conservatives) move a non-confidence motion when finance minister Mitchell Sharp brings down a supplementary budget, the government will be defeated.

A major factor in the outcome of this will be the attendance in the Commons. The former Conservative leader, Mr Diefenbaker often "blew the charge" only to turn around and find few of his Tory troops were with him.

Under Mr Stansfield, Mr Starr promised, it will be different." There will be no ducking votes."

The Liberals would have to go to the country on a promise to raise taxes. The Conservatives would campaign on promise to reduce government expenditures, establish a priority for spending and abolish some existing programs that are unpopular.

The Conservatives are convinced that their fortunes are again at a peak. The time is ripe for an election from their point of view.

. . . CYPRUS

The commander of the UN peace force for Cyprus, Gen. I. E. Martola of Finland, reported that Greek-Cypriot troops disarmed UN posts in the two villages, seized his troops' equipment and disabled the UN radio equipment. He made a strong protest to the Cypriot government. Some 700 Canadians make up a major portion of the force.

The Greek-Cypriot government claimed that the fighting started when a police patrol was fired on as it passed through the Turkish sector of Ayios Theodorus. The police returned the fire, the government said, and the fighting spread to nearby Kophinou, on the island's busiest highway between Nicosia and Limassol.

UN sources said there were no reports of any injuries to UN units composed of British troops manning posts in the area.

Four-fifths of the 600,000 Cypriots are of Greek origin and are Orthodox Christians whose religious leader, Archbishop Makarios, is the nation's president. The rest of the people are Turkish Moslems.

War between the two communities erupted in December, 1963, badly straining relations between Greece and Turkey, the two easternmost members of the Northern Atlantic Treaty Organization. The UN peace force has managed to keep the island quiet much of the time, but there has been no apparent progress toward a political settlement.

HEPATITIS 'CAUSE FOR REAL CONCERN'

City Sits on Sea of Sewage Health Expert Tells Meeting

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Victoria is sitting on a sea of subterranean sewage, Dr. Kenneth Thornton, pathologist at the Royal Jubilee Hospital told a public meeting held Wednesday.

"This situation is disgraceful," he said. "Sewage is a most potent method for spreading diseases and is one of the causes for the spread of hepatitis."

The physician, speaking as a member of the B.C. Medical Association committee on environmental health, blasted the present method of dumping raw sewage from outfalls situated too close to shore.

The meeting was sponsored by the Saanich Action Committee—a group opposed to dumping raw sewage in local waters.

Dr. Thornton confined himself to the dangers of communicable diseases spread by sewage.

(The capital region sewer study recommends dumping raw sewage well out to sea where there would be no danger of the effluent contaminating beaches. The present outlets are situated close to shore.)

The meeting held in Mount View High School was chaired by Roy Ralfs. About 75 people were present, including municipal councillors and engineers.

Dr. Thornton said Victoria could not act too soon to improve its sewer disposal system in view of growing health hazards.

He warned that hepatitis was a most serious disease and would be the "most serious disease of the future."

He noted that some people were concerned at the costs of installing an adequate sewer disposal system.

But he advised them to weigh the costs of a disposal system against the cost of disease.

One case of hepatitis, he pointed out, cost about $2,500. This included hospitalization, treatment and loss of wages.

Speaking on the various sewage disposal systems, he said they all had problems.

No way had yet been found to eliminate virus diseases from either land or sea sewage disposal systems. This was the problem, he said.

He agreed with the sewer study report that the dumping of raw sewage well out to sea was a good one, but like the sewage farm disposal method, it did not solve the problem of virus infections.

"There is always the possibility of a concentration taking place in shell fish," he said. "These are eaten by people."

But the sea certainly eliminates bacteria," he added.

Mr. Ralfs said the Saanich Action Committee did not think the sewer study acceptable.

He denied that members were objecting to the proposed system on the grounds of costs.

"We do not think it can be done without increasing health hazards," he said. "A study should be launched to explore other methods of disposing sewage."

Dr. Albert Marino, of California, favored a land disposal sewage system which some towns and communities have adopted in his state.

Dr. Marino, chief of the division of environmental health of Placer County near Lake Tahoe in the northern part of the state, was specially invited by the committee to address the meeting.

He said in his district no sewage is discharged in mountain streams or lakes for reasons of health hazards and aesthetic factors.

He was shocked, he said, to hear that Victoria dumped raw sewage into the "bay." He was opposed to a water disposal system.

He qualified this, however, by saying that he was not acquainted with local conditions.

Later, Saanich Councillor Leslie Passmore pointed out to him the report recommended the discharge of sewage "well out to sea" and not in a "bay" or sheltered waters close to shore.

Dr. Marino advocated a probe into other methods of treating sewage.

He said pollution control boards were not effective bodies to control pollution because their terms of reference were limited by legislation.

Dumping sewage in water was hazardous, he said, because there were no standards set for the myriad of chemicals and minerals contained in sewage not totally removed by treatment that can be discharged into a stream.

"We know that biologic growths are common in waters, but the effects of accumulative chemicals in water is still unknown," he painted out.

He said the cost of a land disposal system was usually less expensive than the cost for very high degrees of treatment that would be necessary for discharge in streams or the sea.

Dr. Alan Austin, biologist at the University of Victoria, also called for a further study into other methods for treating sewage.

John Priestman, an engineer who assisted in the sewer study, said the sea was the most effective method for treating sewage.

Under the proposed plan. he pointed out, the outfall would be taken out to sea where the bacteria and air in the water would permit purification.

Cost to install a land disposal system would be astronomical, he said, because it would involve re-designing the system to collect the effluent on land.

"And suitable land is limited in this area," he said, "because of rock and clay."

He did not see any necessity for installing a treatment plant to break up sewage before it is discharged.

"The capital costs for a treatment plant would be about $16,000,000," he said. "But over and above that there would be costs of maintenance and operation."

The treatment plant would permit a shorter outfall, he said.

"But the cost of taking sewage well out to sea is much cheaper," he said. "And the sea will treat the effluent just as effectively as a plant."

House Plan Out of Reach For Indians

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — British Columbia's lone Indian member of the legislature today claimed the federal government's off-reserve housing program for Indians, is "failing miserably."

The New Democratic Party member for Atlin in the extreme northwest corner of the province said the program is not working because it is too expensive for Indians.

Frank Calder said the program has priced itself out of reach for most Indians. The government, he said, has received 63 applications for housing from natives, but only two houses will actually be built with Ottawa's help in B.C.

The scheme offers mortgages through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, on small deposits. It also offers a second mortgage of $6,000 plus $1,000 for furnishings, which is cut by 10 per cent every year as long as payments are kept up on the main loan.

Mr. Calder said the ratio of loans to income forced applicants to get old or used homes.

"As things now stand, a native would have to have an annual income of more than $7,000 perhaps even more than $9,000, before he could acquire a new home.

TOO EXPENSIVE

"The program says that a person with an annual income of between $5,000 and $6,000 should get a house for about $17,600. But you could not possibly get a new one at that price.

NEW DRAMA TO '68 VOTE

RFK for McCarthy?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Robert F. Kennedy hinted Wednesday that he may alter his announced support of President Johnson in the 1968 election, adding new drama to the potential candidacy of Minnesota's Senator Eugene J. McCarthy.

Kennedy, New York Democrat, said McCarthy is likely to generate some important backing if he enters presidential primaries as an outspoken opponent of Johnson's Vietnam war policies.

Kennedy previously announced he will support President Johnson's expected bid for re-election despite his criticism of some of the president's Vietnam policies.

U.S. CLAIM BLASTED

New Space Bomb Denied by Soviet

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian commentator today described as a "fabrication" American assertions that Russia is developing an orbital space bomb.

The denial was contained in an article by Alexander Boiko in the English-language Moscow News. It was the first Russian comment on a Nov. 3 Washington news conference at which Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said the Russians are developing a "fractional orbital bomb system."

Although Boiko did not mention the phrase "orbital space bomb," he asked: "Why is it necessary for McNamara to make up fabrications about the Soviet Union?"

Boiko termed McNamara's statements "strange declarations" and said he failed to produce any proof of his assertions beyond citing a recent series of Cosmos satellite tests.

Water Tunnel Lining to Start

Work will commence on the first phase of a $2 million concrete lining job for the Sooke water tunnel.

The project will be completed in stages with 6,800 feet of tunnel, the primary objective.

Chief Water Commissioner Ron Upward said hard rock miners still have 2,000 feet to go before the tunnel is complete and that progress is being made at the rate of 25-feet a day.

The inner dimension of the tunnel will be eight feet once the concrete is in place.

The tunnel should be in full operation some time in 1970.

RUM PRICE TAKES JUMP

Action speaks louder than words the provincial government demonstrated Wednesday and it was a pretty rum show.

Barely one week after Premier Bennett made his second urgent appeal to businessmen to hold the line on prices, he signed a cabinet order adding a five per cent increase to the price of Liquor Control Board brand of Demerara rum.

It raises the price for a 25-ounce bottle from $8.25 to $8.65 and $4.45 to $4.65 depending on proof rating.

'They' Should Economize

THE SIX LIBERAL MEMBERS of the British Columbia legislature raise a pertinent point in insisting that provincial governments must practise anti-inflationary economy as well as the federal authority. In particular, they point out, Mr. Bennett's fulminations against Ottawa's management would carry more weight if he simultaneously proposed some retrenching measures of his own. On the contrary, while urging public economies, Mr. Bennett has warned that next year's provincial budget will be larger by millions and millions.

The test of any government economy program, of course, lies in the projects which can be curtailed. But remarkably few public works seem to fall into the "expendable" category. Everything is necessary to somebody. Mr. Bennett has made it clear that the vast hydro programs on the Peace and Columbia Rivers cannot be cut back in the slightest. Given the inescapable fact of their dominating existence, this is true. We are on an economic slide so far as the hydro development is concerned and could not easily halt the program.

Two other categories of building also demand priority, although the provincial government has indicated that delays may be anticipated. Hospitals and schools surely take a first place on any list of vital construction — and there is very little building of this kind in British Columbia today that is not on or close to an emergency basis. Beyond such needs, the choices become more debatable.

The long-awaited museum buildings will certainly be a welcome adjunct to our provincial facilities, but a hold-back in completion of the complex other than the main exhibition building which is now so nearly ready will be a reasonable move. A good deal of highway work could be postponed under the demands of retrenchment. And, as in all government administrations, a strict downhold in new hirings would help to curb the costly expansion of staffs which seems to be the normal accompaniment of public business.

These are measures which are being urged on the federal government; they are equally applicable to the provincial administrations, which have increased their expenditures, increased their borrowings and increased their costs on a scale comparable to that of the national government.

One salient factor, of course, should not be forgotten by those who demand governmental economies, particularly in the federal field. Almost all the great programs which have multi-million dollar budgets have been the government's answer to insistent public demands, to competitive bidding by opposition parties, and to the general trend of our day which sees governmental responsibility in many fields once held to be the duty and the prerogative of the individual. Costly welfare programs — each worthy in its way but not financed out of thin air — have added greatly to our national budget, cannot be abandoned or even reduced, and in some cases have proven merely stepping stones to still greater demands.

"The government ought to do it" is the common cry of today in answer to almost every human need. And it is raised with equal insistence when the chore in mind is cutting expenses. Let there be no complaint, then, when the government does. But true economies must begin, as they end, with the people.

Might, Right, etc.

ALL THE SIGNS FROM WASHington indicate, at this date at least, the Johnson administration is strongly against any attempt to convert the usual holiday truce periods in Vietnam into any lengthy pause in the bombing of the North. No official statement was made but both General Westmoreland, American commander in Vietnam, and Mr. Ellsworth Bunker, the ambassador to the Saigon government, publicly stated their views after consulting with President Johnson that past bombing truces had conferred "great additional advantage" to the enemy.

Secretary of State Rusk, meanwhile, says that he is willing to meet with a North Vietnamese representative anywhere to discuss peace. That Mr. Rusk is running little risk of having to take part in such a meeting so long as the bombing of the North goes on is perfectly obvious. What is not quite so obvious is the incongruity of his continuing challenge to the North Vietnamese to talk peace after his celebrated statement about the "billion Chinese armed with nuclear weapons."

Since Mr. Rusk so frankly admitted what has long been obvious, that American policy in Asia is essentially to accomplish the containment of China, his call for peace must ring even more hollowly in the ears of the Hanoi leaders. A Vietnam peace, to be consistent with the containment of China, must be a virtual surrender by the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese, an unlikely possibility.

The apparently invincible determination of President Johnson to pursue his war policy in the face of the rising wave of discontent in his own country is ominous. His reported intention to ignore public opinion on this issue coupled with the enormous powers wielded by the President in wartime and his growing impatience with dissent, place a dark cloud over the American scene. "Let us have faith that right makes might . . ." Mr. Johnson said this week, quoting President Lincoln. The problem is that growing numbers of people are coming to the conclusion that it is not a question of right making might, but the other way around.

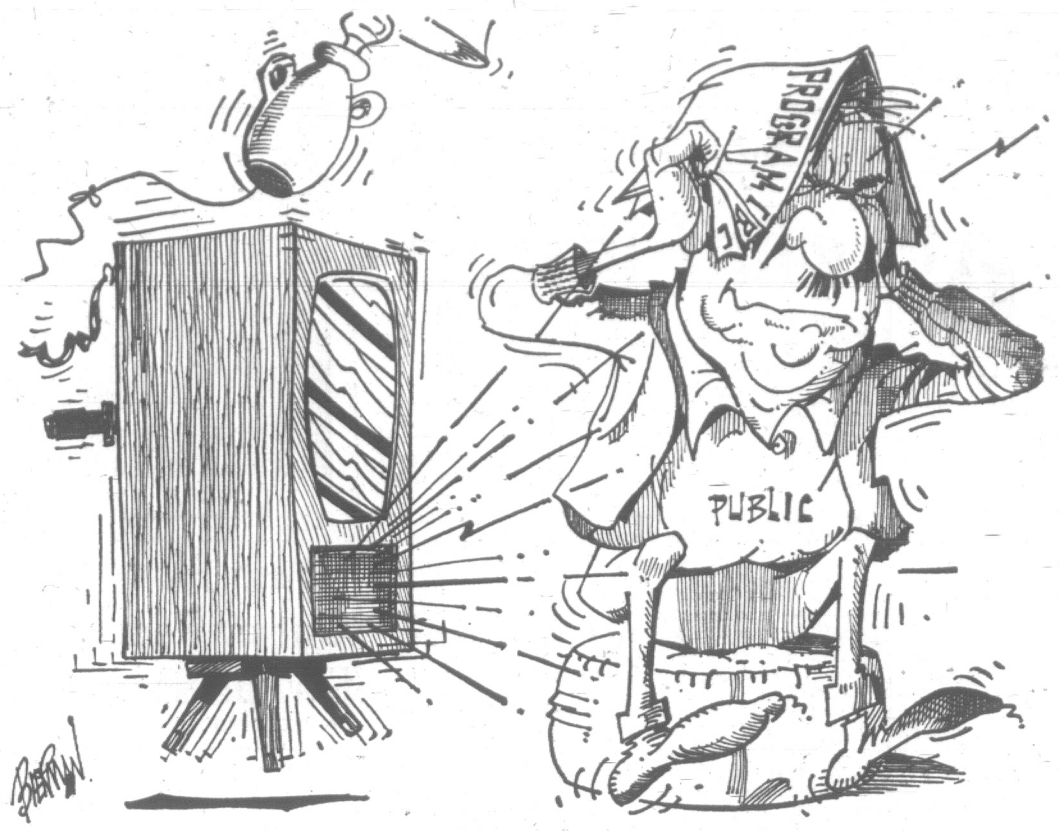
The Unwilling Colleague

THE ANNUAL CAMPAIGN TO find a United Nations seat for Red China has now undergone its familiar opening moves. Albania has entered its resolution to seat a Peking representative; the United States has registered its draft resolution urging that the matter is a "major issue" and hence requires a two-thirds majority vote.

Last year's prospects of making Red China a member of the world body raised proponents' hopes to a new high. There seemed to be a much wider acceptance of the idea, and Canada, traditionally in the "no" camp, prepared a resolution in favor of studying the whole question. When this appeared doomed, our representative abstained, indicating that at least we had left the ranks of the nations which consistently support the United States in its opposition.

But, as has so often been the case, Red China's actions in the past year have won no new supporters and must have dissuaded some who would make a placatory move. The fact is that Peking, in appearance and probably in fact, is averse to membership in the UN. The best argument that can be raised in favor of a seat is that it would give the other countries a closer contact with China in an effort to change its recalcitrant attitude.

Ultimately, of course, so large a gap in the international ranks must be filled. A nation with one fifth of the world's population cannot permanently remain outside of a world organization — particularly when that nation is rapidly becoming a nuclear power. But getting Red China in is an uphill struggle. It is not likely to be accomplished this year.



Lots of Sound But No Clear Picture

No B.C. Land Under Sea

By MAURICE WESTERN from Ottawa

IN the summer of 1965 British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Jean Lesage, then premier of Quebec, set off a succession of earth tremors by blasting the federal government for its attitude on off-shore mineral rights. Mr. Bennett, who had once threatened to settle the matter by taking Ottawa to court, was greatly incensed when the federal government — after agreement with British Columbia's minister of mines and petroleum resources — announced its intention of submitting a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Western

The judges, who were unanimous in the opinion delivered last week, have found against British Columbia on every point. Mr. Bennett, although a politician of talent, is thus exposed as being short on history and constitutional interpretation.

It is a most searching judgment, much too long to be reported in any detail here. The general argument, however, runs as follows:

For British Columbia to succeed, it had to show that the territorial sea (from low water mark out a "cannon's shot" or three nautical miles) was part of the colonial territory in 1871, the time of union. The reason is that the BNA Act makes provision for changing the boundaries of provinces and there has never been since union any alteration in the limits of British Columbia.

No Prior Term

But by the express terms of the Territorial Waters Jurisdiction Act, passed by the British Parliament in 1878, it was the law of England that applied to waters bounding Canada. The legislation is inconsistent with any theory that in 1878 the province of British Columbia possessed as part of its territory the solum of the territorial sea.

At that time Canada had not attained sovereignty. The effect of the 1878 Act was that the United Kingdom claimed a jurisdiction in respect of the Dominion of Canada. It was not until 1928 that the phrase "territorial waters of Canada" replaced "British waters" in our legislation.

The rights which now exist in the territorial sea arise by international law and depend upon recognition by other sovereign states. "Legislative jurisdiction in relation to the lands in question belongs to Canada, which is a sovereign state recognized by international law and thus able to make arrangements with other states respecting the rights in the territorial sea."

At issue also were the lands of the continental shelf, lying beyond the three-mile limit. As the territorial sea is beyond the boundaries of British Columbia, so is the shelf and only Canada will be recognized by international law as having the rights set out in the convention on the continental shelf.

What does all this mean? Simply that the resources of the sea bed are not the property of a single province but of Canada. If the federal government had bowed to the demands of Mr. Bennett, backed by Mr. Lesage, it would have sacrificed the interest of people in other provinces (such as Alberta and Saskatchewan) which have no sea coasts. But even coastal provinces might have been affected for large areas of shelf may be lacking in resources of value in the foreseeable future.

Exceptions

The B.C. case does not settle everything. Thus the Bay of Fundy apparently has a special status since the royal instructions to Governor Carleton defined the southern boundary of New Brunswick as "a line in the centre of the bay . . . from the River St. Croix aforesaid to the mouth of the Musquat River. Similarly Conception Bay has been declared to be part of the territory of Newfoundland.

It is perhaps to be expected that certain of the provinces will now seek a political settlement. This is what happened in the United States after the federal government's legal title had been upheld by the Supreme Court. Any political settlement in the wake of last week's judgment would, however, be of concern to all Canadians for clearly any concessions made to some provinces by the federal government could only be at the expense of other provinces.

BEYOND NATIONAL FENCES — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

World Corporations—Model of the Future

THE two most interesting men I met in Britain were as unlike in looks, origins and circumstances as men can be.

Anthony Wedgwood Benn abandoned a title of nobility to become minister of technology in a Labor government comically called "socialist." He is young, pale, intense and brilliant—something of a genius and perhaps a prime minister of the future. George W. Ball, a burly American of rubicund face, outsized stature and soaring inventive mind, abandoned a lucrative career in law and business to become the second man in the state department and then to retire because he disagreed with the Johnson government's Vietnam policies.

Hutchison

These two men, so completely disparate in nature and, as I understand, unknown to each other, have come together, quite unconsciously, in their thinking on the human situation. And their thoughts are the most useful imports that a Canadian is likely to bring back with him from London.

Since our talks were off the record, I cannot quote either man but, by lucky chance, both had just delivered extraordinary public speeches in exact parallel, largely ignored by the press. Here, though they are of the highest importance (especially to Canada) I can only summarize them crudely.

Commitment

Mr. Benn the aristocrat who calls himself a socialist, begins with the remarkable pledge that the Labor government is totally committed to "the success and profitability" of private enterprise in Britain. He adds that "no previous British government of any party has hitherto entered into such a commitment."

While the British economy must always be "mixed" with deep intervention by the state, "the profitability of a mixed economy is an essential prerequisite of economic growth and commercial success." So much for the myth of pure "socialism" and the evils of profit still nourished by a dwindling group of nostalgic socialists of Canada.

Having escaped the old prison of ideology, Mr. Benn argues that "the growth of modern technology, with its very high cost of capital investment, is forcing government and industry together by challenging both of them directly."

Thus the opposite myths of Russian communism and American capitalism perish along with the myth of socialism. The Russians, says Mr. Benn, are returning to the heresy of the profit motive and in the United States the new "military-industrial complex" is a "public sector" of the economy "which makes even the most radical British interventionist look like an amateur."

Pragmatism

Between these giants, whose labels and slogans are out of date, Mr. Benn suspects that the flexible, pragmatic system now developing in Britain by consent of both political parties may well be a "focal point" and grand compromise "upon which other societies are converging."

So far the argument is easy to follow. But Mr. Benn lifts it to a new and unfamiliar level where the thinking of the Canadian government, the opposition and the NDP has not yet arrived. In a word, he has grasped the fact that modern technology is basically revolutionizing the world economy, and man's entire way of life, in a totally unexpected fashion and making most of his economic and political notions quite obsolete.

The first phase of this revolution proclaims itself in vast, privately-owned international corporations, most of them based in the United States. Already "they have established such superiority over their international competitors that no single European country, even if it merged every company in a single field into one monolithic industrial group, could alone stand against them. I am certain that corporations like those hold the future of the world's high-technology industries in their hands."

Hence Britain must get into this field of private super-industry by "building viable units, first on a national, then on an international basis so that companies that emerge are truly international in character and not solely extensions of American industrial power with all the political implications that that would have.

"Looking further ahead, I see a distant possibility that such corporations . . . might become truly multi-continental, penetrating and superseding national and ideological frontiers."

This sudden realization that the future belonged largely to gigantic international business concerns, and not to narrow, nationalistic and old-fashioned socialism or capitalism, converted Mr. Benn from a strong opponent to a leading advocate of Britain's membership in the Common Market. From that step (unfortunately not yet taken) he looks "beyond continental parochialism towards something far bigger."

For General Good

What he is looking for is a shrunken but affluent world where man's wealth is developed with maximum efficiency in the right places for the general good, regardless of national boundaries and outworn sovereignty.

It is curious that Mr. Ball, without hearing of Mr. Benn's speech on October 17, met a group of British industrialists next night and laid down precisely the same general concept of the future from an American and a so-called capitalist viewpoint. In principle, if not in method, the two men are intellectual twins.

Mr. Ball begins, out of long experience "on the exposed steppes of diplomacy and practical politics," by declaring that "the political boundaries of nation-states are too narrow and constrictive to define the scope and activities of modern business."

Like Mr. Benn, he sees in the international corporation an unprecedented, unique phenomenon erupting like a volcano to change the whole landscape of the world. As one of its anonymous midwives, he expects the Common Market to include Britain "within a few months or years" but even then it will be no more than a preliminary step in the evolution of a world where technology and big business laugh at the frontiers of nations.

It is only by using this new and prodigious device to achieve maximum production everywhere that man can escape "a Darwinian debacle" as population explodes.

The policies of great nations, including his own, says Mr. Ball, have failed so far to comprehend the real economic revolution but business men, ignoring politics, are quietly basing their own plans "on the operating assumption of a total world economy." Commerce, as usual, "has been in advance of politics." And today's "artificial person," the nationless corporation and world citizen, who cares little for governments or theories, is—"only the beginning."

As an erudite international lawyer and banker, as well as a practical statesman of perhaps unequalled experience in three professions, Mr. Ball recognizes that the movement toward a total world economy must collide, and already is colliding, with national sovereignty — most notably, he adds, in Canada, which he knows intimately.

"Conflict," he warns, "will increase between the world corporation, which is a modern concept evolved to meet the requirements of a modern age, and the nation-state, which is badly adapted to the needs of our present complex world."

With a daring but typical lunge into the unknown, Mr. Ball proposes some international authority, established by treaty, to license and control the new corporate colossi so that they may nourish man's wealth without abusing his natural rights and his differing national aspirations.

He is too old a hand in international affairs to expect "world government or anything resembling it" for a long time. Yet short of "such an apocalyptic development" the new international technology has its political implications. "For freeing commerce from national interference through the creation of new world instrumentalities would inevitably, over time, help to stimulate mankind to close the gap between the archaic political structure of the world and the visions of commerce which vault beyond confining national boundaries to exploit the full promise of the world economy."

Brave Heresy

These are brave, heretical words from an American "capitalist" and Mr. Ball is the first to admit that the policies of his own nation have often contravened his concept of the actual world as it is now reshaping itself from top to bottom.

He admits, for example, doubtless thinking of Canada, that the United States has sometimes "sought to enforce its domestic legislation abroad by trying to extend its writ to the actions of foreign subsidiaries of American companies. I hope and expect that it will prove a diminishing problem. More and more in my country there is a growing realization that we cannot use world corporations based in America as vehicles to export our own national psyche, our prejudices . . . If we are going to be consistent in our encouragement of the world economy and the world company that inhabits it, we shall have to change our ways."

Mr. Benn, the socialist, has said virtually the same thing. Alas, the politicians in Ottawa, obsessed with narrow national problems of their own making, are too busy and too desperate at the moment to distinguish the international forest from the local trees.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From the Times, Nov. 16, 1907.

Vancouver — W. L. Mackenzie King, deputy minister of labor, who is in Vancouver conducting an investigation into Oriental immigration, was a guest of the Canadian Club yesterday.

He spoke on industrial peace and contrasted conditions in Canada with those in the U.S. and Europe during the year.

He also spoke strongly in favor of a permanent board of conciliation to take up matters of disputes in all industries between employer and employees.

Letter

Drums and Bagpipes

Former Minister of Defence Hellyer admonished students in Toronto not to be "great moralists" in protesting the sales of war materials to the U.S.A., reminding them they were beholden, in part, to that source for their academic opportunites in this country. This is a shocker of an admission on the part of a Candian cabinet minister. There will not be too many Canadians who subscribe to a financial formula that abets the burning of people alive in Indo-China in order to finance Canadian universities.

We need money for medicare, education, housing, in this country. Our less fortunate cousins in underdeveloped countries require assistance to become established. Slash the Canadian arms budget down to drums and bagpipes, Mr. Sharp.—P. Gibbens, 1205 Fernwood.

Sharp Candid Enough To Admit Uncertainty

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

One of us had a chat with Mr. Sharp, the Minister of Finance, on Friday evening not long after he told the Commons that the government had decided to introduce new temporary tax measures later this month.

Fisher

He made an impression regarding several disparate matters.

The first impression was one of Mr. Sharp as a politician with his own ambitions to lead the government and his party.

That such ambitions had, at least for a brief time, put off the confrontation with a likely unpopularity implicit in the news of tax increases; that the needs of the ministry had ousted the temptations of higher office.

Thus the minister senses the course ahead may be rough and dubious enough to cripple his hopes to be prime minister. Of course, there's nothing surprising in this.

Crowe

Mr. Sharp is not a fool and realism has its dictates. What seemed unusual was the candor of the man on this point. It made him seem more attractive as a man and most disarming.

Mr. Sharp told how he and his senior advisers had had an evening together a few weeks ago in Brazil with their counterparts of Great Britain and the United States.

The discussion had centred on the same dilemma, common to all three countries.

The markets for bonds are in a bad way. New issues are hard to move despite high interest rates. Bond values are inordinately low. Why? It was easier to be discursive than to be precise.

Such a reluctance to purchase bonds seemed to have a most direct relationship to a broad psychological mood which has captured the opinions of the business communities.

In all three countries, stocks are a much better answer to the inflationary trends than bonds.

A more fascinating and disturbing aspect of this common psychological problem was that none of the three governments was sure in any absolute fashion what needed to be done.

The simplest way to explain the general difficulty is that sharp increases in taxation traditionally represent a use of fiscal policy to "cool out" an economy, to slow it down.

This process and higher interest charges usually are used to introduce elements of deflation, or put more positively, to bridle inflation.

The desire is strong in government to curb inflation but the interest rates on capital are too high and, preferably and hopefully, must not go higher.

Thus the taxation increases may do something that isn't wanted in this program to stabilize the bond market and to cut back the very high levels of interest.

This would be any curtailment of both private investing and consumer demand of a scale which could or would accelerate unemployment, lay-offs, and a general economic slump.

The point to be drawn from Mr. Sharp's candor (or so it seems to us) is that he said the government are not positive that the tax increases and the concomitant cuts or holding-down of government spending are going to work perfectly.

But there were no other alternatives unless more rigid measures such as wage profits, and price controls are to be used.

In the months ahead there is the possibility that we may get a better bond market at the expense of unemployment.

Mr. Sharp kept reiterating that the problem was essentially one of confidence or lack of it in government self-control. The government had to take the lead in creating a new mood.

The most unique feature opened up by the announcement of intentions is the delay. Through the delay we'll have a sharp public debate and much speculation on the nature of the increases.

Often, before a budget, there are indicators and hints or suggestions about tax increases but in the main the surprise is substantial and some changes are often unexpected.

Now we know increases are certain and that their scale must be substantial. It seems clear that increases in sales tax are most unlikely.

Why? It's rather high now and it has been tending to be earmarked, at least under Mr. Sharp, as the tax hitting everybody to pay for higher welfare costs. To raise more revenue from custom tariff increases would go against the whole grain of the freer trade trend, aside from the contribution such increases would make to further inflation.

Therefore, personal income and corporation income, the two main sources of budgetary revenue, seem certain to be hit.

The impost on corporation income would seem more likely to be a token increase because a big one would set the business community howling with another grievance.

Thus, the obvious victims would seem to be citizens with income above the $6,000-$7,000-a-year range.

Many of us will feel the tax increases but the real question is whether they will work in lowering interest rates and firming the bond market. Mr. Sharp thinks they will but he's candid enough to say that it isn't certain.

Crustaceans Are Basic To Economy of the Sea

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Whether measured in terms of bulk or numbers crustaceans form the greater part of the planktonic animal life in the open sea. Some are permanent members of this pelagic, free-floating world spending their whole time drifting with the current; others are temporary components, larval stages that will eventually settle on the bottom to take up a more sedentary way of life.

Carl

The bulkiest constituents are the shrimp-like forms, measuring a half-inch or more in length, which when massed together make up what is known as "krill" or "whale-feed." These delicately constructed creatures exist in such incredible numbers that they form the mainstay for the largest species of whales each of which requires tons every day for food. These immense aggregations, which literally color the ocean pink, also support great numbers of birds of several kinds, plus many species of fish and any other creatures capable of catching them. Despite the great drains on their number their reproductive rate seems to be sufficient to maintain the species in perpetuity.

Less conspicuous but possibly even more abundant are the many species of small crustaceans called copepods. These tiny animals, some scarcely larger than a pinhead, also exist in numbers beyond count and are of prime importance in the food chain leading from bacteria and diatoms to fish, seals and whales. Copepods are distinguished by having long, strongly-developed feelers which they use as oars to propel themselves through the water in a series of jerks. Some movement is provided between strokes by the paddle-like swimming feet which also serve to create a tiny current of water carrying food to the mouth.

The temporary users of the open water are mostly the young of various species of crabs, shrimps, barnacles and related arthropods. These are larval stages quite unlike their parents in appearance and designed to swim free for a period to ensure dispersal from their point of origin.

During their nomadic life each one passes through a series of stages of development until it settles down in the adult form. Until the final metamorphosis most are quite unrecognizable, giving no hint whatsoever as to the identity of the parents. Some are most bizarre. The early stages of crabs, for example, are tiny gnome-like creatures with huge eyes, and a helmet-shaped shell decorated with many spines and other projections. Similarly, baby barnacles resemble young copepods for awhile; after some weeks they change their shape, develop a temporary shell and settle down on some solid object where they begin to construct a permanent covering of limey material.

Life in the open water requires some special adaptions on the part of the creatures that live there. In the first place, especially in the case of crustaceans, they tend to be small. This minimizes the tendency to sink so that less swimming effort is required to keep afloat. To further increase buoyancy much of the animal's food is stored as oil or fat globules which reduces the specific gravity of the body to almost equal that of the water. In addition the body is often greatly extended in the form of spines and other hair-like outgrowths, all of which help to keep the animal afloat like thistle-down in air.

Finally, most planktonic creatures are translucent if not transparent, which makes them practically invisible when immersed in water. Often the only parts that can be seen are the eyes, which usually contain dark pigment cells, and part of the digestive gland or the reproductive organs which may contain colorful material. Individually, they thus escape notice of all but the sharpest-eyed predators; only when massed together are they likely to be detected by the regular plankton feeders.

The crustaceans have demonstrated remarkable ability in adapting themselves to life in open water and by so doing they now form an indispensable factor in the economy of the sea.

U.S. Ripe For Hate Coalition

NEW REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON — Richard Rovere in a thoughtful article in The New Yorker said: "No government that is not totalitarian can go on indefinitely fighting a hard war that its people hate. Something has to give."

Rovere gloomily speculated that American democracy, under certain circumstances might not survive: "Repression," he noted, "is the safest, cheapest course for any government to take."

Daniel P. Moynihan, Harvard-MIT Urban Studies director and a firm liberal, warns other liberals that "all the signs declare that the violence (of Negro militants) has not ended. Worse still . . . we must prepare for the onset of terrorism."

Again there is the gloomy note. In part at least the Rovere and Moynihan points are alike (one deals with Vietnam and the other with the Negro revolt). Mild civil disobedience threatens to turn or is turning to militant defiance.

Repression

The answer to this is repression. Anybody would be a fool to close his eyes to it.

We have watched American democracy at close hand for many years and we believe few governments are institutionally so susceptible to dictatorship as this one.

The President becomes all but a dictator in a major war. The real test comes (and we hope far in the future) when the U.S. loses a war or meets a cruel humiliation; then the search for a conspiracy and a scapegoat starts and the Right moves in to protect us from the Left.

We have no thought of anything of that nature now. After all, we are not losing the war in Vietnam, we are simply not winning it and, again, we have never been so prosperous (partly, of course, because of the splendid profits from our military-industrial complex).

Great Fear

But this reporter went through the McCarthy period. It left an indelible impression. There was fear everywhere, but the most craven were the Respectables. Some had a political stake in McCarthy, like Bob Taft, some had mystic conservative rapport like polemicist William Buckley, but the great ruminant mass of the affluent were simply scared spitless.

Defend democracy? Ha! They would keep heads down like Germans under Hitler.

McCarthy never got anywhere because, at heart, he had no doctrine; he had no ambition except to cow people; he was — as Richard Rovere himself declared — essentially frivolous.

But we heard ex-governor George Wallace over the radio last week. It was just one of those vivid, live, one-minute fragments from a speech in a CBS newscast. It was like a trumpet; a trumpet of hate that jerked you out of your seat like cold water on a raw nerve.

In a single tense rush of words and venom he excoriated "bearded professors," student war protestors and violators of "law and order," and his words brought a crash of applause.

Enemy Named

He had named the enemy: nonconformists, intellectuals, peace-lovers and Negroes.

We see no end of the war and we see no end of controversy over civil rights, and we see political passions inflamed by the presidential election next year.

If ever there was an opportunity for a top-notch demagogue to make a coalition of hate between white Anglo-Saxon Protestants and lower middle-class ethnic groups, it lies ahead and Wallace, unlike McCarthy, isn't lazy, isn't a drunk and has a philosophy.

Spectre of Ramsay MacDonald Haunting British Labor Party

By KENNETH HARRIS

LONDON—Behind the bitter public debate going on within the ruling British Labor party about the government's economic policy in general, and its policy towards unemployment in particular, is a profound loss of confidence in Prime Minister Harold Wilson on the part of a very large minority within the parliamentary Labor party.

The seriousness of the situation—nearly 70 Labor MPs have now publicly expressed misgivings about the government's economic policy, and the majority over the Conservative Opposition in the House of Commons is less than 90—is not to be traced back merely to 1964, when the Labor party was returned to power after 13 years in opposition on the basis of pledges which have been broken.

Further Back

It has to be traced further back, to 1931, when then-Labor prime minister Ramsay MacDonald decided that Britain's economic problems could be met only by deflationary policies, including a reduction in unemployment pay.

When the bulk of the Labor party refused to agree with him, Ramsay MacDonald joined a Conservative-dominated "National Coalition." Labor was overwhelmingly defeated in the subsequent general election, and for the next four years had only 50 or so MPs in the House of Commons.

The traumatic experience of 1931 is still regarded in the Labor party as "the great betrayal," and the measure of the difficulties which Wilson is in at the moment is the readiness of MPs to refer to the danger of the prime minister "doing a 1931."

Even on Right

One encounters this, not only in the party's left wing, which is predictably opposed to Wilson's policies, but in members of the centre and right wing of the party who would be much more objective and less doctrinaire in their approach.

Prominent among the promises and predictions of the Labor party in 1964—and no one stated them more uncompromisingly than Harold Wilson—was the commitment to maintain full employment, the pledge that there would be no legislation to restrict free trade union bargaining, and the assurance that the general problem presented by the British economy would be solved by expansion, increased production—in other words, growth.

Between the general election of 1964, which Labor won with a majority of only four, and that of 1966, which they won with a majority of 98, Wilson was faced with two major financial crises in which, his party came to understand, he was subjected to great pressure from the world's central banks and the Bank of England for him to abandon policies which were leading to inflation and adopt a strong deflationary line.

Wilson allowed it to become known that he had vigorously resisted these pressures—had refused to allow the bankers at home or abroad to force a duly-elected Labor government into falling back on outmoded, discredited and ineffective Conservative remedies.

During the election campaign of 1966, he spoke with pride of the fact that Britain was then expanding her way out of her difficulties without being forced to adopt these disproven methods.

But within a few months, in July, 1966, there was a tremendous volte-face. There was another financial crisis, and the main reason given for the pressure on the pound sterling was the strike of the National Union of Seamen. We were "blown off course" said Wilson.

HAROLD WILSON

The outcome of the crisis was the government's decision to impose deflationary measures more stringent than any single set of measures imposed by a Conservative government since—the magical word—1931. And, as a consequence, unemployment in Britain is now running at a level not parallelled at any time since the late '30s.

Rankling

But this is not what rankles in the minds of the rank and file of the Labor party. It is not that unemployment is now so high; it is that this unemployment was deliberately induced by the government.

Worse than that, in their minds—and this is where we go back to the thinking of 1931—the unemployment was deliberately induced not because it was a real economic remedy but, as was so powerfully argued by the bulk of the Labor party who disavowed MacDonald in 1931, because it offered the only possible basis on which Labor could continue in power in view of the attitude of international capital as made articulate by the international banks and the Bank of England.

From 1931 on, in the folklore of the Labor party, the inevitable showdown between a Labor government and the banks had become almost an article of faith. One of the first acts of the Attlee government of 1945-51 was to nationalize the Bank of England. But to make a public servant of the Bank of England avails very little when, as a result of Britain's very much weakened position in the world of international finance, one of the bank's main roles is to tell the government how the banks of the world view Britain's trading position..

Condemnation

And the terrible message of July, 1966, for the Labor party was that when the Bank of England really got through its message that international finance was condemning the general basis of the Labor government's economic policy, and in particular its commitment to full employment, the government gave way.

The defence offered by the government of what it did in July, 1966, is perfectly simple, and to my mind, quite convincing. It was that none of the retreats were anything but tactical, and taken as a whole they are calculated to provide a platform from which a tremendous forward movement of the British economy can begin, offering unprecedented encouraging results in 1968.

But the mind of a party member—whatever his party—is made up only partly of rational analysis, partly of party folklore. At the moment, I think, it is a very superior-minded member of the Labor party in whose mind the prospects of the 1966 "retreat" leading to the first realistic basis for an advance towards a socialist state looms larger than a sense of guilt and disillusionment engendered by the feeling that 1966 was one step back on the road to 1931.

Supposing, that kind of mind asks itself, and indeed asks its friends, the government fails to achieve the results in 1968 for which the 1966 sacrifices were made? Suppose unemployment remains high, and production remains low, and the pound remains weak, and nothing seems to be done, and the government, after 3½ years in power, seems to be weak.

Neat Move

Will Prime Minister Wilson then stick to his guns, and go to the country for a general election with flags flying, and go down to defeat fighting? Or will he, claiming that the national interest has to come above all else, agree to form a coalition government with the Conservatives?

It would be quite unfair, and needlessly damaging to the Labor party, to the national interest, and to all those interests in which Britain's well-being is an integral part, to make out that the whole of the Labor party is lying awake at night, tossing and turning in the weighing of this turbulent train of thought.

But it would be equally untruthful to conceal the fact that thoughts like these are the deep invisible undercurrent which is responsible for the pattern of the waves which make the surface day to day of the British political scene.

Not Party

What is going on around government in Britain today is not the result of arguments between the two main parties about what is the right policy for Britain. Nor is it arguments within the party in power about what is specifically the right kind of economic policy to deal with the short-term and long-term economic problems.

The underlying question is whether the government of the day has, in the minds of its most devoted and intelligent supporters, inside and outside Parliament, learned the lesson of history and acquired the vision and the courage to act in accordance with it.

GARRET LIFE GOOD FOR ARTIST

WASHINGTON — Rumer Godden believes that a garret and a little starvation never hurt any aspiring young writer, artist or composer.

Consequently, she is "dead set" against grants for young, untried artists — writers in particular. She also regards the American fondness for creative writing courses with suspicion.

The British author of novels and children's books whose husband, James Haynes-Dixon, is accompanying her on her lecture tour to schools and universities, is from a family of painters. One ancestor Sir Charles Barry, designed the Houses of Parliament.

Growing up in India provides the background for her novels, "Two under the Indian Sun" (written jointly with her sister, Jon) and "The River," which became a movie. "An Episode of Sparrows," "The Battle of the Villa Fiorita" and "Black Narcissus" were also made into movies.

She has written many other works of fiction and non-fiction for adults and a number of children's books, including "The Dolls' House" and "Impunity Jane"

"Until writers have learned to struggle, they don't get tough. And if they don't learn that, they don't survive," says Miss Godden. "If I had grants to give . . . I would give them to someone who was 10 to 15 years into a career and badly needed a little peace. Or to old writers who weren't in the current vogue."

As for creative writing courses, "I have sat in on some of them and I think they are nonsense," she said. "You are born with talent or you are not. It isn't something that can be implanted."

Although she makes no particular point of it, Rumer Godden is on familiar terms with hard times. Towards the end of World War II, with her husband a war casualty, she was left with two daughters to bring up "with nothing but my wits."

She and her children were living in Kashmir at the time.

"I used to get up every morning at 4:30 to write and again at night when they were in bed. It was pretty tough. I couldn't even afford tea and coffee. Those were expensive luxuries . . . I had to have milk for the children instead."

Rumer Godden has been writing since she was a child. At five, she wrote hymns ("I was sent home to live with my grandmother and that was a very religious Anglican family"). At eight, she wrote a "highly fictitious autobiography that showed, she said, not the slightest flicker of talent.

"My sister Jon wrote a novel; it was a love story about a carrot. She was much more imaginative."

Although life is more tranquil now than 20 years ago, Miss Godden is just as involved in her work. She has just finished a book, "The Kitchen Madonna," which Viking will publish in December.

OPTIMISTS SALUTE 'BOY OF THE DAY'

What's the matter with kids today?

Optimist clubs of North America say there's little wrong that a pat on the back won't fix. The Optimist motto is "Friend of the Boy".

Accordingly, clubs in Oak Bay, Victoria and the Evening Club have chosen six boys who are representative of their age groups. Each will be "Boy of the Day" during this week.

Murray played baseball with the American Little League champs this year, plays minor league and school soccer and also basketball. His school marks are good, and he enjoys all subjects. He plays the snare drum in the junior school band (Lansdowne) and still finds time for a Victoria Times paper route. His savings go toward bonds and university.

Youngest in a family of six, he's good natured and a persistent questioner which is in line with his ambition to be a lawyer. Born in Victoria, Murray's father is Times news editor Bill Walker, who also won a reputation in sports in this city.

No Reduction Yet In Postal Deliveries

OTTAWA (CP) — There will be no immediate reduction to a five-day week for domestic postal delivery, Postmaster-General Cote said Wednesday.

In a prepared statement, he said that although he favors the five-day week because it means an annual saving of $8,000,000 in staff costs, he will wait until such factors as public reaction, cost of mail storage space for weekend pile-ups and possible interruption of services are determined.

Some of the estimated $8,000,000 savings would be lost through the cost of providing mail storage space across the country if a five-day week were adopted, said Mr. Cote.

The minister said he is concerned also with assessing costs, and the public and business community's opinion before making any decision on domestic delivery reductions.

Social Work School To Open in 1969

The University of Victoria is expanding rapidly but not as fast as the Times suggests.

Wednesday's edition carried a story saying a new school of social work will open next September. The school is scheduled to open in September of 1969.

FOUR DEATHS IN NEW ENGLAND

Heavy Snowfall Causes Massive Traffic Jam

BOSTON (AP)—A violent storm dumped up to 13 inches of snow on parts of New England Wednesday, causing at least four deaths and a massive traffic jam in the Boston area.

Motorists were stuck in Boston traffic for hours. Many left their offices at 5 p.m.—and by midnight had progressed only a few blocks.

Thousands of cars ran out of gasoline or stalled when their batteries went dead and many motorists abandoned their cars on the street.

Robert Jones, a Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority bus driver, said students from area colleges, including Harvard and Boston University, were pushing cars, directing traffic and bringing coffee, sandwiches and cookies to stranded motorists.

He said the students apparently "were digging into their own pockets to buy the food and coffee which they handed out."

A Boston City Hospital doctor and a nurse ran through the blinding snow to deliver a baby girl in a car trapped in traffic two blocks away.

Both mother and baby later were reported in good condition.

MONTREAL ALL WHITE

MONTREAL (CP) — Montrealers struggled through snow drifts and traffic snarls Wednesday after winter's first storm dumped 3½ inches of snow on the city and nine inches elsewhere in southern Quebec.

Quebec City received two to three inches of snow.

ADAMS

X-15 PILOT:

Last Words: 'I'm in A Spin'

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — "I'm in a spin . . . I'm in a spin."

Those words from the calm-voiced pilot of an X-15 rocket plane that plunged into the desert from an altitude of more than 50 miles Wednesday left investigators with a mystery.

Air Force Maj. Michael J. Adams died in the crash. Adams reported control troubles, but officials say that alone wasn't enough to cause the crash.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said Adams may have delayed pulling his ejection mechanism in a last-ditch effort to gain control. That delay may have cost him his life.

"There was apparently some kind of control malfunction as the pilot attempted to pull out of his descent," a NASA spokesman said.

REGAINED CONTROL

Adams had reported control problems with the plane's dampers—devices to reduce oscillation as the craft is controlled. Then radar trackers showed he had regained control—but only for a few seconds.

After flights investigating manoeuvrability in space, X-15s descend from high altitude on a glide path about 30 degrees below horizontal. The stubby ships come down pancake style as they enter denser atmosphere, where the pilot switches from automatic to manual control.

Adams was on his 11th flight. The craft was dropped from the belly of a B-52 at 10:30 a.m. and shot to about 265,000 feet on a routine research flight.

The X-15 burns its 10 tons of fuel in about 85 seconds as it accelerates. Then the ship noses over and begins the long dive to earth.

As it enters denser atmosphere the pilot begins to pull the craft out of its dive and begins a glide to a landing. This is where Adams ran into trouble.

The X-15 holds the record for manned flight of 4,534 miles an hour set Oct. 3, 1967. It also holds the record altitude mark of 354,200 feet—67 miles, set Aug. 22, 1963, by the late Joe Walker.

B.C. Pledges 'Intensive Scrutiny'

A spokesman for the B.C. attorney-general's department today said the draft revision of the Juvenile Delinquents Act would receive "intensive scrutiny."

He said the 260-page document arrived here only Wednesday and it was too early to comment.

But deputy attorney-general Dr. Gilbert Kennedy is expected to make a detailed presentation of B.C. views at a federal-provincial meeting of officials in Ottawa, probably Jan. 10 and 11, to discuss the federal proposals.

Attorney-General Bonner has been severely critical of several aspects of the present Juvenile Delinquents Act which are changed in the proposed revision.

He had argued that it was indefensible to tag a juvenile with a criminal record for offences against traffic regulations which are not classified as crimes and do not result in records for adult offenders.

'Sewage Odor Comes From U.S.'

It comes, says city engineer James Garnett, from the pulp mill at Port Townsend in Washington State and is caused by temperature inversion or wind.

He said he is "well aware" of the odor, and while it might smell like sewage, it wasn't.

Many years ago he checked into the matter and established it came from across the water.

BY U.S. SENATE COMMITTEE

Curbs on Presidency Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate foreign relations committee today unanimously approved a resolution saying the United Sates should not get involved in any future conflicts like Vietnam without specific congressional sanction.

The committee, also by a unanimous 14-0 vote, with five members absent, approved a second resolution urging President Johnson to make a new effort to get action by the United Nations Security Council to try to end the war.

Neither resolution would have the force of law, but the foreign relations committee chairman, Sen. J. William Fulbright, told reporters he believed they would have a "healthy effect" on future actions both by the president and by Congress.

It will assure that in the future, he said, Congress will at least spend more time deliberating and studying the ramifications of resolutions of presidential support "even in the midst of presidential campaigns."

HE EVEN VOTED WITH GOVERNMENT

It Was a Busy Day for Bob

OTTAWA (CP) — It was a big day for Bob Stanfield, former premier of Nova Scotia.

Beginning at 10:30 a.m., Mr. Stanfield:

—Was sworn in as member of Parliament for Colchester-Hants.

—Took his seat in the Commons as leader of the official Opposition.

Joined critics of State Secretary Judy LaMarsh for her "rotten management" charge against CBC top brass.

In a brief ceremony in the office of Commons Clerk Alistair Fraser at 10:30 a.m., Mr. Stanfield became an MP when he signed the oath of allegiance which says: "I do swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Second."

Mr. Fraser then handed Mr. Stanfield a parliamentary rule book, a railway pass and the key to his office.

It was to all-party applause that Mr. Stanfield took his seat as the Commons opened at 2:30 p.m.

He thanked all those who made him welcome and said a good opposition is essential to good government. If the Conservatives could improve the government, all Canadians would rejoice.

He took the front-row seat previously occupied by John Diefenbaker, Mr. Diefenbaker was absent.

Later in the Commons Mr. Stanfield voted with the government against a motion to adjourn debate for the rest of the day on a government bill to limit the death penalty to murderers of policemen and prison guards. The motion was defeated 125 to 71.

Mr. Stanfield told his followers they were free to vote as they chose, and they did: 57 voted for adjournment, 15 joined him in voting against the motion.

UNITY A MUST

Later in the day, Mr. Stanfield told a gathering at the opening of the new Macdonald-Cartier library that unless the Conservative party makes Canadian unity a fact today, it fails both the past and the future.

The party had to be a "genuine institution of innovation" and develop the habit of establishing precedents.

He switched briefly to French and got a round of applause. "I get most applause from those who live in Saskatchewan," he said with a smile.

On the CBC television program 20-Million Questions, Mr. Stanfield said State Secretary Judy LaMarsh had done nothing to improve respect for government with her charge of rotten management in the CBC.

He said Miss LaMarsh's statement on the Pierre Berton television show was exceedingly regrettable and bound to be demoralizing to the CBC.

Canada Backs Study Of Seabed Jurisdiction

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada urged Wednesday an "imaginative and yet cautious" aproach in considering possible internationalizing the resources of the seabed and ocean floor.

Allan Gotlieb, assistant undersecretary of state for external affairs, joined earlier speakers in complimenting the delegation of Malta for bringing this matter before the UN—the only new item of this year's agenda.

Malta proposed that the seabed and the ocean floor be declared a common heritage, not subject to national appropriations, and that their development under international agency be used primarily for development of poor countries. It also urged agreement that they be reserved for peaceful purposes.

The idea, similar to agreements on outer space, is surrounded by complex legal and political problems and observers predict it will be before tahe UN for years.

Gotlieb, referring to the deep sea as "the last remaining area of man's knowledge of his immediate environment still unexplored," said Canada regards the establishment of a peaceful, equitable and rational regime for its exploration and exploitation as a task requiring "careful and thorough examination" by the UN.

CITES CONSEQUENCES

Referring to the many problems involved, he suggested that unless there were prior agreements there would follow "the carving of the ocean floor into areas over which individual states would exercise or seek to exercise soverign rights."

It could eventually give rise to serious differences between states whose coasts are opposite one another; and it could also lead to a situation where less-developed countries would be at a definite disadvantage."

Gotlieb, and a number of other speakers, have pointed out that the only international instrument dealing with national cotrol over oceans and seas is the 1958 Geneva convention on the continental shelf, which now is highly inadequate in view of modern technology for ocean exploration.

U.S. Bombs Drop Closer To Haiphong Dock Area

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy planes bombed a boat construction and repair yard close to the centre of Haiphong and only 1.7 miles from the international docks today for the first time in the Vietnam war.

A U.S. spokesman said A-4 Skyhawks from the carrier Coral Sea struck at noon at the "Haiphong Shipyard No. 2," only a mile west of the geographical centre of the city.

Three similar boatyards farther away from the city's centre were hit in raids last month.

Left untouched were Haiphong's vital unloading piers and docks where an attack on a Soviet ship might bring Soviet-American relations to a crisis point.

CAME OFF-LIMITS

The U.S. spokesman said the boatyard hit today was on a small river called the Tram Bac. The yard previously had been on the Pentagon's list of off-limits targets.

There was no immediate word on the extent of damage.

In the ground war in South Vietnam, Communist forces generally avoided a close combat but made three mortar and gunfire attacks which killed 26 Americans and wounded 53.

North Vietnamese mortars also hit the forward base camp at Dak To for the fifth time in 24 hours, causing little damage.

RAIDS COSTLY

But U.S. officers reported the earlier shelling at the battleground in the central highlands Wednesday destroyed 1,100 tons of ammunition, 60,000 gallons of aircraft fuel and $5,000,000 worth of planes.

The U.S. command in its weekly summary of casualties announced that the number of Americans killed or wounded last week was almost the same as the week before, the number of Communists killed dropped more than 500, and South Vietnamese losses increased sharply.

The command said 177 Americans were killed, 761 wounded and 28 were missing or captured compared with 178 killed, 793 wounded and no missing reported the week before. Communist dead dropped from 2,354 to 1,802, while reported South Vietnamese losses were 279 killed, 810 wounded and 91 missing, compared with 160 killed, 583 wounded and 600 missing the week before.

Rebels Beaten Back

LAGOS (AP) — In the first heavy fighting reported in three weeks, federal troops have beaten back a Biafran bid to retake the secessionist capital of Enugu, Nigerian army sources said Monday. The attack came during the weekend as the federally appointed Ibo administrator, Ukpabi Asika, appealed to Ibos to return to the captured capital.

U.S. VIETNAM TROOPS NEAR TOTAL IN KOREA

SAIGON (AP)—The United States command in Vietnam announced today the number of American troops in Vietnam reached 476,000 by last Saturday, only 2,900 less than the peak United States strength in the Korean War in 1953. Arrivals since Saturday may have brought the total to the Korean War maximum or greater.

U.S. officials have announced that American troop strength will be increased to 525,00 by early next year. Reports from Washington indicate arrivals may be speeded up in the next few weeks.

FOUNDER OF VICTORIA BOYS' CLUB

He Gives Much More Than He Asks of Others

Bruce Yemen Talks To . . . COL. R. O. BULL

Back in the 1950s a doctor told an Ontario investment executive to take it easy.

It was the best break Victoria boys had had in years.

Col. R. O. Bull, then vice president and general manager of Gairdner and Company Ltd., took his doctor's advice, retired and moved to Vancouver Island with his wife, Edna.

Four years later they founded the Victoria Boys' Club.

A lot of memories came back last week for the tall, erect 72-year-old Col. Bull when he laid the cornerstone for a $310,000 addition to the old club quarters on Yates Street, originally built as a fire hall.

The club was formally dedicated to the memory of his son, Monty, a RCAF navigator, killed in action during the Second World War.

The club co-founder, Mrs Bull, had died early in 1966.

Looks to Future

But it is to the future that this vigourous resident looks — and with great hopes not only for the boys' club but for young Canadians in general.

He sees the new facilities vastly increasing the club's force for good in the community, which he describes with customary directness.

We wan to try to turn youngsters who might have gone astray into damn good citizens.

Though boys' club work brings a man into contact with a variety of broken families, Col. Bull is an optamist about the prospects of today's youth.

Youngsters today are required to work so much harder than they were in my generation," he says. "They have vastly better knowledge."

One of the qualities Col. Bull looks for in a young person starting a career is enthusiasm.

He is obviously a man who gives as much as he asks — and then some.

Perseverance

Founding the boys' club took not only enthusiasm but perseverance. Besides getting the club started Col. Bull personally financed it for the first year.

Now it has the backing of the national boys' club organization, the Community Chest and a number of generous private citizens — but it still urgently needs help in meeting capital costs and Col. Bull urges all who could help to do so.

The boys club — he's also on the national board — is just one of his many interests. Though he says he can always "not do things" he obviously doesn't spend too much time not doing anything.

He's an enthusiastic director of Brentwood College at Mill Bay — "the finest boys' school I've ever seen."

He's on the advisory board for both the city of Victoria foundation and the University of Victoria foundation.

COL. BULL
. . . a boy's best friend

Many Interests

He is a director of the Atlantic Sugar Company in New Brunswick and has business interests in Hawaii where he spends some time each year.

He has an interest in the proposed Dean Park subdivision at Mount Newton, which he hopes will be an Uplands or British properties type of development.

He plays the stock market — "sometimes successfully."

He's an ardent golfer, fisherman and handyman — all three activities being well suited to his attractive 623 Ardmore Drive home and Saanich Inlet.

And he has remarried, becoming the head of a family of two sons and a daughter in the late 'teens and early 20's age group.

Col Bull was born in Winnipeg the son of a pioneer industrialist. He attended Trinity College and Royal Military College in Ontario before joining the British Army.

Awarded Medal

He took part in the storming of Gallipoli and won a Military Cross for his part in the battle of the Somme, emerging from 5½ years' service in the 1919 war with the rank of captain.

He began his business career in Toronto in 1920 and his many interests included some pioneering in the radio business. He joined Gairdner and Company in 1934 and advanced rapidly.

When the Second World War broke out his old friend, Brock Chisholm, persuaded him to join the Veterans' Guard and soon Col. Bull found himself in a trouble-shooting role as commandant of interment camps.

This took him to Alberta and Northern Ontario before he was assigned to a big camp at Bowmanville, Ont., where there were 16,000 German prisoners.

During the war his two daughters also served in the military.

Killed in Action

His son Monty was killed over Holland while serving as navigator. Monty had completed two years of an engineering course at Queen's University before enlisting.

"He was a very promising boy," says his father.

After more than a decade of B.C. living Col. Bull offers the view that a young man is probably better to go east to make his money and then come back to B.C. to spend it.

"There are too many implicit distractions out here," he points out, mentioning climate, fishing, golf and a variety of outdoor diversions.

As a result the B.C. business climate — except for a few basic industries — lacks the vitality and competitiveness of its eastern counterparts, says Col. Bull.

No Nonsense

In keeping with his no-nonsense business outlook, Col. Bull has little patience with old-fashioned education methods.

"The old days of the straight lecture to the students are gone," he says, commending Brentwood College for its progressive approach to education (but adding that strict discipline is one of the elements of Brentwood's success).

Besides enthusiasm in a young man, Col. Bull looks for intelligence, integrity and a willingness to work hard and he believes those qualities are increasingly evident in young people.

Asked about the increase in use of hallucinogenic drugs and other symptoms of youthful isolation from society, he said though there were some alarming trends he preferred to put it all in philosophical perspective this way:

"People in the world generally have improved amazingly in the past few centuries."

BUSINESS VIEWS

Bond Interest Only Moderate

By AB KENT, Business Editor

Only moderate interest is being shown in the new federal government roll-over bond issue that went on the market at a discount Tuesday.

But a leading Victoria bond merchant thinks the lot will be sold out by week's end nonetheless.

No wonder. Coming out at 99.50 with a 6¼ per cent coupon, the $250 million issue will yield 6.35 per cent, the highest offered in a Canada bond in more than 25 years.

Kent

The bond dealer expected far more interest than has been shown so far, and felt that some investors would be reproaching themselves in a few months' time for not having taken part in the offering.

An added inducement is the option at the end of five years of converting at the same rate into long-term bonds.

If, as it is expected, interest rates generally are down by that time, the holder of this issue will still be getting a good income and the bonds may be selling at a premium which would be good for a capital gain.

Canada bonds were offered briefly about 45 years ago in the 6 per cent range. Two examples are the 6½ per cent 15-year bond issue of 1921 and a 7 per cent issue offered the same year to mature in 1941. Both were railway guarantees.

Few of the current investment generation could point to such examples, and it was from an old-time bond dealer that these two illustrations were gleaned.

Meanwhile, the 1967 Canada Savings Bond drive which closed Wednesday was expected to net about the same as was subscribed last year in this province.

On Vancouver Island, the figure will be higher, said campaign co-ordinator Bill Munro.

To Wednesday morning, 21 firms on the Island showed a sizeable increase in payroll deduction plans for a 40 per cent improvement over 1966. A few firms were down, such as Victoria Machinery Depot which is closing its Dallas Road yard Dec. 31.

At the start of the week payroll plans had accounted for more than 90 per cent of their targets while over-all in B.C. subscriptions were within 18 per cent of last year's total.

Some of the leading firms in the payroll plan on Vancouver Island were the Point Ellice division of B.C. Forest Products, Crown Zellerbach at Elk Falls (about 15 per cent up), Hudson's Bay Co., MacMillan, Bloedel, Ocean Cement, Yarrows, Victoria Press (up 20 per cent), Victoria Plywood, Nelson Laundries (up 30 per cent), Saanich municipal staff, city of Victoria employees and Nanaimo School District 68 (up 15 per cent).

VMD president Harold Husband warned at his yard's last launching Tuesday that Canada's defence policy with respect to ship building and repair leaves the country vulnerable.

He said:

"Human nature being what it is, brushfire wars are going to continue whether they are in Cuba, Suez, Korea, Vietnam or some other location, and they will not be capable of being contained, unless we maintain control of the seas.

"The United States could not sustain their position in Vietnam for 30 days without control of the seas.

"Without the recognition in Canada that it is necessary to keep up the Canadian Navy and to maintain some nucleus of shipbuilding organization, we are losing a priceless national asset."

In this connection, it might be pointed out that West Coast shipbuilding capacity was assembled quickly to meet the emergency at the start of the Second World War as cranes, machines and men were brought in. They built freighters and fighting ships where none had been built before, augmenting previously limited shipyard facilities.

FURTHER WHEAT SALES TO CHINESE SOUGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian wheat salesmen now are in China trying to negotiate additional sales, Trade Minister Winters told the Commons Wednesday.

He said in reply to Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) that a Canadian wheat board delegation arrived in aCnton Tuesday to discuss further trade possibilities.

The latest Canadian-Chinese wheat contract now is in the second year of a three-year term.

Customs Union With U.S. Seen

LONDON (CP) — Val Duncan, chairman of Rio Tinto-Zinc Corp. Ltd., says he believes a customs union between Canada and the United States is "inevitable."

Rio Tinto is a British-based internatignal minerals and metals organization with total assets of some $800,000,000, of which about one-quarter are in Canaa.

Duncan said at a Canada Club dinner Wednesday customs union does not mean political union, "nor would it appear to be in the interests of Canada to join the United States in economic union at one fell swoop."

Duncan, who heads such Canadian holdings as Rio Algom Mines, Atlas Steels and the British Newfoundland Corp., suggested moves towards a customs union will come gradually, "so that both countries may enjoy the inexhaustible fruits of Canada's natural resources."

CITES PROBLEMS

He also suggested that despite current difficulties, Britain one day will enter the European Common Market. In the Europe of the future some doors would be closed to Canada, "but I believe this is a challenge which Canadians will take in their stride, provided there is constant intercommunications on the subject."

Duncan expressed regret that Britain's balance-of-payments problem restricted British freedom to invest in Canada.

He pointed out to his British colleagues if they wanted to succeed with their Canadian investments, they must learn to think Canadian. They must learn to build up good Canadian management and where possible, allow Canadian investors to buy their shares.

The Canadian government also must co-operate, Duncan said, urging rejection of the wholesale acceptance of the Carter commission tax recommendations.

Without spelling at what he specifically had in minc, Duncan said the recommednations are a move "in the wrong direction." One of the recommendatins is a tax on capital gains.

Molson's Earnings, Sales Show Gain

MONTREAL (CP) — Molson Breweries Ltd. reports net income of $7,090,000 or 89 cents per combined class A and B share for the six months ended Sept. 30, compared with $6,745,000 or 85 cents a share for the same period last year.

Sales were $90,570,000 against $85,123,000.

The report says sales volume has grown 4.5 per cent over last year's total, while sales for the brewing industry as a whole have expanded 3.6 per cent.

U.S. Group Will Fight Trade Curbs

NEW YORK (AP) — A committee of top-ranking corporate executives was formed Wednesday to fight import restrictions being considered by the U.S. Congress.

The committee, which calls itself the Emergency Committee for American Trade, is headed by Arthur K. Watson, board chairman of IBM World Trade Corp. and president of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Watson told a press conference the committee, numbering 22 corporate chairmen or presidents, "believes that protective quotas would threaten the health of our domestic economy and endanger our national security as well."

The committee said enacting protectionist measures would endanger an estimated $30,000,000,000 in U.S. exports and invite retaliation by other countries.

Four million jobs in the United States are dependent upon exports, said David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Board of Experts Considered by Sharp

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp is understood to be considering use of an independent board of experts to assess Canada's wage and price performance.

The board would watch developments in Canada and measure them agkinst international trends—those in the U.S. particularly—with an eye to their influence on competitive positions in world trading.

The finance minister is expected to convene meetings with labor and management executives after he has made public the details of tax increases late this month.

The groups would be asked for their views on how to establish wage and price objectives and limits without resorting to the kind of guidelines that have been so firmly rejected by the Economic Council of Canada.

The board is understood to be only one of several alternatives in the minister's mind for the "great campaign of restraint," he promised Oct. 4.

Mr. Sharp has said traditional guidelines setting appropriate percentage limits on price and wage channels will not work in Canada.

New Strikes Hit Auto Industry

DETROIT (AP) — Some 95,000 hourly rated United Auto Workers members at Chrysler Corp. today voted on a new national contract that would increase their wages and fringe benefits by about $1 an hour.

Under the old Big Three auto contracts, workers received about $4.70 an hour in wages and fringes.

Balloting will continue through Friday at locals around the country with final results expected Friday night, a union spokesman said.

Chrysler, its output cut by a week of local union walkouts, returned to full production Wednesday morning but was then hit by another wildcat strike that closed its largest assembly plant.

Union members walked off the job and threw up picket lines at the firm's Hamtramck assembly plant.

The plant, which employes 6,520 men, was shut down on its second shift.

A union spokesman said the work stoppage was "completely unauthorized."

Bargaining continued in Detroit for a new national contract covering Chrysler's 8,000 salaried workers represented by the union. The strike deadline is 10 a.m. Tuesday.

14,000 IDLE

General Motors Wednesday was hit by a series of strikes that made idle 14,500 men at three Detroit-area plants and one in Rochester, N.Y.

In another development the UAW announced it was setting a strike deadline of 10 a.m. Monday in bargaining for a new contract covering 5,500 skilled workers in Detroit-area tool and die shops.

The move indicated that Walter P. Reuther, president, may try to wrap up the tool and die shop contracts before trying to win a new contract from General Motors, the giant of the auto industry.

EXPECT BIG MARGIN

The Chrysler workers are expected to ratify the new contract by a sizeable margin. More than 90 per cent of the union's 160,000 members at Ford, where the pattern for the Chrysler pact was set, approved their contract.

The union has authorized its locals at General Motors to stage one-day strikes to prevent the No. 1 auto firm from building up a large inventory of new cars to ride out a possible strike by the UAW.

Walkouts closed GM operations at its Rochester (N.Y.) products division, employing 2,600; the GM truck and coach division, Pontiac, Mich., employing 9,500; a Chevrolet spring and bumper plant, Livonia, Michm, employing 2,000, and the design department employing 300 workers at the firm's Warren technical centre.

GM employees have been working without a contract since Sept. 6 when pacts expired at all the Big Three firms.

U.S. Industrial Output Continues to Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in the steel and copper industries plan price increases as the government reports a second straight monthly drop in U.S. industrial output.

As the price increases were being announced Wednesday, Chairman William McChesney Martin of the federal reserve board urged Congress to raise taxes to halt inflation. President Johnson's proposed 10-per-cent income tax surcharge appears all but dead for this session of Congress.

Adding to the economy's woes were continued scattered strikes in the auto industry.

U.S. Steel announced it will boost prices of most types of wire and various materials for railways by less than three per cent, effective Nov. 27, and involving about three per cent of its total shipments.

The increase is the latest in a series of steel industry price boosts this year.

Phelps-Dodge Copper Products Corp. said, meanwhile, it will increase prices of its full range of tube products about four cents a pound beginning Friday.

The copper industry has been hit by a strike of miners since July 15.

The federal reserve board, announcing the decline in industrial output, blamed strikes and a six-per-cent drop in oil production resulting from an improved supply from the Middle East.

The board's index of industrial production dropped five-tenths of one point in October to 156.2 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. The index slipped 1.5 points in September, largely because of strikes—the biggest at Ford Motor Co.—and the curtailed oil production.

This marked the first time since the economic slowdown last February and March that the index dropped in two straight months.

Last week, the government reported a 4.3-per-cent unemployment rate—the highest in two years, and a two-per-cent drop in retail sales during October. The Ford strike was listed as a factor in the sales drop.

Japanese Regain Control Of Islands

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The United States has agreed to the early return of the Bonin Islands to Japan and to take steps leading to the later return of the Ryukyu Islands, U.S. President Johnson and Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato announced Wednesday night.

A joint communique issued after two days of talks did not set a specific date for the restoration of Japanese control over either island group.

But authoritative sources said the Bonins should revert to Japan within a year.

But the communique said the status of the Ryukus, including Okinawa, would be kept under joint and continuous review.

Sato, the communique said, emphasized to the U.S. president "that an agreement should be reached between the two governments within a few years on a date satisfactory to them for the reversion of these islands."

INCLUDES IWO JIMA

The Bonins—a group of 30 islands—include the famed Second World War battleground of Iwo Jima. The islands, comprising 40 square miles, are about 750 miles south-southeast of Japan.

A U.S. Navy and weather station and a military air strip are located on the islands.

U.S. sources indicated their hope that Sato's timetable could be met, providing the Vietnam war ends and China permits peace and stability in the Far East.

Consultations on the Bonins would take into account the intention of the Japanese government gradually to assume much of the responsibility for the defence of the area.

SECURITY MAINTAINED

Johnson and Sato also agreed that the United States would retain such military facilities and areas in the Bonin Islands as required for the mutual security of both countries.

The communique noted "that Communist China is developing its nuclear arsenal and agreed on the importance of creating conditions wherein Asian nations would not be susceptible to threats from Communist China."

Both leaders said it is the fundamental policy of their governments to maintain firmly the U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty.

The 10-year treaty is slated to be reviewed in 1970 but is to continue in force unless either side gives notice of its desire for change or termination.

PROTECT CROPS

Manitoba farmers bought $33,000,000 worth of crop insurance protection for 2,204,000 acres of crop during 1967.

STEPHEN

Mayor Jumps Into Race Officially

Mayor Hugh Stephen has officially filed his nomination papers as a mayoralty candidate in the December civic elections.

He will be seeking his second term in office but his first full two-year term as the city's chief magistrate.

The one-year term now coming to a close was brought about by the death in office of Mayor A. W. Toone.

The mayor's official entrance into the election brings to seven the number of council hopefuls seeking four aldermanic seats and the mayor's chair.

Contesting the aldermanic race are council incumbents Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Lily Wilson, Ald Ian Stewart and Ald. Robert Baird.

Challenging their re-election are ex-alderman Clyde Savage and relative newcomer to the civic scene and the city, newspaper reporter William Thomas.

Metchosin Shooting Ban To Be Probed

A meeting of Metchosin ratepayers tonight will attempt to resolve a controversy over a recently-imposed shooting ban in the area.

The meeting at 7.30 p.m. in the Metchosin Community Hall was called two weeks ago after dispute arose over the ban on shooting in the Witty Lagoon area and from Latoria to Wooton Road.

While some residents felt the area should be extended, others say the borders should be redrawn to include only the lagoon area.

The ban was imposed after residents had complained of stray bullet incidents in the area.

A representative of the recreation department is expected to attend the meeting.

YOUTHFUL PARTY OF IDEALISTS

Formidable Rightist Party Emerges in Germany

HANNOVER (AP) — An attractive, 24-year-old blonde stood at the rostrum and declared: "We decisively reject the allegation that Germany bears the sole blame for the World War. . . ."

A roar of approval rose from the 1,400 predominantly male delegates at the third congress of the National Democratic Party—NPD—the most formidable rightist party to emerge in West Germany since the war.

The young woman, who was reading from the newly adopted party platform, seemed to personify the image of the party that the NPD wished to convey to the world as it set sail for the 1969 national election: a young party of idealists seeking to kindle a healthy sense of national pride.

NPD opponents were more apt to shudder at the display of emotional nationalism by a party they regard as a haven for unrepentant ex-Nazis.

The party platform, the first in the NPD's three-year history, says:

"The prerequisite for the higher development of humanity is idealism."

Former chairman—and ex-Nazi—Wilhelm Gutmann—said the program "should open the gate to the Bundestag," the lower house of the federal parliament which the NPD hopes to enter in 1969 with 40 to 50 of the 496 seats.

The party has won 48 seats in six of West Germany's 10 state parliaments during the last year and claims a membership of nearly 30,000 with an average age of 41.2 years. Its highest percentage of the vote was 8.8 per cent in Bremen last month.

Walton a-Waltzing But Shack Stopped

Toronto 'Fill-In' Chalks Up Three; Seals Snap Slump

By The Canadian Press

There were 16,042 fans in Maple Leaf Gardens Wednesday night all set to cheer Eddie Shack, of Boston Bruins, but when they left all the talk was about Mike Walton, of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs won the National Hockey League game 4-2 with Walton getting three of their goals while Shack, one of the most popular Toronto players before being traded last season, was shut out.

The other Leaf goal went to Bob Pulford while Fred Stanfield and Derek Sanderson replied for Boston as Toronto took possession of first place in the Eastern Division, two points ahead of idle Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers.

In other games, Chicago Black Hawks dropped St. Louis Blues 4-1, Montreal Canadiens clipped Minnesota North Stars 5-1, Pittsburgh Penguins blanked Philadelphia Flyers 5-0 and Oakland Seals ended a 14-game winless streak by beating Los Angeles Kings 4-1.

SUBS FOR KEON

Walton, a 22-year-old native of Kirkland Lake, Ont., whose four other goals this year came on power plays, was filling in Wednesday for injured Dave Keon.

He beat Gerry Cheevers with his first two goals and Ed Johnston, making his first official appearance of the season for the Bruins, with the other.

A graduate of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Walton played two games with Rochester Americans of the American League in 1963-64 before turning pro with Tulsa of the Central Professional League the following year.

In 1965-66 he got a six-game shot with the Leafs, scoring a goal and three assists, then completed the season with Rochester and split last season between the Americans and the Leafs. In 31 NHL games last year he scored seven goals and 13 assists.

Already this season he has seven goals and four assists for 11 points.

After the game the shifty centre said he couldn't remember the last time he scored three goals in a game.

MISSED BEST CHANCES

"The funny thing about it is that the ones I scored were just lucky and I missed the best chances."

Bobby Hull continued his goal-a-game pace for Chicago, picking up one and an assist to maintain his scoring lead with 15 goals and eight assists for 23 points.

Brother Denis added a goal in Chicago's rout with the others going to Stan Mikita and Eric Nesterenko against St. Louis goalie Glenn Hall. Ron Stewart scored the lone St. Louis goal in ruining Denis Dejordy's shutout bid with about three minutes remaining.

Goalie Hank Bassen, in his first game in 2½ weeks, turned in his first shutout of the season as Pittsburgh got goals from Billy Dea, Ab McDonald, Bob Dillabough, Keith McCreary and Art Stratton.

The Canadiens broke out of their lethargy with their most spirited display in some weeks with Dick Duff scoring a goal and three assists and Henri Richard scoring once and adding a pair of assists.

The only Minnesota player to beat veteran goalie Gump Worsley was Wayne Connelly, bouncing the puck in off Worsley's chest.

Terry Gray scored the only goal for Los Angeles, giving them an early 1-0 lead. But before the first period was over Larry Cahan and George Swarbrick put the Seals ahead with Charlie Burns and Aut Erickson salting it away with second and third period goals.

AIDE-TO-BE

'Jelly' Feels Future Solid

Add the name of Hjalmeo "Jelly" Anderson to the list of men who believe professional football is going to remain in Victoria.

The Norway-born Anderson was in town last Saturday, working at his current job of talent scout for Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Apparently he wasn't dismayed by the small crowd at Royal Athletic Park while Victoria Tyees were grabbing a 10-7 Continental Football League decision over Sacramento Buccaneers.

Beyond commenting that "this is going to be a very good league," Anderson had little to say Saturday night, but he apparently exchanged plenty of ideas with Victoria owner-coach Don McKeta in the next few days.

Anyway, they agreed on one thing—Anderson will be the defensive coach of the Tyees next season.

While announcing the signing of Anderson at a Wednesday meeting here, McKeta reported progress on his plans to organize the club on a community-owned basis in a manner that will make it attractive to National League clubs.

Atlanta Contributed Cash, Players

Support by a major league team is a major item in plans of McKeta, who pointed out that Atlanta Falcons of the NFL subsidized a club in the Continental League's eastern division this year to the extent of supplying 18 players and $50,000.

"I'm certain we can get support of an NFL club if we have something to offer," said McKeta. "But we must have a solid organization and be able to show them how we can help them."

Indicating big-league interest in obtaining farm-club sites was the visit last Saturday of Jim Garrett, who was to report to the NFL on Victoria's potential as a football town.

Pressing projects for McKeta are the setting up of a board of directors and placing the club on sound financial footing.

'Must Be Organized by January . . .'

He hopes that establishing the Tyees as a community-owned team through the sale of shares will provide part of the finances. Shares are to be offered at $1 each and any person with a block of 25 or more shares will have voting rights.

McKeta also hopes the club will start to take shape at an organizational meeting at noon next Wednesday at Hy's Steak House. All interested persons are invited to attend the session, at which McKeta will expand on Tyee prospects.

McKeta, who kept the club going after former owners declined further support during the season, said holders of season tickets would receive share to the value of a one-game admission to make up for the loss of the Oct. 7 game—shifted to Everett for economy reasons.

"I want to see football in Victoria," added the coach, who is negotiating for use of Centennial Stadium next year, "but we'll have to move quickly. We must be organized by January."

Meanwhile, the Tyees play one of their two remaining road games next Sunday at Eugene, Ore., and the seed of the new organization may be planted next Wednesday.

One-Time Olympian After Tiger's Title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The name of Roger Rouse is hardly a household fixture in New York, London and Los Angeles.

But it is well known in Montana where, Roger concedes with admirable frankness, it has even made a police blotter or two. By late Friday night it may be better known elsewhere.

Roger Rouse on Friday night fights Dick Tiger for Tiger's world light-heavyweight championship. It'll be 15 rounds or less, nationally televised, at 7 p.m. (PST).

Rouse is the top contender in the 175-pound division. He has never fought east of the Rockies and many of his triumphs have been registered in small clubs in the sticks.

Roger, 32, is a college man and once was a member of the U.S. Olympic boxing team. He has had a frustrating career since he turned pro in 1958. He became disenchanted with his first manager and quit the ring in 1961. He came back two years later and now owns a creditable record of 30-5-3 under new management.

Aussies Up In Davis Cup

BRISBANE (Reuters) — Wimbledon champion John Newcombe of Australia scored a 7-5, 6-4, 8-6 victory over Canadian Davis Cupper Mike Belkin to reach the semi-finals of the men's singles in the Queensland lawn tennis championships here today.

Another Canadian eliminated was Mike Bolton of Vancouver, beaten 6-3, 6-1 by Australian Phillip Dent in the quarter-finals of the boy's singles.

Belkin, a native of Montreal, gave Newcombe a tough 110-minute battle. With his double-handed backhand working smoothly, he frequently passed the Wimbledon champion across court and down the lines.

But in the long run the Australian's powerful serve gained him the edge.

Japanese Buys Expensive Stock

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Zeny Yoshida of Japan paid $70,000 Wednesday for a 12-year-old brother of Bold Ruler at the Keeneland fall bloodstock sales.

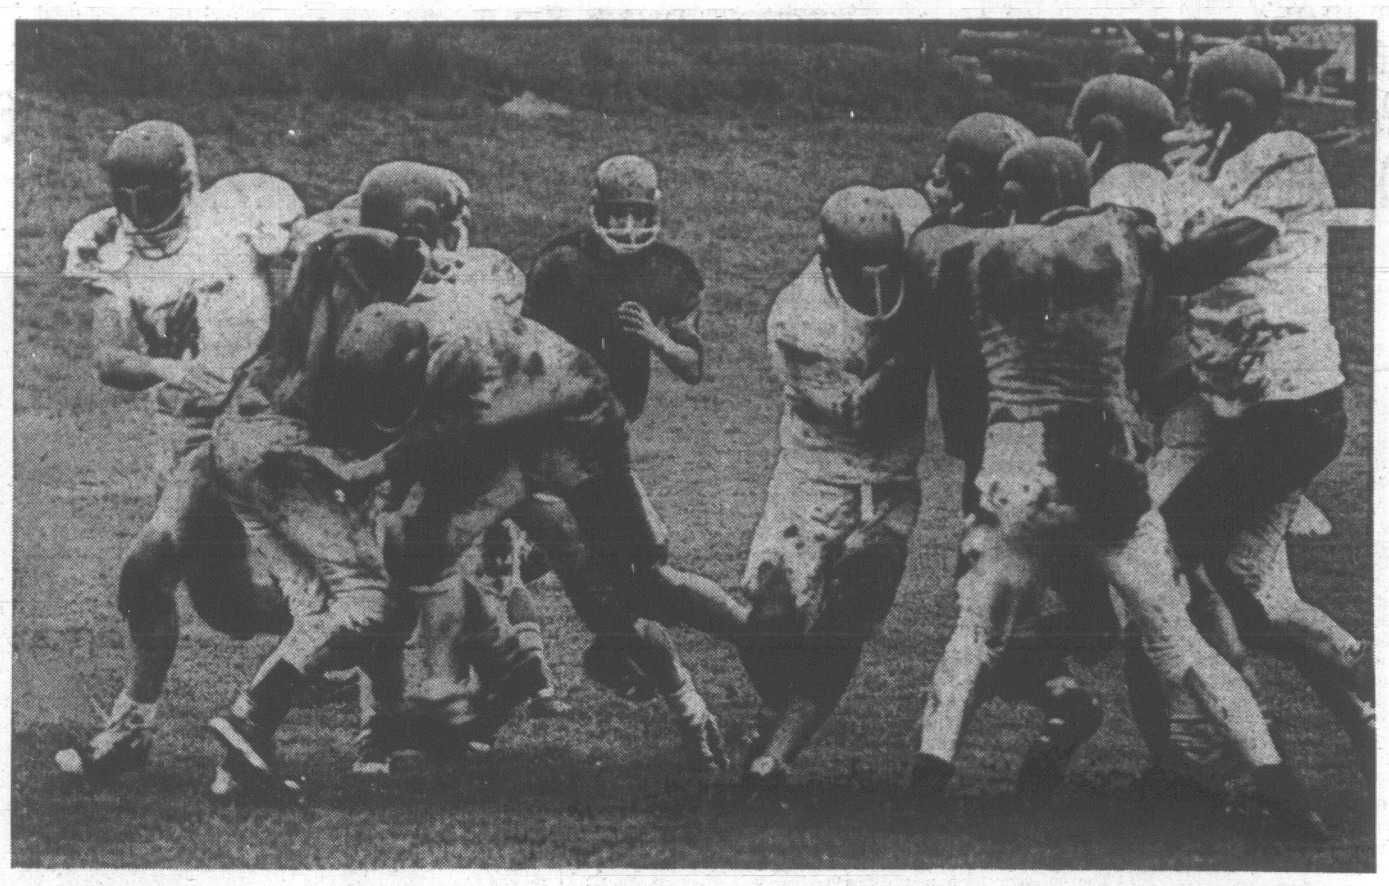
Lions to Play Haney

Esquimalt Lions of the Norm Fieldgate Bantam Football League will play an exhibition game at Braefoot Park Saturday at 2 p.m. against a bantam club from Haney.



Subdued Now?

SHORE TAKES A SPIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — A growling Eddie Shore laced on his hockey skates Tuesday for the first time since the Springfield revolt, and skimmed the ice at the forum.

"Take my picture and I'll bust that camera over your head," he shouted at a photographer.

He was, he said, just taking a turn on the ice to "teach the kids some tricks."

"I've tamed down a lot," he grinned later. "When you suffer eight heart attacks in five years you have to take it a little easier.

"Today is the first time in 12 months I've had my skates laced up."

VISITING COLEY HALL

What was the 65-year-old former owner of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League doing on Forum ice—red baseball cap, 1919 skates and all?

"Visiting my old buddy Coley Hall (former owner and now adviser to Vancouver Canucks of the Western League).

"I was told he's been having trouble with his defence and figured I might be able to help.

"I'm out of hockey now. And I should add that it doesn't bother me half as much as people like to think it does."

The former Boston all-star defenceman in the National Hockey League sold the team he owned in Springfield this year to the new Los Angeles Kings of the NHL.

The sale came after a player revolt late last year when the players refused to take to the ice for several games.

"I didn't want the players and they probably didn't want me," said Shore about the sale of the players. "So everybody wound up happy."

But Shore said he had fond memories of his years in hockey.

"Ah, we had some fun. Remember though, half those yarns you hear about me aren't true at all.

"The other half? Well, let's just say we had some fun."

Storr-Munro Partnership Tops Rally

Victoria driver John Storr and navigator Gord Munro appear to be winners of the Victoria Motor Sports Car Club's weekend Owl Rally.

Provisional results from the 320-mile round-trip run from Victoria to Parksville were released Wednesday.

The Storr-Munro team picked up only 20 penalty points to lead the 25-car field.

Mike Peterson and Lloyd Mellor were runners-up with 38 penalty points, followed by Dave Teece and Tom Gilbert (40) and Vancouver's Doug Wilson and Ed Deak (67).

MUDDY MILESTONE

Quietly—and rather muddily—and without fanfare, football made its debut in a Greater Victoria school Wednesday. First game ever played, with school approval, was inter-house league game at Esquimalt Senior Secondary. Teams play under modified, 11-man American rules. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Ottawa Gunning For Big Outburst

OTTAWA (CP)—When Ottawa Rough Riders meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the opener of their two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference finals Sunday, the Riders will have one main objective—to pile up a big lead.

"We want a lead for that return game," says Rider coach Frank Clair. "We'll need it. You know how tough those Hamilton teams are—on the road or at home."

Second game of the series to decide the East's representative in the Grey Cup here Dec. 2 will be played in Hamilton the following Saturday, Nov. 25.

Clair has some bitter memories of previous Hamilton-Ottawa series, particularly in 1964 when Ottawa won the opener at home 30-13 but lost 26-8 the following weekend in Hamilton, to lose the set by one point—39-38.

But he also has the happy memory of last year when Ottawa opened the series in Hamilton with a 30-1 triumph and trampled Hamilton 42-16 the following weekend.

Clair later rated his 1966 club as the best he has ever coached.

But he feels his current team has a great potential. "On a good day we could score a lot of points."

Clair believes in work to realize that potential and had his players working out Wednesday despite a 6.8-inch snowfall over Tuesday night.

Mt. Doug Blanks Vic High Squad

Mt. Douglas blanked Victoria High, 8-0, Wednesday in an exhibition rugby match at Mt. Douglas.

An early try by Bill Walton converted by John Howe, gave Mt Douglas a half-time lead. They extended it to eight points on a late second-half try by Jack Clerkson.

Fans Prompt Mount View Suspension

City high school soccer champions Mount View Hornets have been temporarily suspended from playoff action by the Greater Victoria Senior Secondary School Athletic Association as a result of a spectator mob scene during Tuesday's final against Victoria High.

Mount View had been given until 1 p.m. today "to discipline students involved" in the incident or another representative in the Island championship playoffs would be chosen, an association spokesman said today.

Stan Gill of Mount Douglas, chairman of the soccer committee and spokesman for the association, said his group was satisfied that Mount View students had participated in Tuesday's fray.

He said no final decision about the Hornets' position in the Island final would be made until after today's deadline.

MAY PICK ANOTHER

If no action is taken, he said, another team will be chosen by the association.

Wednesday night's emergency meeting of the association was called to consider the reports of game officials who were the objects of the students' misconduct.

They had been jostled and berated by a group of fans who charged onto the field in the last few seconds of regulation play. The incident was sparked when linesman Eric Remes indicated a goal for Tyees, tying the game and forcing overtime play.

OUTSIDERS BLAMED

Hornet coach Brian Cornell is certain that most of the students involved were not from his school.

"There were undoubtedly a few of our students involved and while I cannot excuse their conduct, I feel that the big majority of our students were not involved and that none of our players took part in it," he said.

The association, however, has decided that schools should somehow be held responsible for the actions of their students, Gill said. And they are satisfied enough that Mount View students took part in the fracas.

The association has suspended the Hornets temporarily and made a strong decision to cover any recurrences, Gill said.

STRONG ACTION

Meetings of the association and soccer committee decided that in future cases of misconduct by student fans, the school team will face indefinite suspension from further league and playoff games.

The association realized that part of the difficulty arose because, even though there were teachers present at the game, many of the spectators were not from the schools competing.

If their demands for disciplinary action by Mount View High officials are not met, Gill said, a meeting will be held today to consider the area's representative in the Island final.

Hornets are tentatively scheduled to meet Port Alberni Friday in the Vancouver Island final at Macdonald Park at 2:30 p.m., he said.

Jerry Fears Jinx

CALGARY (CP)—Jerry Williams, of Calgary Stampeders, Wednesday was named Coach of the Year in the Canadian Football League and his main goal now is to avoid the fate of last year's winner.

Williams was chosen by his fellow head coaches in the CFL.

Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders won the title in 1966 and put his club into the Grey Cup game. That's as far as it went, as Ottawa was defeated 29-14 by Saskatchewan Roughriders for the cup.

As Williams put it Monday when Peter Liske and Terry Evanshen of Calgary won 1967 top player awards: "There's only one thing I would prefer—the Grey Cup of course."

To do that, the 44-year-old coach has to outfox Eagle Keys of Saskatchewan in the Western Football Conference finals and beat Clair's club or Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup contest.

MORE OF THE SAME

He's already promised to employ "the attack we have used all year," the record-breaking passing combination of Liske and Evanshen, along with throws to Herm Harrison and other receivers.

The weather office Wednesday held out hope for seasonable weather for the first game, at 2 p.m. MST Saturday. Second game will be at Regina Nov. 22 and the third, if needed, at Calgary Nov. 26.

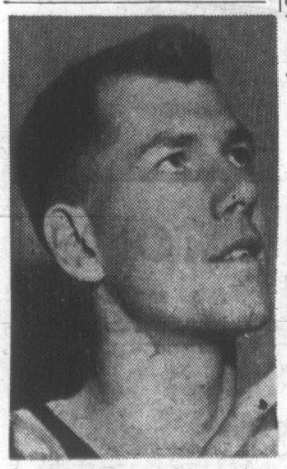
SADLER HAS CHIPPED BONE . . .

. . . STOTHARD DOUBTFUL

Everything Not Okay With O'Ks



BARRY SADLER

Barry Sadler, a goaltending fixture, may be lost to Victoria O'Keefes for several weeks.

X-rays taken earlier this week showed Wednesday that Sadler suffered a chipped ankle bone during Victoria's 2-1 Pacific Coast Soccer League victory over Vancouver Firefighters last Saturday.

A more detailed medical checkup was scheduled today but in all probability, O'Keefes will have to come up with a replacement for at least two months.

A junior, Victoria High graduate Jerry Lister, is expected to draw the starting assignment for Saturday's match with University of British Columbia Thunderbirds in Vancouver's Callister Park.

In addition to Lister, O'Keefes can call on two other juniors playing in Victoria's District League. All juniors can play three games without signing a PCSL card.

The X-ray showing marked the second time in two days that Victoria manager Frank Grealy was greeted with bad news. Fullback Dave Stothard informed Grealy on Tuesday that he may have to miss the match against UBC because of illness in his family.

In addition, Grealy is planning a minor shuffle along the forward line. Dick Joyce, a recent acquisition by Victoria, may get a starting shot at forward.

There are some vacancies on O'Keefes' chartered bus. Fans interested in accompanying the team to Vancouver—leaving in the morning and returning on the 5 p.m. ferry—are asked to contact president Ron Southern (384-6098).

In addition to the UBC-Victoria game, two other matches are scheduled on what shapes up as the most important weekend of the early season. UBC, Burnaby, New Westminster Royals, Columbus and Victoria all are grouped within two points of each other.

Royals play Burnaby in another Saturday match at New Westminster, and Columbus tackles Firefighters on Sunday.

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Fedoruk

The pun is trite and overdone, but 184 Victoria area golfers should have cause to remember Remembrance Day.

And Uplands Golf Club personnel can take a long, very-merited bow.

They showed to the world that slow play DOES NOT HAVE TO BE TOLERATED on the golf course.

The Remembrance Day tournament drew a whopping 209 entries. Twenty-five had to draw out because of over-subscription and a lack of daylight. Eventually 184 started.

Remember, too, that this was a medal event.

No foursome was out for more than three hours, 30 minutes!

Despite droputs who did not even have the courtesy to inform anyone, starters John Wren and Eric Wright ACTUALLY GAINED ON STARTING TIMES. The final foursome started exactly 12 minutes ahead of schedule!

The secret was two-fold. The no-nonsense starts by Wren and Wright, and the very fine work of seven junior members—Dave McCall, Al Brown, Ken Knott, Ian Anderson, Mike Gray, Larry Ware and Keith Burrell—who acted as fore-caddies.

The main problem that was to be feared was fallen oak leaves. To find a ball among those leaves, as most of us know, can be difficult. But the juniors, who also were given authority to speed up golfers, did their jobs exceedingly well . . . so much so, that Murray Dunnett, appointed marshal for the day, didn't get a chance to tear a strip off anyone's hide.

Because of their foresight and preparedness, and their willing workers, captain Bob Bell, president Gordon Pellow and the tournament committee bequeath to other clubs and important secret.

The slow-play furor on the West Coast reached a disgusting peak during the B.C. Open at Marine Drive in Vancouver this past summer. Amateur Johnny Johnston won that one, but how well I remember the shades of his face changing from crimson to purple when mention was made of the slow play.

Many players were on the course from six to 6½ hours. Sandy McLeod, an assistant to Dick Munn at Point Grey, remembered Wednesday that he had been given a 1:30 p.m. starting time but didn't get off the first tee until 2:25.

Most of the delays — some had to wait as long as 45 minutes—took place on Marine's 12th and 13th holes, both par fives. It was sheer agony for two days, improved on the third when the tournament committee treated both holes as par threes and asked players, once on the green, to stand aside and wave on the next group.

While slow players were very much at fault, the B.C. Open's tournament committee also should have been chastized for ignoring an obvious bottleneck. If the committee wasn't aware, then it must be criticized for taking an extra day to figure it out.

Finally, a personal postscript. If Uplands (and others) want to try for a three-hour tournament round, some thought should be given to penalizing the inconsiderate, last-minute drop-out.

Generally, there is no valid reason why a golfer can not inform the starter that he (the player) can not play. The inconsiderate one can delay a foursome's start as much as two minutes.

These are important minutes in an all-day tournament and the no-show slob should be penalized. Professionals are liable to fines, so why not amateurs?

The penalty does not have to be a monetary one.

At Uplands, for example, 25 players were withdrawn. Still, there were several "no-shows." The names of the latter should be recorded . . . and, perhaps, remembered when the next tournament rolls around and attracts an over-limit entry.

Consider the inconsiderate, gentlemen, and we may get back to the three-hour game, yet.

Vic High Chasing Volleyball Crown

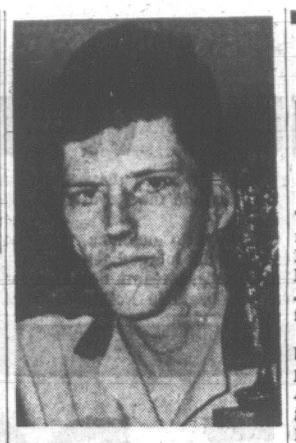
Victoria High, winner of the Vancouver Island girls' volleyball crown just two weekends ago, will go after the provincial title Saturday in the B.C. girls' volleyball championship.

Vic High will represent the Island, along with the Powell River team, in the round-robin tournament in the Victoria High and Central Junior High gyms. The 12 teams will be broken into two sections, with the top two of each section meeting in the semi-finals.

Section 1 at Victoria High will include: Tupper, Powell River, Kitimat, Salmon Arm, Eric Humber (or Notre Dame) and Abbotsford.

Section 2, played at Central, will include: Mission, Prince George, Nelson, Victoria, Winfield and Burnaby Central High.

Action gets under way at 8.30 a.m. in both schools, with the semifinals at 7.30 and finals at 8.30 p.m. played at Victoria High. Admission will be 25 cents. cents.



BOWLER OF WEEK

Back for another crack at "Bowler-of-the-Year" honors is steady Norm Goldie. The 1964 champion, Norm qualified for this season's year-end rolloffs by claiming "Bowler-of-the-Week" honors in men's fivepin division this week with nifty 335-293-271—899 series. He rolled winning series at Gibson's.

Canada Sharing Second

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The United States took the lead and Canada shared second place with Britain after the first round Wednesday of the first world seniors amateur team golf championship tournament.

The U.S. team grabbed the lead with a 10-over-par 226. Canada and Britain shared second with 234s.

Australia was in fourth place with 240, with France following in fifth with 242, 16 strokes off the pace.

The top Canadian scorers, with 76s, were team captain Phil Farley, 55, of Toronto, and Jack Nash, 55, of London, Ont. Their 76s—David Goldman of the U.S. also had one—placed them in the low ten.

Dr. George Bigelow, 57, of Victoria, B.C., fired an 83. George C. Hevenor, 63, of Toronto shot an 82.

Scores soared as gusty winds swept the 7,000-yard, par-72 No. 2 championship course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Eleven teams are entered in the tournament, which runs through Saturday. Each team has four men and the scores of the low three are counted.

Yankee Drawing Power Still Tops

BOSTON (AP) — New York Yankees finished ninth in the standings in 1967, but proved they still were kings as a drawing attraction on the road.

American League president Joe Cronin announced Wednesday night the Yankees were the top drawing card on the road for the 18th straight year—as long as records in the league have been available.

The Yanks attracted 1,364,783 fans away from home, helping the American League to a record attendance of 11,336,923.

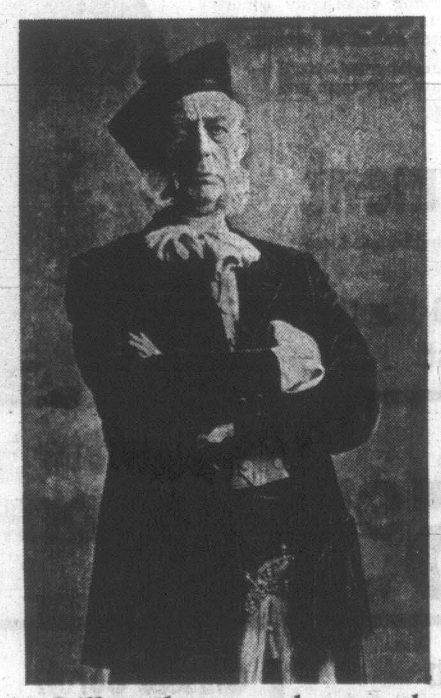
The things he did to some juniper berries are unspeakable.



To make gin, you need a number of rather exotic ingredients. Including Italian juniper berries.

So in 1769 Alexander Gordon bought sackfulls of the best Italian juniper berries money could buy. Experimented and experimented. And one day discovered that if you took the berries and ...well, something exciting happened.

You could make the best tasting gin ever. So naturally, he did.

200 years later we still do. And Gordon's is now the largest selling gin in the world.

Still made everywhere to the same secret formula.

And, so that it always remains a secret, what Alexander Gordon did to those berries must always remain unspeakable.

Ronson's Burst Riddles Totems

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Three goals by Len Ronson led the San Diego Gulls to a 5-2 Western Hockey League victory over the Seattle Totems Wednesday night before 8,391 fans.

Ronson, who had scored only two goals in the Gulls' first 10 games, scored late in the first period to give San Diego a 2-0 lead. His second and third goals in the final period put the Gulls ahead 4-2 with less than four minutes remaining. Fred Hilts and Dennis Huculak also scored for San Diego.

Seattle's goals were scored by Cleo Mortson and Jerry Leonard.

The victory put San Diego into a second-place tie with Portland but five points behind league-leading Seattle, which lost only its second game of the season after winning nine and tying two.

Fish Story Facts, Come From Laing

OTTAWA (CP) — Americans accounted for 2,489 of the 3,184 non-resident angling licences issued last year in the Northwest Territories and 158 of the 176 non-resident hunting licences, a Commons return has reported.

Other statistics supplied by Northern Development Minister Laing in replies for Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) showed:

Of the 38 hunting and fishing camps in the Northwest Territories, 27 are owned by Canadians, including one who is an Indian.

There are 40 such camps in the Yukon, 37 owned by Canadians, six of them Indians.

"As far as can be ascertained," Mr. Laing said, four fishing camps in the N.W.T. and one in the Yukon are under American ownership or control.

PUSKAS COMING . . . . . IN PRO SOCCER MERGER

Vancouver Unites With 'Frisco Club

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the Vancouver Royal Canadians said this week the team has merged with the San Francisco Golden Gate Gaels.

Both clubs are members of the United Soccer Association.

Vancouver president Ted Eakins said the merged team will play as the Vancouver Royals.

He made the announcement following a report that San Francisco would fold its franchise in the USA and attempt to buy stock in the Vancouver franchise.

Eakins said coach Bobby Robson of Vancouver was to leave Tuesday for Madrid, where the Golden Gate Gaels have been training since Aug. 1.

Robson and coach Ferenc Puskas of the Gaels will soon be joined by seven players under contract to the Royal Canadians.

The Royal Canadians president said the merged team will play European teams on a tour that will begin in Belgium. He said the club may also take a swing through Central America and Mexico prior to the opening of the USA season in April.

Eakins said the merger will stand regardless of any merger plans there might be between the USA and the rival national professional soccer association.

Eakins will continue as president of the new team, and he said George Fleharty, owner of the Gaels, will take over as chairman.

MEAT CUTTERS, BUTCHERS

Talks at 'Crucial Stage,' Union Tells Labor Council

The dispute between supermarket stores and their meat department workers is reaching the "crucial" stage, the Victoria Labour Council was told Wednesday night.

George Johnston of Vancouver, representative of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, said the old contract ran out last May 1.

A strike vote will be held shortly among 100 butchers in the Victoria area working at Safeway, Super-Valu and Shop-Easy as well as butchers at these and other supermarkets in Vancouver.

FOUR-DAY WEEK

He reviewed the background and said that the two most important requests are the four-day, 36-hour work week and a wage scale "more commensurate" with other tradesmen.

The union has sought a $1 an hour increase in a one-year contract. Current rates range from $2.30 to a minimum $3.35 for head meat cutters.

Butchers overwhelmingly rejected a majority conciliation board report which recommended an extra 40 cents an hour in a two-year contract and no change in working hours.

HIGHER PRICES

He said consumers have been paying higher meat prices for the last six months which would more than pay the 40 cents an hour recommendation.

The strike vote will be by mail ballot under labor department supervision. While the ballot is a secret one, he said each member must sign the outside letter. If he doesn't do this the ballot is considered spoiled.

In other business, the shipyard work situation grew even gloomier with a report from the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers of another layoff Wednesday at Yarrows, bringing its unemployed list to 225—more than 25 per cent of its membership.

Those out of work include such skilled men as drillers, platers, burners, caulkers, welders and boilermakers.

The council was also told that Eastern shipyards are to interview such highly-skilled Victoria Machinery Depot workers as patternmakers, and tool and die makers.

Various companies were also planning interviews with other technical employees.

And one official warned that it "looks like" there will be a cutback at HMC Dockyard where there was a layoff last summer.

The council also agreed to a special conference next month on the delayed workmen's compensation legislation and will protest the proposed federal tax increase.

'Urban Renewal Plans Help Increase Taxes'

Public expenditures on urban renewal are "in our best interests," city planner Geoff Greenhalgh told the Victoria Labour Council Wednesday night.

Investment by the community bolsters tax revenue which in turn sustains services that create an "environment most of us like," he said.

"It is in our best interests to see tax yields are kept high even if it needs an infusion of public capital," he said.

Mr. Greehhalgh reviewed the Rose-Blanshard renewal scheme which will replace some poor housing in one part of the city.

The over-all scheme took in 300 acres with the main 30-acre project in the middle. Eighty of the 120 properties have been bought by the city without the necessity of arbitration and expropriation. The $2 million scheme will see 180 new units of housing.

Talking about the urban renewal study in the Wharf Street area, he said there are old and obsolete buildings there and the original reason for them has gone.

Assessment is $2 a foot but two blocks away, around the post office, the assessment was $58 a foot.

"Assessment is the basis of revenue," he said. "I hope it impresses on you the potential we are losing."

'Pint-Sized Houdini' Pleads Guilty

A 16-year-old boy pleaded guilty in magistrate's court Wednesday to three charges.

John Lowe, of Vancouver, was transferred from juvenile court.

Police said he escaped from Brannen Lake correctional school near Nanaimo and came to Victoria where he shoplifted a sweater and pair of pants from Spencer's Store on Government Street.

On Oct. 26, police said he broke into Kee's Food Market, 4104 Shelbourne, and stole $34.04 worth of cigarettes, food and soft drinks.

Court was also told that on Nov. 2, Lowe escaped from the juvenile detention home on Pembroke Street and stole a car from 1314 Manor Road. The car was later found abandoned at North Dairy and Doncaster.

Commenting on the youth's escapes, Magistrate Ostler said "he seems to be a pint-sized Houdini."

Charged with theft over $50, theft under $50, and breaking and entering, Lowe was remanded to Nov. 25 for presentence report.

Low Rental Housing Bureau Gets Approval

The Victoria Real Estate Board has agreed to establish a clearing house to list low rental housing accommodation in the city.

Following a Wednesday afternoon meeting between Real Estate Board officials, Mayor Hugh Stephen and city welfare administrator F. A. Davidson, board president Gordon Fawcett said he was confident the mechanics of the operation would be finalized this week.

"The most vital ingredient will be the listings," Mr. Fawcett said. "We shall have to appeal to as many landlords as possible to get all the listings we can."

Mr. Fawcett stressed that the board itself would not deal directly with low rental house hunters.

All information gathered will be turned over to the city welfare department which in turn will locate needy families in the homes available.

Mayor Stephen and Ald. Ian Stewart, chairman of the city's planning committee, have praised the Real Estate Board move as a great step forward in the solution of the city's growing housing problem.

Cuba Haven For Sailors?

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese newspaper said today four sailors from the U.S. aircraft carrier Intrepid might be en route to Cuba to seek political asylum.

Sankei Shimbun also said some Japanese hippies sheltered them for several days and helped them contact an anti-Vietnam war organization after they defected.

The organization, the Japan Peace for Vietnam Committee, last Monday showed the press a filmed interview in which the sailors said they oppose U.S. policies in Vietnam and seek political asylum in a country not involved in the war.

10,000 GIRLS CALL SINGING STAR

Teen-Agers Clog Circuits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ten thousand teen-agers from around the world telephoned Los Angeles late Wednesday night, cutting off all incoming long distance calls to Los Angeles County's 7,000,000 inhabitants.

Telephone company officials were frantic.

In response to published advertisements girls from Tokyo to Seattle to London called the publishing offices of Dig and Fifteen magazines collect, anxious for a chance to talk with Mark Lindsay, star of Paul Revere and the Raiders singing group.

A telephone company spokesman said the calls blocked incoming long distance calls to Los Angeles for almost two hours. He said the machines handling incoming long distance calls normally process 90,000 calls an hour.

Mounts Get Romping Room

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has bought a 244-acre farm in the Ottawa Valley as a romping ground for the more than 80 ceremonial horses which make up the musical ride, it was learned Wednesday.

However it was learned that N Division in nearby Rockcliffe, home of the musical ride horses, has become so crowded by increased airport facilities there is no room to put the horses out for needed exercise.

Now the word is out on
Our Mother's House

Once in a long while, the people who really know about films eagerly await the arrival of a particular motion picture.

This special kind of excitement happened with "A Taste of Honey," "The Servant," "Darling" and "Blow Up." Now, it's focused on "Our Mother's House."

The reviews mirrored this interest. Judith Crist on the Today Show praised "Our Mother's House" as "A movie you won't want to miss." Time Magazine termed it "Splendid! A modern gothic tale of innocence and evil." Saturday Review said "A triumph of the director's art!"

In "Our Mother's House," Jack Clayton takes the art of the film further along the path he blazed with "Room at the Top."

Abortions on Advice Of Doctors Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — The father of a physically and mentally deformed child Tuesday urged the Commons health committee to consider legislation that permits abortion when doctors decide there is a threat to the mental or physical health of the mother.

R. G. Coleman, a 43-year-old native of Bristol, England, now living in London, Ont., told committee members his six-year-old son has brain damage, weighs only 23 pounds and cannot talk.

Mr. Coleman said there were too many "back-street abortions" performed under unsanitary conditions by unqualified persons. But fear of an unwanted pregnancy or giving birth to a deformed child was enough to send any woman "half way to an abortionist."

He said birth control clinics should be brought to the attention of more persons and "given an honorable name" and not be hidden away on side streets.

The clinics should serve anyone 16 or more and doctors should be able to give unmarried teen-agers birth control information, and even prescriptions for contraceptives.

Mr. Coleman said doctors are "scared" of sterilization because of possible court actions and laws are needed to protect them.

MP's DEFINITION

'Addicted To Plunder Or Robbery'

OTTAWA (CP)—Seaboard Finance Company of Canada should be renamed Predatory Finance Company, Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) said in the Commons Tuesday night.

Mr. Howard said predatory is defined in one dictionary as meaning "addicted to plunder or robbery."

IMPLIES NATIONAL STATUS

Mr. Howard asked how Ontario ever granted it the name Seaboard Finance Company of Canada, which implied federal incorporation.

He said Parliament should take a long hard look before granting a federal charter to such companies.

Mr. Howard talked out the time devoted to the Seaboard bill which failed to get past an NDP blockade in the last session.

Earlier, approval in principle was given a bill extending federal incorporation to Co-Operative Trust Co. Ltd., a Saskatchewan financial institution backed by 303 credit unions and co-operatives there.

Mr. Cameron gave reluctant consent to allow the bill to take priority over seven others on the Commons order paper, including the Seaboard bill and another sponsored by himself.

He relented after Tom Barnett (NDP — Comox-Alberni) said there would be a reasonable amount of debate.

It lasted about 25 minutes, leaving about 30 for the Seaboard bill.

China Aids Pakistan

NEW DELHI (AP)—China has given Pakistan hundreds of millions of dollars in aid since 1965, Defence Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament Tuesday. He said Peking was known to have supplied Pakistan with equipment for two infantry divisions, 250 tanks, 120 MiG aircraft, two squadrons of Ilyushin-28 bombers, large numbers of artillery pieces and vehicles and large quantities of ammunition and spare parts.

Doctor Solves Mysteries Because He Can't Forget

DR. MURRAY
. . . another milestone

TORONTO (CP) — "I can't shrug off a mystery and forget it," Dr. Gordon Murray once told friends at a Toronto tennis club.

"It rankles."

When the 73-year-old master surgeon announced this week that he had achieved regeneration of the spinal cord in animals and humans, it marked another milestone in a life of medical achievements.

It also climaxed eight years of research and came 21 years after an artificial kidney he invented was used on this continent for the first time in saving the life of a woman in Toronto General Hospital.

Dr. Murray performed some of the first operations in Canada on children with congenital heart defects—"blue babies"—was the first surgeon to transplant an aortic heart valve and pioneered as an anti-coagulant the use of heparin, an agent which prevents blood clots.

A slight, poker-faced man who appears notably calm in a crisis, Dr. Murray is a non-conformist who has become accustomed to being treated with skepticism by his colleagues.

EXPERTS DOUBT IT

As word of his latest medical breakthrough circulated around the world, one specialist asked whether the report could be a swindle while another said it "does not sound feasible."

Few thought his artificial kidney would work when it was introduced in the Toronto hospital Dec. 6, 1946, after 18 years of speculation, study and intensive experiments.

It was being tried as a last resort to save an attractive 26-year-old woman whose kidneys stopped functioning after she had attempted an abortion.

Every method known to medicine at that time had failed to restore her health and she was dying of uremia, caused when sudden damage to the kidneys stops their function of filtering the blood and removing its waste products as urine.

After a few days the patient began making extraordinary progress towards recovery and a month later she was back to wok.

Tuesday night a 24-year-old accident victim paralysed from the shoulders down since October, 1963, was wheeled before the Toronto East General and Orthopedic Hospital Research Foundation on a bed.

"He hasn't moved a joint for three years," Dr. Murray said after the 24-year-old Quebec truck driver slid his feet off the bed and stood, amazing the formally-attired audience.

He said the victim, Bertram Proulx of St. Jean de Cherbourg, Que., was "in hopeless despair" before an operation to repair his spinal cord.

Dr. Murray repeated the demonstration of Proulx's recovered abilities Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital as he gave a memorial lecture.

In the audience was Dr. James Simpson, who last year separated California-born Siamese twins in an operation at the Hospital for Sick Children, and who was taught surgery by Dr. Murray at the University of Toronto.

Dr. Simpson described Dr. Murray as a man "with the most inquiring mind I ever met."

"His mind is completely open, and because it is he notices certain signs that others see and ignore."

It was his powers of observation that led to the development of an artificial kidney, Dr. Simpson said in an interview.

"He would have a patient in kidney failure coming from some distance in an ambulance. By the time the patient got to him the kidney would have started functioning again. Dr. Murray had the insight to figure out that somehow the jiggling in the ambulance had started it working."

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1967—PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

Since Finance Minister Sharp has been kind enough to prescribe a temporary (heh!) income tax boost as a cure for our national case of hot-pockets, I think we should try to do something nice for him in return.

Obviously, the finest gift from us recipients would be a further tightening of the purse-strings. With this in mind, I suggest that Mr. Sharp arrange for the appointment of a taxpayers' commission to investigate government over-spending.

I would be most happy to volunteer for a place on this body, and since economy is to be our watchword, suggest that appointees settle for rather less than the hundred-a-day and expenses that seems to be Ottawa's minimum for this line of work.

Naturally, we would need a chairman. The logical choice for this post would be a housewife with two kids in school and one in university, and a grocery-budget so slender that she must make every penny count.

Since government is by far our largest and most complex industry, our commission of gored citizens might be in some doubt as to where it should start its cost-cutting operation. Should it whittle from the bottom, as Mr. Sharp has done with his income tax increase, or should it commence at a higher level?

Personally, I'm for starting with the 127 members of Parliament who absented themselves from the Monday night sitting. It's probable that some of those truants were absent with good reason. As for those who weren't, why pay $18,000 salaries to drones and loafers?

Recommended that their ridings be joined to neighboring constituencies represented by MPs more concerned with the people's business!

Having trimmed some fat off that roast, we might then take a sharply critical look at the various departments, with a view to saving a buck where we can. I urge particular watchfulness for feather-bedding, or more formally, for unnecessary increase of any department's manpower count.

We could save a sizeable amount here by drastically reducing the departmental corps of public relations men, including the higher-echelon types whose function is disguised by pretentious titles.

With a passing slash at the department of industry, a hive reputed to possess more $14,000-and-up generals than privates, we will now pass on to an area where our commission can do the finance minister a proper good turn.

The one that comes immediately to mind is the Royal Commission on Biculturalism and Bilingualism, a road show whose stage-managing interested me when this costly production came to Victoria in 1964. That's a long time back, and the Bi-and-Bi, silent since it filed a warning of urgent danger a couple of years ago, is still engaged in its marathon.

We can't do anything about the heavy money which the Bi-and-Bi has already cost the taxpayer. Perhaps, however, we could hasten its deliberations by inserting a penalty clause in its contract.

Then there's the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, a comparative newcomer that got off the mark last February.

At last report, this enquiry was taking time out to think, at $100 a day. After a sufficient period of meditation, it will march on, expensively, for another two years or thereabouts.

I feel that our commission on government spending could save Mr. Sharp a pretty penny by bashing this venture into subsidized suffragetism with might and main.

By so doing—and by persuading government in general to quit spending as if there's no tomorrow—we might nip one of the chief causes of inflation at its source.

Day-Old Baby Left at Door 'Doing Fine'

The white baby, wrapped in two towels, was found at the back door of a home on Kinch Avenue by a nurse returning home from day shift.

Mrs. P. Thomasen, the nurse's next door neighbor, called the police.

The nurse told them: "I drove into the driveway at the back of my house and saw a bundle of rags lying on the doorstep of the back door."

Closer examination revealed the tiny baby wrapped in the towels.

The nurse took the baby to King's Daughters' Hospital, where it was examined, confirmed to be a recent birth and placed in an incubator.

The baby's umbilical cord was tied with a piece of paper-covered wire such as is used in packaging bread.

Hospital administrator Ken Noton said this morning the baby, which was only hours old when found abandoned, is in good condition.

He said: "She looks healthy, strong and normal."

Mrs. Thomasen declined any comment on the startling find.

30 Unions Send Delegates To Picket Line

By BRUCE YEMEN

Representatives of about 30 unions joined the picket line at McCarter Shingle & Shake, Ltd., for an hour today to show solidarity with 17 striking employees.

An estimated 50 men showed up for the quiet 7:30 a.m. demonstration, approved Wednesday night by the Victoria Labour Council.

"I've never seen such unanimous solidarity," said Bruce Robertson, business agent for Local 3802 of the Shingle Weavers' Union which has been on strike since Oct. 17 at the new plant on Songhees Road.

Local 2802 president William Bell said the demonstration will make clear to management that it isn't dealing with only a small group of workers.

Mr. Robertson said an industry-wide meeting of shingle weavers' union delegations in the Pacific region will be held this Sunday in Vancouver to discuss the Victoria strike in particular and the impact of automation on the industry in general.

AUTOMATION

He said the meeting is expected to provide some long-range guidance in handling automation, which is one of the issues in the strike at the modern McCarter plant.

The meeting will give strong support to the Victoria local, he said.

Larry Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council, said the demonstration today was a "gesture" and that any further council action would depend on progress of negotiations in the strike.

Mr. Robertson said the last meeting between the company and union was 15 days ago and repeated union willingness to meet "at any time."

FEAR CREATED

He said the union is trying to adjust to automation advances in the shingle and shake industry but said management had created much fear and suspicion among workers by not making clear its automation aims.

Mr. Robertson said the local 2802 is seeking wage rates similar to others in the industry.

Spokesmen for the company could not be reached for comment.

No representatives of management were in sight during the solidarity picket, union members said.

Mechanic's Condition Said Poor

Eric Kitchen, 21, of 100 Cunard Street, was burned in the sudden fire at Bob's Shell Service, 1880 Island Highway.

David John, 26, of 340 Michigan, was treated for minor burns and released from hospital.

An assessment of the damage was being made today. First estimates put the cost as high as $12,000.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Owner Bob Schwabe said John struck a welding torch seconds before the fire ignited.

"There were fumes from somewhere," he said.

Firemen found the torch still burning after the blaze was extinguished.

Witnesses contradicted one another as to whether or not there was an explosion.

Colwood fire officials say the damage was confined to a customer's car, several tires, tools, and a small part of the building.

The entire interior was damaged by smoke. Schwabe said it is covered by insurance.

PREMIER'S FIGHT

Slander Appeal Set Next Week

A B.C. Supreme Court order requiring Premier Bennett to pay $15,000 damages for slander to George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the provincial purchasing commission, will be appealed next week.

The appeal was scheduled to be heard in Victoria Law Courts Monday, but has now been moved to the Appeal Court in Vancouver. Date and time of the hearing will be announced.

In a Supreme Court judgment last March, Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan ruled that remarks made by the premier at a Social Credit meeting on March 5, 1965, were slanderous and calculated to disparage Mr. Jones as chairman of the B.C. Purchasing Commission.

The premier's lawyer, George L. Murray, QC, filed an appeal against the judgment. He contended that the words which Mr. Jones alleged were slanderous were "not capable of conveying a defamatory meaning."

Tom Berger is counsel for Mr. Jones.

DOCTORS SCARED?

City Ponders Bid For Hypnosis Centre

A 34-year-old electronic technician at HMC Dockyard wants to open Victoria's first hypnosis centre.

Frank Mallory, 4483 Majestic Drive, appeared before the Victoria city finance committee this morning to plead his case and seek the business licence which would permit him to commence operations.

Mr. Mallory has been a hypnotechnician for seven years and has demonstrated his techniques locally and in the United States.

He told the committee that he was a member of the Association to Advance Ethical Hypnosis, an organization recognized and used by the American Medical Association.

Hypnosis is used by several medical doctors in Victoria but the Canadian Medical Association recognizes only hypnotists who are also qualified medical practitioners.

FULL-TIME JOB

Mr. Mallory told the committee that if his application for a business licence was granted he would leave his job at the dockyard to go into full-time work as a hypnosis consultant.

The main object of the proposed operation would be to train people to conduct self-hypnosis prior to visits to the dentist or prior to minor surgery.

Mr. Mallory added that hypnosis was now a generally accepted medical aid, but said he doubted whether the Victoria branch of the CMA would look favorably on his proposals.

"The CMA tends to feel that hypnosis is too time-consuming," he said. "I have the feeling that they are still a little scared of it."

NO OPTION?

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the committee, noted that council had no option but to grant the required business licence.

"The CMA will not approve, they never do approve things like this unless a medical doctor is providing the service," he said. "But unless city council unanimously turns down the application we have no choice but to grant this request. Legally we have no option in the matter."

Mayor Hugh Stephen said council would have to do what was legally right but stressed that he was perturbed by the application.

"I think we should approach the medical profession to get an expert opinion," he said. "I confess that I am a little worried about it. While hypnosis is becoming accepted it is still not an exact science."

UP TO COUNCIL

The committee agreed to advance the matter to city council with a recommendation that the licence be granted but also approved that a check be made with the medical profession to see if any dangers to the public could result.

If the licence is granted Mr. Mallory will establish an office under the name of Victoria Hypnosis Services Limited.

A married man with three children, Mr. Mallory has been a resident of Victoria for 15 years, is a member of Fairfield United Church and leader of the 8th Fort Victoria Cub Pack.

In the past, he said, he has worked in close liaison with doctors and dentists in the city.

Hypnosis services have been operating in Vancouver for 15 years and similar centres are also in operation in Edmonton, Calgary, Toronto and Montreal.

Two Charged In Burglary

Two men were to appear in magistrate's court this afternoon in connection with the robbery of the Union Centre, 2750 Quadra St., Tuesday night.

The pair are to be charged with breaking and entering.

Buttle Lake Visit Comforts Mine Critic

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan today found some reassurance that the main lake of Strathcona Park will not be despoiled by pollution.

He reported that a weekend visit to Buttle Lake to view Western Mines Ltd. dumping of mine tailings into the bottom of the lake gave him an agreeable surprise.

"I watched this dirty grey slurry going out by pipe and disappearing entirely from view," he told reporters.

"There was just no sign of discoloration on the surface of the water.

"This doesn't say it's not doing any harm of course but the company seems to be doing all it can to prevent pollution."

However, he said he would accept the findings of a special research committee which is keeping daily checks of the lake's water for preparation of a report on the slurry's effects on fishlife and potability of the water.

"I don't think it (the slurry) will do any good to the lake but I'll accept the report of the scientists when it is made.

Post Office Substation Open Monday

Victoria's first postal substation will be open for business at 8 a.m .Monday.

Postal Station A, the first in a proposed series of sub-stations, is located near Town and Country shopping centre on north Douglas St.

The official opening will take place at 2 p.m. when Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich will hand the keys of the new building over to Allan Davies, postmaster of Greater Victoria.

"The purpose of the new station is to decentralize and to take the pressure off the main office," says Mr. Davies. "It will provide complete postal facilities."

The site was chosen because it is near the junction of the Trans-Canada Highway and the Patricia Bay Highway, both regular routes for mail carriers.

Thirty carriers and 15 jeeps will serve a large area north of Finlayson Road on Douglas Street; west as far as Langford, Colwood, Glen Lake and Belmont Park and in Cordova Bay and Royal Oak areas.

Residents will be able to pick up undelivered parcels at the station instead of having to go downtown.

Business firms will have their boxes at the station and postage meters for the area will be set up there.

The new post office will keep regular hours—six days a week from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Two Hours Later 'Speed' Was $50

A visitor from Manitoba who police say went 48 miles per hour in a school zone at 9 a.m. today found himself in court and fined less than two hours later.

Magistrate Ostler fined Carnahan $50.

WHAT DOES HIS WORSHIP DO WITH ALL THAT SPARE TIME?

Being the mayor of Victoria is a cinch—if you can stand the pace of 77 meetings a month.

Meetings over the 10-month stretch totalled 135, ceremonial gatherings and speeches to conventions 340, official office... interviews 295.

Soil Shallow and Money Scarce But Uvic 'Friends' Sprouting

The University of Victoria rises in a handsome setting but soil is poor and money scarce for floral landscaping.

These were the hard facts put before about 30 people in the Education and Art Building Wednesday night who answered a call for community horticulturists to help put some bloom in Uvic's cheeks.

The principle function of the university is to teach, said Lloyd McKenzie, lawyer and member of the board of governors. As in all such institutions it is plagued with a shortage of money so aesthetics has taken second place to essentials.

There is a need to harness the energy and skills of gardeners from the garden city to help fill the gap.

TREES IN

Vancouver landscape architect John Lantzius said the university's main effort over the past three years has been planting large trees to compliment the architecture.

Parking areas need screening and the flat campus needs "softening" with elevation changes to make it more interesting.

"There are lots of possibilities," he said. The entire campus could be developed as a giant arboretum possibly, although there is a need for "areas of simplicity," with rolling grass and natural trees.

A. J. Saunders, who heads the building and grounds staff, said the area of the campus now under some form of cultivation is already bigger than Beacon Hill Park.

About 160 acres are at least partly developed. In addition there are 46 acres of cleared bush, 21 acres in turf with drainage and another 12 acres in playing fields.

The soil is very poor, he said, low in organic and mineral content and averaging only six inches over almost impervious clay which means little moisture retention and heavy run off.

The ring road entrance offers great possibilities for floral development, said Tom Harvey a member of the grounds staff.

"This should be the lipstick on the university."

He suggested it would be an ideal setting for rhododendrons and azaleas, flowers suggested by several people as the logical ones to begin with.

AN EXPERIENCE

Uvic's grounds have potential for being an educational experience, said Marcus Bell, biology professor. Only Victoria in all of Canada has the climate to grow any Canadian plant. He suggested the possibility of a national arboretum.

The university has responsibility for basic landscaping but could be open to criticism if it went beyond a certain point in spending, said Chancellor R. B. Wilson.

He envisaged the role of any garden club as providing the extras.

From the meeting came a six-man committee headed by Mr. McKenzie which will receive proposals from the university's landscape architect and other planners and present them to a second meeting of interested horticulturists.

And those present also settled on the name "Garden Friends of the University."

Dangerous Boat Operation Nets Fisherman Fine of $750

Court was told that last July 7 Nelson was spotted by the B.C. Fisheries vessel Laurier in Queen Charlotte Sound. The officers attempted to check the vessel because they thought it was in a closed area.

A chase ensued which lasted for 40 minutes. When the gill-netter stopped the officers approached it in their skiff. They said the fishboat then was started again and bore down on them, narrowly missing the skiff.

They said Nelson shouted, "Get the hell out of the way. You have no business here." They said they were charged twice by the fishboat and narrowly avoided being swamped.

Ask The Times

Q. How did the Black Watch gets its name? P.G.

A. When England was trying to keep Scotland under control, in 1725, the government decided that the "Lobsterbacks" or Redcoats would be too conspicuous when out on forays. The government decided to use Scotsmen and formed six units under high-ranking clan officials. They wore a dark tartan for camouflage purposes and this came to be known as the Black Tartan, and the men who wore it, charged with keeping watch on the Highlands, came to be known as the Black Watch. Official name of the regiment is the Royal Highlanders.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Better to Be Sure Than Uncertain

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The teacher called me for a conference because of an essay my daughter had written as part of a class assignment. It was entitled "My Father," and it went like this:

"My father is the worst father in the whole world. I am ashamed of him. He left us when we were small and my mother had to work to feed us. I hate him."

Abby, my daughter was four years old when her father left us, and she hasn't mentioned him in all these years. She is a moody child but I think it is just her nature. My other children seem happier and better adjusted.

Well, this teacher suggested I take my daughter to a psychiatrist. I don't believe too much in psychiatry. I went to one after my husband left me, and many hundreds of dollars later all I got out of him was the sage advice that I should "adjust" to the situation and make the best of it.

I don't want an emotionally disturbed child on my hands, but I can't afford to pay a psychiatrist just because a teacher says she thinks my child needs one. What should I do?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Ask your family doctor for his recommendations, after telling him the background. Far better to investigate psychiatric help for your daughter and be told she doesn't need it, than not to seek it when she does.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "WORRIED MOTHER" who is concerned about telling her 11-year-old son the facts of life, sounds like many parents with whom I have talked.

After teaching elementary school for 17 years, I have found that the parents of 11-year-olds who think they are going to tell their children something new in revealing the facts of life, have a lot to learn themselves. Sincerely yours,

DAVID S. MILLS, PRINCIPAL,
DOW, ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: I am an only child and have been married a few years. All of a sudden, after 25 years of marriage, my parents say they can no longer put up with each other's "foolishness" and they want a divorce.

I think they are being very foolish and it upsets me terribly, but I don't know how to help them solve their problem.

Incidentally, don't suggest that I try to get them to see a marriage counsellor because they wouldn't, not if it was the last thing they did together.

FORLORN

DEAR FORLORN: Have your parents asked for your help with their problem? I'll bet they haven't, because when two people agree that they've had "enough" of each other, as far as they're concerned, there's no problem.

The only problem I see here is yours. It's the inability to solve a non-existing problem between your parents.

DEAR ABBY: Re that late-working husband who made a habit of worrying his wife because he was ashamed to say to his boss, "Excuse me, I have to call my wife and let her know I'll be late."

Most bosses admire and respect an employee who shows that kind of consideration for his wife. In fact, that is one of the qualities a boss looks for when he considers a man for promotion. How do I know? I'm a boss.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Basal Metabolism—Cost In Calories to Keep Alive

Someone asked, "How is your basal metabolism?"

The answer was, "I didn't know I had one."

Well, almost everyone knows they have one or has heard it mentioned, but many folks do not exactly understand just what it is.

Lowman

Your basal metabolism is the cost in calories just to keep you alive. In other words, to maintain correct body temperature and carry on all of the involuntary body functions.

However, you will have to add more calories to this to provide for your voluntary physical activities. When your food gives you more calories than you need for these activities the remainder is stored as fat. When it gives you less, you lose weight because some of the stored fat is used. While too much stored fat is detrimental to health and figure, a small amount is valuable. Some women are so thin that they have no reserves to call on.

So, the number of calories you require each day depends on your basal metabolism and how active you are. That is why extremely active folks can eat more food without becoming fat and why those who are sedentary should eat less food. Lessened activity is the reason for the lessened calorie need in older years.

You can see what a big difference your physical activity makes when you know that just sitting and thinking takes only five calories an hour while walking uses up about 110 calories an hour. More strenuous exercise such as basketball and extremely vigorous dancing may burn up around 400 or 500 calories an hour.

Many women want to know how many calories they use when doing their housework. If you do the usual fairly light housework, this requires about 70 calories per hour.

If you would like my free leaflet, "Count Your Calories," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SHOPPING GUIDE

French Firm Inspired By Japanese Artists

By Penny Saver

One sure sign of fall is the number of visits we get from representatives of cosmetic companies. Two weeks ago we had a vivacious visitor from England, this week it's the turn of Sadye Bruce, who represents a well-known French company, working out of Toronto.

Her company, whose trade name is synonymous with luxury itself, can always be relied upon to come up with new items that will have you frantically saving your "mad money" in order to try them. Sadye introduced me to two of them this week, and I'm sure that you'll be as intrigued with them as I was.

The first is a new mask that contains a fabulous ingredient which both adds and holds moisture. In this age when Hollywood film stars start having expensive face-lift jobs at 40 instead of the former 50 or 60, face masks are very much a part of our daily struggle to keep our skins ageless. Unfortunately, many of us don't seem able to sneak the time for all the ritual required in most treatments.

One of the great assets of this new mask is that it can be put on over your makeup, thus cutting down many precious minutes. In the morning, used before your skin freshener, after eight minutes your skin is cool and cuddled, ready for anything the day may bring. For a real conditioning treat, allow it to stay on for 16 to 24 minutes at night, after you've cleaned, toned and rinsed.

The number of treatments needed in a week in order to keep your skin fresh and glowing depends on the type of skin you have. Dry skins can take four a week while oily skins should be pampered with this mask between four and seven times a week. If you're troubled with acne, this mask will work wonders if used about five times a week. For $6 you can get a supply for nine treatments.

French though this firm may be, it looked toward the East for the inspiration that produced the second new item that caught my attention. This is a beauty bristle brush which also sells at $6 and is used to apply the mask.

As Sadye reminded me, we women are too strong for our own good these days. Sadye says, "Our hands are almost as strong as a man's, having been developed through boating, archery, sailing, gardening and a dozen other pastimes. Imagine what havoc we produce when we start using those muscle-bound fingers on our faces!"

Sadye explains that the new brush was inspired by the kabouki brushes which Japanese performers use to apply their makeup. They never use their fingers . . . no wonder their skins are always so exquisite once the makeup is removed!

The brushes Sadye's company sells are made of badger bristles and feel as soft as a bird's feather. Mmmm . . . I felt like a famous beauty when I first used mine!

Sadye is in a downtown store all this week in order to introduce Victorian women to these two newcomers. If you want to meet them, call me at 382-3131 and I'll tell you the address.

YORK, England (CP)—The Anglican Archbishop of York, Dr. Donald Coggan, told clergymen at his diocesan conference they must "get with it". He said they should throw out old hymns and introduce new ones which appeal to the young generation. "Why should lusty young men and women refer to themselves as frail and trembling sheep?" he asked.

Proceeds of $2,247 to Be Used for Bed Tables for the Patients

RECORD CROWD AT MOUNT ST. MARY BAZAAR

Both visitors and patients thronged the corridors of Mount St. Mary's Hospital on Wednesday to buy items from the dazzling display of hand-crafted goods and home baking on sale.

A customer on a spending spree could buy multi-colored scatter cushions, a new hat, an apron for every costume, dolls in flowered frocks, little girls' aprons with special crayon pockets and enough goodies and cakes to feed the most sweet-toothed family.

The home-cooking room was one of the most popular stops for visitors. A table packed with home-made bread, jars of mincemeat and preserves and plates of potato salad was sold out in no time.

Christmas cupboards will be well-stocked with treats from the candy tables, looked after by Mrs. C. Rose and Mrs. M. Davis. Boxes of peanut brittle, chewy opera cake, sugar cookies in gold tins topped with ribbons, and rich fruit cakes were quickly bought.

Working at the cooking stall were Sister H. Gordon, Sister L. Dubois, Mrs. M. Reading, Mrs. J. W. Dobbie, Mrs. C. E. Rivers, Mrs. M. E. McLaren, Mrs. C. A. Proud, Mrs. L. R. Bourne and Mrs. J. Michaelis.

There was a doll to suit every little girl's fancy at the dolls and aprons stall where Mrs. F. Toth, Sister A. Lemire and Mrs. J. O'Connor were working. There were dozens of aprons, too.

The Lucky Seven Stall was filled with so many treasures that visitors couldn't resist "one more try." Customers were winning candy, towels, handkerchiefs, toys, perfumes and even corsages. Looking after the drawing were Mrs. C. Hinchcliffe, Mrs. A. T. Johnsen, Mrs. B. G. Ryan, Mrs. W. Milligan, Mrs. D. Baines and Mrs. C. M. Day.

Patients at the hospital, George Kelly, S. Robert Nex and M. Wegleitner sold their own handiwork which included model cars and jewelry. Mrs. M. Claxton and the office staff assisted.

Looking after the white elephant stall were Mrs. M. K. Taylor, Mrs. John Welch and Mrs. C. Dick.

Mrs. S. Law was in charge of the turkey raffle and Mrs. P. Malon, Mrs. V. Madden, Mrs. A. Hamill and Mrs. G. F. Rose handled the other raffle ticket sales.

Arrangements of yellow and gold, red and gold and mauve and gold chrysanthemums decorated the tea room and single chrysanthemums in small bowls centred the guests' tables. Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. M. Kokran, Mrs. E. J. Barnabe, Mrs. H. Jordens, Mrs. E. De Costa, Mrs. H. Bruce, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan and Mrs. McGavurin served the guests.

Keeping a full supply of cookies and sandwiches on hand in the kitchen were Mrs. S. J. Sedgwick, Mrs. W. Rothery and Miss L. McLean.

Proceeds of $2,247 will be used to buy bed tables for the patients.

Arnold-Cronk Vows Exchanged in Ceremony at Gosworth Road Community Church

HEIRLOOM DIAMOND-STUDDED LOCKET WORN AS 'SOMETHING OLD' TOKEN

Rhodena Glenn Cronk wore a diamond-studded locket which belongs to her maternal grandmother as a "something old" talisman when she became the bride of Robert Andrew Fleming Arnold in Gosworth Road Community Church.

Rev. Percy Wills officiated at the service when the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Cronk, 4316 Blenkinsop Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Arnold of Whonock, B.C., exchanged rings and vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie styled on empire lines and trimmed with Guipure lace. Styled with lily point sleeves, the gown was complemented by a full train of Guipure lace that swept back from the shoulders. A large white rose with lily-of-the-valley held her tiered veil of illusion net which misted to her shoulders. She carried a bouquet of golden garnet roses, stephanotis and white heather on top of her grandfather's Bible. The heather had been picked in Scotland by a friend of the bride's family.

Standard baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums were at the altar and white ribbons and tulle marked the pews for the service. Mrs. Cliff Salmond was the soloist, singing "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register, accompanied by organist, Miss Phyllis Hick.

Mrs. Bruce Borden, matron of honor and Mrs. James McGhee, bridesmatron attended their sister. Bridesmaids were the Misses Kristan Andres and Vicki McManus. They wore matching gowns of ice green peau d'elegance, styled on empire lines, with lotus flower and tulle headpieces en tone. They carried cascade bouquets of golden buckskin chrysanthemums with ivy and gold streamers. As jewelry accents they wore aurora borealis necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Pretty Carolyn Borden was flower girl for her aunt, wearing a short frock similar to the senior attendants' and carrying a basket of gold chrysanthemums. As a jewelry accent she wore the bride's gift of a gold locket.

Bruce Borden acted as best man and Ray Arnold, the groom's brother, Paul Chalmers and Reg Hoole ushered the guests.

At the reception following in St. Alban's Church hall a three-tier wedding cake, topped with yellow roses, centred the head table, flanked by candles accented with white heather and tiny gold chrysanthemums. The Saanich 4-H Home Arts Club had decorated the hall. Percy Wills proposed the toast to the bride and Cliff Salmond was master of ceremonies.

Travelling to Victoria for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Arnold, the groom's parents, with Edwin, of Whonock, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Ern Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McManus with Vicki and Steve, all of Burnaby.

As her costume for travelling on honeymoon to up-Island and mainland points the bride chose a tangerine and moss green wool dress topped with a camel hair coat. As jewelry she wore an Oriental jade necklace and earrings, gifts of the groom.

Doyle-Eames Vows Heard in City Church

An heirloom handkerchief carried by her grandmother at her own wedding, was the "something old" talisman for Catherine Alice Eames when she was wed to Thomas Douglas McEwen Doyle in St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The bride wore a floor-length A-line gown of peau de soie, styled along empire lines with an attached train of lace. A chapel veil of illusion net misted from a headpiece of white roses. Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses and pale pink carnations.

Fr. R. J. Caldwell officiated at the ceremony that united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eames, 2116 Keating Cross Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doyle, 961 Easter Road. Mr. Eames gave his daughter in marriage.

Maid of honor was Miss Carol Jones, Seattle. Miss Kathleen Doyle, the groom's sister, and Miss Dawn Law were bridesmaids. The three wore floor-length dresses in shocking pink brocaded taffeta, styled along empire lines, with matching plumed headpieces. They carried cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Lori Law was flower girl in a pink taffeta dress with lace over the bodice. She carried a basket of pink rosebuds, carnations and fern.

Richard Doyle, the groom's brother, was best man. Guests were ushered by Donald Ward and Randy Fry.

The church was decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums, dahlias and zinnias. All the flowers in the church and those used at the reception had been grown by the bride's father.

A reception followed at the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall. The hall was decorated in the same floral theme, with asters to give added color.

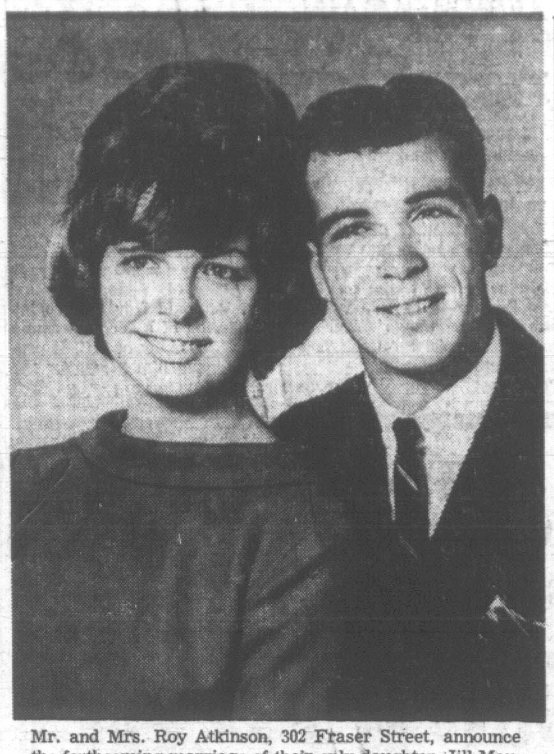
The head table was centred by a three-tier cake, made and decorated by Mrs. James Allan. The top layer was made up of four hearts with white orchids, pink lily of the valley and bluebirds.

Robert Law proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

Travelling from out-of-town for the ceremony were Howard Eames Jr., the bride's brother, on leave from Camp Borden, Ont., where he is a Royal Canadian Navy medical trainee; Clifford Cameron and his son Brian, both of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones and Mrs. A. Jones, all of Seattle.

For travelling, the bride chose an autumn ensemble of light wool with black patent accessories and corsage of white roses.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in Winnipeg and Selkirk, Man.



Mr. and Mrs. Roy Atkinson, 302 Fraser Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Jill Maudeen, to Mr. Gordon James Pengelly, younger son of Capt. Garfield Pengelly and Mrs. Pengelly, 2206 Woodhouse Road. The wedding will take place on Friday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m., in Esquimalt United Church. Rev. H. B. Illsey will officiate. Working Women Are Unfit

TORONTO (CP) — Many working women over 40 are physically unfit, two University of Toronto doctors reported this week in the Canadian Medical Journal.

Dr. John Brown and Dr. Roy J. Shephard tested 62 female department store employees aged 41 to 69 for breathing capacity and heart reactions to a step-climbing exercise and for strength and grip.

The doctors found that 22 of the women had an above-average chance of having a heart attack, and most were overweight. Twenty were obese and four "very obese."

Their lung health was slightly poorer than a sample of average office workers and 12 per cent worse than Scandinavian women's.

The doctors found however, that the older women's grip strength compared favorably with 17-year-old Canadian girls, but not with Danish housewives.

Many Mark Anniversaries

Helping Mr. and Mrs. George Moon celebrate their 28th wedding anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. E. Jackson, who were marking their 24th wedding anniversary; Mrs. E. Jackson and Mrs. Ron Smith, both celebrating birthdays; Ron Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mullard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Viggers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Lisker were celebrating their 21st wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Simmons, their 13th; Mrs. Hughie Robertson was marking a birthday. Rounding out the party were newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. David Peters of Vancouver, Mr. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sawchuk, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Peters of Union Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Liedtke celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary with Mr. and Mrs. Hans Steffen, who were celebrating their third. Mr. and Mrs. W. MacNutt were with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Crust, who were celebrating their 22nd wedding anniversary.

In a birthday party for Mrs. J. J. Armstrong were Mr. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. H. Helander, Mr. and Mrs. A Searle, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cleland. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Young helped Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lamboo celebrate their first wedding anniversary.

Glen Robertson celebrated his birthday with Mrs. Robertson, and Mr. and Mrs. Rus Hart. Helping Dave Ferguson celebrate his 21st birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Woodley, Glynn Harper, Miss Judy Pinniger, Terry Foreman, Miss Marg Naysmith and Miss Joan O'Boyle.

Three dates were marked at another table. Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hayward and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Moscrip celebrated 17th wedding anniversaries and Mrs. L. Gerrath, a birthday. With them were Mr. and Mrs. A. Duyvestyn, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hawthorne.

H. N. Marshall celebrated his birthday with Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lindsey, and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Blake.

Couple Will Live in City After Up-Island Marriage

A wedding of wide interest to Victorians took place at Qualicum Beach recently when Mary Elizabeth Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Duncan of Qualicum Beach, wed Paul Richard Heatherington, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Heatherington of Haney.

Rev. W. Hills officiated at the ceremony in St. Mark's Anglican Church. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

The bride wore a gown of reate elysee with a fitted empire bodice and A-line skirt. The dress was accented by a bateau neckline and elbow - length sleeves, bordered by crystal droplets. A full train extended from the shoulderline. A caplet of Alencon lace with soft flowers held her cathedral veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was of white asters, stephanotis and purple heather.

Mrs. Glen Ballam, Vancouver, as matron of honor, wore a full-length A-line gown in mint green silk crepe with a bateau neckline. Bridesmaids, Misses Amy Riome, Powell River, and Sheila Connorton, Victoria, wore identical dresses styled with a roll collar. The three attendants wore headpieces of bronze chrysanthemums and carried crescent-shaped bouquets of the same flowers.

Donald Calimente, Campbell River, was best man. Ushers were Richard Edwards, the groom's cousin, California, and George van Wilde Rode, Vancouver.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents and her brother Rob Duncan received the guests at a reception in The George Inn. The bride and groom sat at the head table beneath an archway of wedding bells. Wedding bells and lily of the valley topped the three-tier wedding cake. It was flanked by candelabra and chrysanthemums.

Ronald Grant, Victoria, was master of ceremonies. James Trebett, Alberni, proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

Travelling to British Columbia for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Heatherington of Ontario, grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. F. Calimente, of Saskatchewan, and Mrs. R. N. Edwards, California.

For travelling, the bride chose a green and mauve Italian knit suit, accented by a green pillbox hat trimmed with mink, black accessories, and a mauve corsage.

After a honeymoon spent in Montreal and New York city, the couple will return to live at 999 Heywood Way, Victoria.

"100% Colombian coffee should always be vacuum packed to keep it 100% fresh," says coffeegrower Juan Valdez.*

*Proprietary mark of the National Federation of Coffee Growers of Columbia.

Juan wants his coffee to come to you as fresh as the day it was ground from the beans. Because only then can you appreciate the full flavour of his 100% Colombian Coffee.

Juan and coffeegrowers like him spend their lives growing coffee beans that deliver a richer, fuller taste.

Five thousand feet up in the Colombian Andes, the volcanic soil has had 300,000 million years to become rich in minerals. And the tall Guamas trees there spread a tent of shade so the beans can ripen slowly.

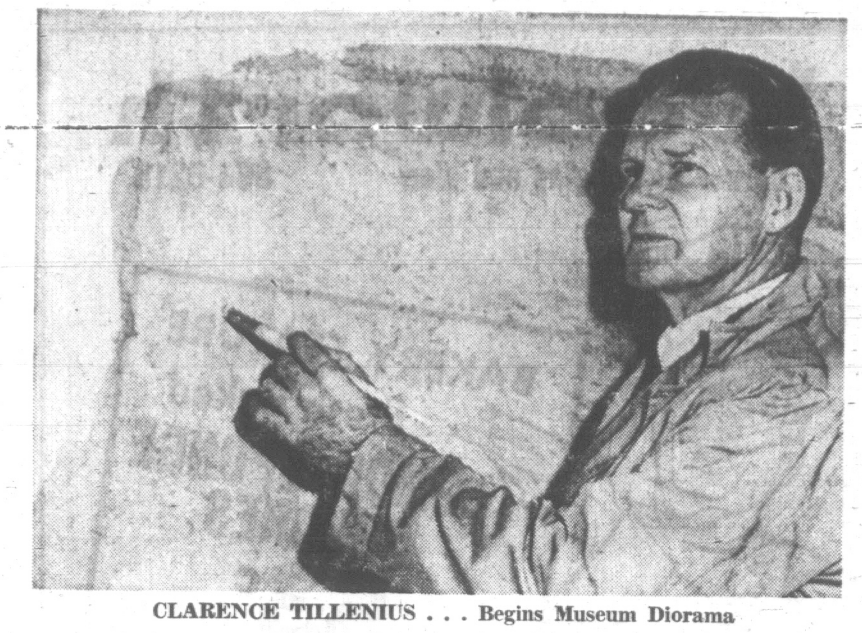
These are the reasons why 100% Colombian Coffee tastes so good. And why Boban vacuum packs it to keep it that way.



CLARENCE TILLENIUS . . . Begins Museum Diorama

His Fight for Conservation Is Done With Paint, Brush

There are several ways of fighting for the preservation and conservation of wildlife in Canada.

Clarence Tillenius of Winnipeg, does his bit with brush and oils on canvas.

His coloring and drawings of moose, deer, buffalo and elk are so realistic that they can't but bring sympathy for wildlife.

Recognized today as one of North America's outstanding wildlife painters, he has been commissioned to paint the backgrounds for three huge glass-enclosed dioramas for the new $7,000,000 provincial museum scheduled to be opened next spring.

SPECTACULAR

He is presently on his first one—painting the background for a tableau depicting the California bighorn in its natural envirement. In this case a site ouverlooking the federal Vaseaux bird sanctuary and the spectacular McIntyre bluff in the Okanagan.

The painting is 35-feet wide and 16 feet high.

When completed it will blend so completely with a natural foreground composed of rocks, grasses, shrubs, flowers and birds of the area that it will actually look like the real thing.

He's done it before—six superb dioramas for the National Museum in Ottawa. He has also been commissioned to make another one for the new provincial museum in Manitoba.

His two other paintings will be on the boreal forest featuring moose and the coastal forest with elk.

ONE YEAR

"It takes about a year to complet a diorama painting—starting with inspection of the site, taking sketches, photographs, planning and painting," he said. "It would take three or four months if you could carry on from one stage to another without a stop."

"For this painting I spent a week looking for a suitable site and about two weeks sketching, photographing and studying every aspect of the area," he added.

As the artist works off and on and is always in search of a subject to paint, he is probably one of the most elusive painters in Canada.

He may be one month in Victoria, the next painting buffalo in Manitoba, and the third living with Eskimos in the far north.

Born in Manitoba interlake country in 1913 (of Scandinavian parents), he started to paint as a boy.

Following high school came years of travel, studying and working with Indians, loggers, fishermen and construction men.

"I soon gained a rich background of experience to draw on which I later put to good use as a magazine illustrator," he said.

In 1937, while working on a construction job in southern Ontario, he lost his right arm in an accident. It was his drawing hand.

Encouraged by a friend, he set to work to master use of his left hand.

"I can now work just as well with my left hand as I did with my right," he said. "I can use a rifle and paddle a canoe. Mind you it's a bit awkward paddling."

'IT'S MY LIFE'

Wilderness areas attracts Mr Tillenius like a magnet.

"All my life I've been working in the field," he said. "It's my life."

When the subject of conversation comes up, the artist becomes concerned.

"Our wildlife areas are doomed to disappear under encroaching civilization unless people who care unite to preserve them," he warned. "I've seen many wildlife areas go."

He has never run into trouble with wild animals.

"Animals never look for trouble," he said. "It's people who disturb them and treat them with indignity. While traveling through a national park I saw people, patting bears on the head, sometimes poking and teasing them."

"And yet, if a bear reacts and injures a person a wave of horror runs through Canada," he added. Remember a wild animal looks upon certain areas as his personal territory just as we consider our property as our own. Their reaction is sometimes like ours when a person trespasses on our property."

NEVER FIGHT IN AFRICA AGAIN

Mercenaries Sign Pledge

KIGALI, Rwanda (Reuters)—A ragged group of 111 white mercenaries who led an anti-government revolt in The Congo signed a pledge Wednesday that they will never fight in Africa again. They signed the pledges in return for their freedom.

The mercenaries from 10 countries, with their leader, Belgian Col. Jean Schramme, 38, signed the pledge in the presence of members of the Organization of African Unity committee on mercenaries.

More than half of about 1,000 mutinous Katangan gendarmes, who fought with them in the revolt against the central Congolese government, chose to return to The Congo under an amnesty promised by the Kinshasa authorities.

The rest of the Katagnans chose to be political refugees outside The Congo.

Deficit Closes Tourist Bureau

DUNCAN—A winter months closure of the Duncan Tourist Bureau is to take effect November 30.

The decision was forced on the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday by news of a projected $900 deficit by the end of the year.

Chairman of the tourist bureau, Sam Keeble said: "It will definitely be opened by May 1 and dates and times of opening will be governed by the tourist demand.

"It is an economy move as we had anticipated a much lower deficit at the end of the year."

Director Keeble made it clear closure of the tourist bureau did not mean an end to Duncan Chamber of Commerce activities.

He said: "The chamber has been carrying the financial load with regard to the bureau and the time has come for a better division of the responsibility."

LONGER HOURS

Mr. Keeble said this winter closing will allow more efficient operation of the bureau next summer, when the bureau could be opened six or even seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Closure will mean dispensing with the services of a full-time manager of the bureau. But chamber president Dick Benzies said: "We have to recognize that if this step is taken we would still need secretarial work done."

Only two directors opposed closure. Gordon Sutherland said: "A lot of tourist dollars come into this area and the bureau serves a specific purpose in helping the tourist industry."

Director Will Dobson said closure of the bureau would be a backward step.

CHAMBER HURT

He said: "The bureau is associated with the chamber of commerce and when the bureau closes the public will consider the chambrer is dead.

"It is going to be very difficult to re-open the bureau once it is closed."

He found no support for an alternative suggestion that membership dues be raised 15 per cent.

NEW CANDIDATES SEEK REGIONAL BOARD SEATS

DUNCAN—The first elected Cowichan Valley regional board may look completely different from the board of interim directors set up in October.

Four new candidates entered the field Wednesday to contest seats at the December 9 elections.

Mill Bay Community League is sponsoring C. B. Meredith, and a second nominee for the Mill Bay area is H. A. (Slim) Warner.

100 Acres Eyed For Sewage Lagoon

DUNCAN — Acquisition of 100 acres of tidal land for a sewage lagoon site in Cowichan Bay should be investigated, a report by Duncan and North Cowichan engineers says.

The report points out that the Pollution Control Board believes that eventually all sewage collected in Cowichan Valley should be discharged into the bay rather than in Cowichan River.

"From an engineering point of view joint use of lagoons for sewage is the most economical method for the area as a whole," the report says.

Connection to the Duncan system by areas in the North Cowichan municipality is not possible without expansion of the system, say the engineers.

ICE RINK RE-OPENING UP FOR DISCUSSION

NORTH COWICHAN—A plan to re-open James Street ice rink for children's skating will be discussed by North Cowichan and Duncan councils and Duncan Recreations Ltd.

North Cowichan councillor Dennis Hogan said Wednesday. "If we can get a reasonable three-month rental, we should do it. He and Reeve Donald Morton will represent their municipality at the meeting.

Coun. Hogan also told municipal council a swimming pool is still the first priority as a recreation project for the south end.

It would be a joint project with the city of Duncan and both councils are awaiting the report of A. B. Sanderson Ltd., the firm which is drawing a development plan for Pioneer Park.

Mr. Hogan said the joint city and municipal recreation commissions also plan a community centre.

This will include an auditorium unless it is found the new "auditorium" planned for Cowichan Senior Secondary School has a sloped floor and is not simply another gymnasium.

In response to a residents' petition, council is to try and obtain title to Vimy Hall and hold it for public use.

'Fire Trap' Charge Discounted

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal officials have rejected the charge that Chemainus General Hospital is a fire trap.

Reeve Donald Morton said Wednesday that he and other officials had investigated and found the charge by a hospital director Earl English (in another newspaper) to be groundless.

The report caused a furore in Chemainus, said the reeve.

Reeve Morton said: "The inspection showed the building to be up to standard in every respect except for some fire doors which are being replaced."

'UNFORTUNATE'

Council's representative on the hospital board, John Cannon said it was unfortunate use of words and there was no intention on the person's part to suggest the building is a fire trap.

Chemainus hospital board has submitted a brief to the B.C. hospital insurance service claiming the need for a new hospital building.

Chokerman Killed by Rolling Log

CAMPBELL RIVER — Chokerman Keith Wellington Olmstead, 20, was killed instantly near here Wednesday afternoon when crushed by a rolling log.

The accident happened near Camp 5 in MacMillan Bloedel's Menzies Bay division, about 25 miles north of Campbell River.

Olmstead was in the process of attaching cables to a log 40 feet long by four feet thick when it shifted. He was a Campbell River resident.

NANAIMO — Brian Keith Roberts, 20, was acquitted Wednesday by a Supreme Court jury trying him on a charge of criminal negligence.

Earlier Wednesday, Mr. Justice G. F. Gregory directed the jury to acquit Lawrence Bryson, 20, jointly charged with Roberts.

The charges followed the death of Michael Shogan, 20, in a car crash on the Island Highway May 6.

Roberts was charged as the driver of a car that collided with Shogan's vehicle and Bryson was charged as owner of the vehicle.

"As a matter of law there is no evidence to warrant a conviction," Judge Gregory told the jury.

Witness Ronald Nichols told the court another auto overtook him shortly before the head-on crash. It veered and swerved, hitting the last of a line of approaching cars.

Court was told those in the Roberts car had been drinking several hours before the accident and Roberts was driving without a licence.

NANAIMO — The Anglo-Canadian division of Van West Logging Co. has mailed notices to its 112 hourly paid employees that operations will cease Nov. 30 if the company is not sold before then as a going concern. The company has operated a sawmill near here since 1956. Further details were not known.

GANGES—Gulf Islands secondary school students will be asked to give their ideas as to what should be done with the open enclave at the school.

The open area surrounded by the covered walkway at the centre of the school was left in its natural state—rock outcrop and weeds—when the school was opened last year, said Mr. Heinekey.

Director Sam Keeble told Duncan Chamber of Commerce Wednesday a neighboring school district and a private boys' school are interested in starting similar courses.

Another 375 received the theory of driving in the classroom.

Mr. Keeble said most of the students are in the 16-year-old bracket and learn the techniques of defensive driving.

Projects Shelved

CAMPBELL RIVER — Financial and administrative problems have shelved two major recreation projects here.

A poor money market for borrowing has halted the arena project and the Government has refused to lease or sell lots around McIvor Lake where the recreation commission wants to develop a camping, boating and swimming area.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Early daytime television produced a surprise the other day. "Romper Room," the television kindergarten, is still around.

So it was back to the files to find that the unpretentious program which began in Baltimore nearly 15 years ago is now a worldwide business.

Stephen

The program was started gy Bert Claster and his wife, Nancy, in 1953. He was an independent television producer, she was a teacher, who became the first "Miss Nancy" for the first Romper Room.

From the beginning, they insisted on a sound, educational base for their pre-school audience. It is preparation for a child's entrance into the schoolroom.

Seventy-nine stations in the U.S. carry the program. It is carried by 15 stations in Canada, 21 stations in Japan, 7 in Australia. Soon to be added to the list are stations in Helsinki, Finland; Rabaat in Africa, and Lisbon, Portugal.

It's not too difficult to introduce the program to a non-English speaking nation since games are pretty much the same all over the world.

The show has always attracted a number of toy manufacturers as sponsors. It is reckoned that Romper Room accounts for an annual sale of 3 million dollars in toys. The show bends towards educational toys and games that lead to physical fitness.

The show has a sameness from day to day but still manages to attract numerous viewers on a daily basis.

According to surveys, Romper Room audiences in the United States, Canada and overseas attract a total of about 4,910,000 viewers per day. Approximately 20 per cent of the viewers are women, who join their children for the program.

Actually, the only changes in the program occur among the ranks of teachers. They do marry, become pregnant and retire.

ONE BIT: There's a game making the rounds about unanswered questions about motion pictures and television. The reason is because no one asks them.

For instance:

Is Jackie Gleason losing weight?

Who will win the skinny contest, Twiggy or Audrey Hepburn?

Who has had more comebacks than Judy Garland?

FEDERAL CHANGES COMING

Juvenile Law To Be Revised

OTTAWA (CP)—Records would become reports, sentences become findings and juvenile delinquents become young offenders under a proposed federal statute now being studied by the provinces.

The legislation is aimed at ending the days when a 12-year-old, so pathetic the guards chipped in to buy him a bicycle, found himself behind the bars of St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

It would make it impossible for anyone under 17 to be sent to a penal institution for adult offenders.

As recently as 1963 Eldon Woolliams, Conservative MP for Bow River, told the Commons of a boy in Dorchester Penitentiary so small the guards feared he would squeeze through the bars of his cell.

Federal officials said Wednesday the redrafted Juvenile Delinquents Act, renamed the Children and Young Offenders Act, would prevent such situations.

A number of juveniles were still being sentenced to penitentiary or prison but the practice was to send them to reformatories instead.

ARE STILL JAILED

Because of lack of other facilities, juveniles were still occasionally jailed with adults in some parts of the country.

Federal officials have termed the thick revision, crammed with explanatory notes, suggestions and question marks, a "basis for discussion."

A federal-provincial conference on the subject is scheduled for early 1968 and a number of changes may be suggested there.

Copies of the report, aimed at modernizing and standardizing juvenile law procedure, have been sent to attorneys-general across the country.

The 17th birthday would mark the maximum age, now 16 to 18 depending on the province.

Youths between 14 and 17 would be classed as young offenders, subject to a fine of up to $100 or a term up to three years in training school.

EMPHASIZE PROBATION

However, the emphasis would be on probation and other such methods.

Under 14s would be known as child offenders.

A juvenile court judge could order a young offender, between 14 and 17, to an adult court for trial and sentence.

He could also order the young offender to an adult court for trial only, the youth to be remanded back to juvenile court for sentence.

Either the young offender or an attorney-general could require an adult court trial, but in either case the juvenile court would decide the "disposition" or sentence.

The draft specifies that no one under 17 may be committed to an adult institution.

However, it admits that waiver for trial and sentence in an adult court would imply that the youth was not suitable for an institution for young offenders.

This "leaves hanging" the question of where those sentenced on serious charges should be sent, the draft says.

RETIRED postman Danny Watson, 75, drinks a glass of beer while riding his pony, Dolly, outside the Black Lion pub two miles from his Hetersgill, England, home. And therein lies a tale. He used to be driven to the pub by motorist friends but the recently enacted British law enablling police to give drunkometer tests to motorists and the stiff punishment to offenders cut down on the use of autos at night. Watson got around the problem by buying Dolly and riding her to his favorite drinking spot.

Manned Aircraft Here to Stay

The age of aircraft is only just beginning, Lt.-General L. C. Craigie told the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island Wednesday night.

He said the theory that missiles and rockets would supercede the manned airplane had proved false.

"The large strategic missiles went underground or underwater, but the airplane continues to do the work. Today we realize that the manned airplane far from being obsolete, is only just beginning its career."

SAW LAUNCHING

From a distance of 3½ miles, he watched the 6,000,000-pound rocket being lifted by a cluster of five engines with a combined thrust of 7,500,000 pounds.

"It was spectacular. It was magnicent. It was awe-inspiring and a tremendous success," the general said.

Minis Make Money

LONDON (AP) — Radical change in women's fashions this year to shorter and shorter skirts has helped increase British exports $28,000,000 in 1967 to date, says J. A. Winkup, chairman of the British Man-Made Fibres Federation.

Driver Hurt In Collision Of 2 Trucks

The driver of a B.C. Telephone truck was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital after a two-truck collision on Douglas St. at 9:45 a.m. Wednesday.

A six-year-old girl also suffering from head injuries is in good condition in hospital as a result of an accident Tuesday.

Louise Moser, 2811 Nanaimo, was crossing Rose St. at 2:15 p.m. when according to police she was struck by a car driven by Alexander Grant of 1210 Tattersall.

Out-of-Court Settlement For $90,000

An action in B.C. Supreme Court by Lee Wong, 3306 Wordsworth Street, Victoria, against Lee Wa Kim, Jack Lee, McKenzie Greenhouses Ltd. and Irvine Greenhouses Ltd., has been settled out of court.

The settlement followed hearings in Victoria Law Courts June 26-30 and in Vancouver Oct. 23-24.

Lee Wong claimed $210,811 alleged to be due to him as a shareholder and foreman of the two greenhouse companies. Lee Wa Kim and Jack Lee, 552 Fisgard Street, were named as co-defendants.

Patrick J. Sinnott, counsel for Lee Wong, announced today that, under the settlement, the defendants will pay $90,000 to Mr. Wong.

Baird Shakes Critics' Barbs, Won't Back Up

Ald. Robert Baird said today that he didn't mind being "sniped at by my fellow aldermen" because they "would not shoot at a dead duck."

The four-year alderman, who is seeking re-election to Victoria city council in December, came under heavy fire Wednesday for charging that city manager Dennis Young was not fulfilling his duties.

This morning he said the ability of the city manager was not under question but the question of inflation was.

"Raising the city manager's salary by $5,000 in four years needs a critical eye in this highly inflationary period," he stated in a prepared press release.

SAVE FEES

"If a job survey within the city hall senior staff is needed let the responsibility be the city manager's. Three thousand dollars to $5,000 could be saved. The ability of the city manager is not the question before me, the question is how to best hold the inflationary line.

"You can't fire a gun off gradually."

The survey mentioned by Ald. Baird is a proposed job relativity study.

The results of the survey would be used to ascertain areas of overlap and would serve as a future base for department head salary levels.

B.C. Coast Ship Pilots End Walkout

West Coast ship pilots were back on the job today after a brief walkout in support of a grievance being lodged in Ottawa.

Information on the nature of the grievance was sketchy, but it was believed to involve a bid by Canadian Merchant Service Guild on behalf of its member pilots for an increase in pay.

Pilots quit Wednesday morning but by 8 p.m. had agreed to return to work on the understanding that appropriate action was being taken in Ottawa.

During the period of work stoppage, about eight or 10 deepsea vessels moved without pilots in B.C. inland waters.

'IMPROVED'

Asking a question in the House of Commons about the work stoppage, Victoria MP David Groos was told today by Registrar-General John Turner the situation was "improved."

Transport Minister Paul Hellyer was absent from the House at the time.

There are 74 pilots engaged in guiding ships in and out of harbors and waterways on Vancouver Island and mainland B.C. as far north as Port Simpson. Twenty-nine are based in Victoria, 39 in Vancouver, and six at Nanaimo.

Deputy Minister On Pollution Board

Deputy Health Minister Dr. J. A. Taylor Wednesday was appointed to the provincial Pollution Control Board, replacing his assistant Dr. Kenneth Benson.

Resources Minister Ray Williston, minister responsible for pollution control, said cabinet made the change to underline the increased stature of the board.

Tenants Eligible?

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, B.C. (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Wednesday his department is giving "favorable consideration" to a proposal that tenants, as well as property owners, be allowed to run for municipal office.

FINANCING IN LOW GEAR?

The provincial government Wednesday shifted into low gear in financing school construction across the province.

The cabinet approved a $1 million debenture issue, paying 6¾ per cent interest over 20 years, by the B.C. School Capital Financing Authority.

The amount contrasted sharply with the $25 million and $50 million issues approved in the past year.

Former Frigates To Shed Shafts

Going up the marine railway for what may be the last time are three former RCN frigates—Stettler, Jonquiere and Oshawa—which are having their shafts pulled as part of the scrapping process.

The vessels were bought by Capital Iron and Metals Ltd. and part of the dismantling has been contracted to McKay-Cormack shipyard.

Stettler is pulled up at present having its shaft withdrawn. Underwater valve ports and stem openings will be blanked off to make the hull seaworthy.

Jonquiere and Oshawa will follow, going back to the Capital Iron dock for further dismantling.

Capital Iron manager Morris L. Greene—whose ship-breaking operation is Morris Industries—said it had not been decided whether the hulls would be sold here or towed away for final disposal.

YOU TELL a group of third and fourth graders to pose in a library and you wind up with 25 hams. Instead of one picture you get a collection of expressions—exuberance, hauteur, dimpled coyness, firm determination, and out-and-out camera hogging. By Grade VIII they'll all be competing for the deadpan award. The scene marks Young Canada Book Week at Victoria Public Library. These Lochside pupils were first in a parade of class visits. Miss Sheila Egoff, author and associate professor, UBC school of librarianship, spoke to "Friends of the Library" at a reception Wednesday night on "Writing for the Child Today", in conjunction with the same event. The gang above suggests bright pictures are the main enticement to book shopping. (Times photo.)

Insurance for Berry Crops Now Available

A federal-provincial berry crop insurance plan, the first in North America, is now available to Vancouver Island growers.

The plan, designed to protect commercial berry growers against the ravages of nature, provides insurance for strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, cranberries and blueberries.

It will cover losses from freezing, frost, hail, uncontrollable flooding, rain damage, excessive heat or drought, windstorm and snow and ice damage, an official of the B.C. department of agriculture said today.

Under the Dominion Crop Insurance Act, the federal government will contribute 25 per cent of the premiums necessary to make the insurance plan self-sustaining and 50 per cent of the administrative cost involved in operating the plan.

The B.C. government will contribute the other 50 per cent of administrative costs and will be responsible for the preparation and operation of the plan.

The plan is explained in fuller detail in a booklet to be sent soon to berry growers.

Tough-Talking Scot Leaves For London

LONDON (CP) — The Scottish Nationalist party came to the House of Commons today, with scores of Welshmen as well as Scots hailing a tough-talking charmer named Winifred Ewing, 38.

Mrs. Ewing's triumph for the Scottish Nationalists over a Labor candidate in this month's byelection at Hamilton, Scotland, was the latest product of what seems to be a Celtic political revival.

The victorious Scot, all out for independence, was seen off at Glasgow Central Station Wednesday night by a crowd that chanted: "Good Luck, Winnie."

With her on the train to London went Scottish Nationalist enthusiasts from all over Scotland. They included starry-eyed matrons from Fife and a burly footballer from Aberdeenshire.

In the British capital, they linked up with Welsh Nationalists.

With Gwynfor Evans their man in Parliament, the Welsh Nationalists keep on with discussion meetings in Wales. The talk concerns such subjects as resolutions urging that road signs in Wales be printed in Welsh as well as English.

U.S. MUST WIN VIETNAM WAR

'Only Thing Communists Understand Is Strength'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The only thing Communists understand is force.

And the only way to end the war in Vietnam is to win it.

So says Lt.-Gen. L. C. Craigie, much-decorated veteran of the United States Air Force, now visiting Victoria.

"Communists don't understand conciliation," he said in an interview at the Empress Hotel. "I discovered that while serving on a United Nations' team which conducted peace talks in Korea in 1951.

"The team never got anywhere until it got tough, and the peace talks went on for two years. The Communists never gave an inch until we showed strength.

"They weren't there to negotiate peace; they qere there for propaganda purposes."

'PROFESSIONAL JOB'

General Craigie said he visited Vietnam and Thailand three months ago and was inspired by the "magnificent, professional job," being done by U.S. forces.

"They are fighting highly-defended bases in North Vietnam which are obviously fortified by Communist forces, and they are making progress.

"These well-meaning people who talk about calling off the war in Vietnam don't understand the Communist mentality. The only way to end the war in Vietnam is to win it."

General Craigie said anti-war factions in the United States are getting "so much publicity" that their significance is exaggerated abroad.

DEDICATED EFFORT

"The great majority of Americans do not question our war effort. And our serviemen in Vietnam do not quarrel with the job they have to do. They are part of a dedicated effort to halt Communist aggression."

Now retired from the U.S. Air Force, General Craigie is advisor on air force requirements for the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation at Burbank, Calif.

"My job is to assist the corporation in meeting the needs of the U.S. forces, and those needs are constantly changing."

During his air force career, General Craigie flew 9,000 hours pilot time and was the first U.S. military pilot to fly a jet plane—at Muroc, Calif., in October, 1942.

"Both the British and the Germans were ahead of us in jet flying," he said, "and only the Germans flew jets in the Second World War. They flew them early in 1944, but they were too late to stem the Allied march on Berlin."

Visiting Victoria for the first time, General Craigie is accompanied by his wife, whose name is Victoria.

"We have wanted to take this trip for a long time," he said, "because so many of our neighbors in Burbank have told us about it."

General and Mrs. Craigie were received at Government House Wednesday by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes.

A MESSAGE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

. . . Regarding Butchers' Strike Threat

As customers of our food stores you should know that strike action threatened by the Meat Cutters' Union would close our entire stores, not merely the Meat Departments. You would be denied service and would suffer shopping inconvenience. Our other employees would suffer too as they would be forced out of work by the Meat Cutters' action. What are the facts of this dispute?

The Employers accepted the Conciliation Board Report granting all employees a forty cents (40c) per hour wage increase. Typical rates of pay would be as follow:

WAGE RATES

$224 RETROACTIVE PAY FOR EACH FULL-TIME EMPLOYEE TO DATE

Continued wage increases and other employee benefits increase operating costs. We could agree to all of the Union's demands and pass the added costs on to the housewife but we are not prepared to do this. We wish to be fair to our employees, but at the same time must try to hold down costs to consumers.

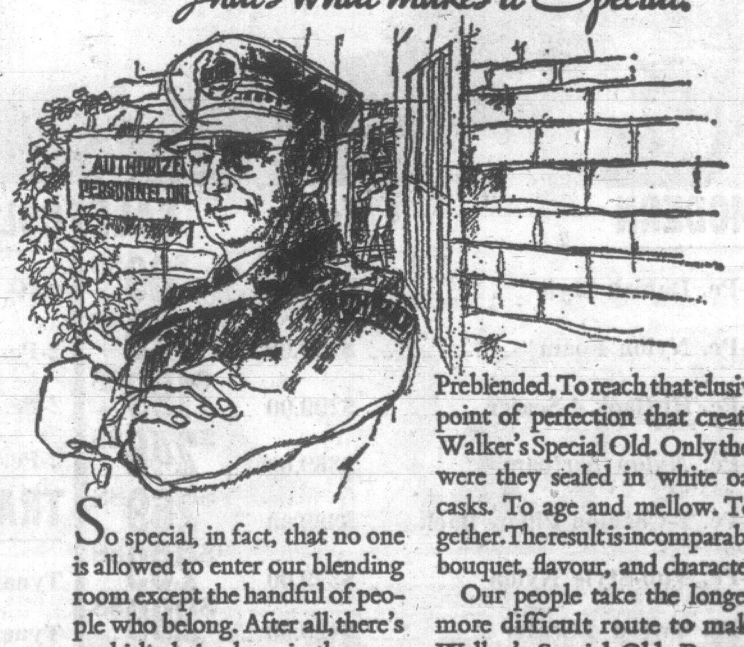
Hiram Walker's Special Old Canadian Whisky is blended first; aged later. That's what makes it Special.



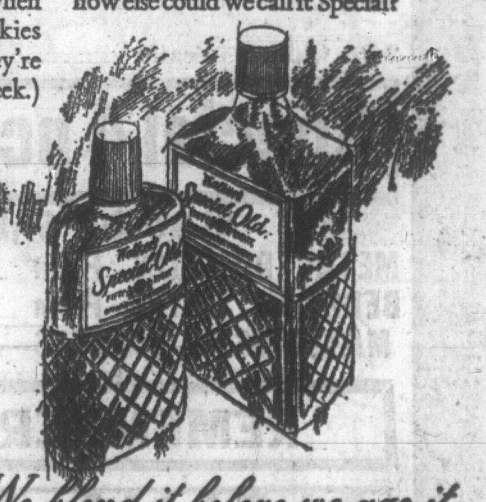
So special, in fact, that no one is allowed to enter our blending room except the handful of people who belong. After all, there's a whisky being born in there.

Because a whisky is born when it's blended. (Most whiskies are blended just before they're bottled. Like maybe last week.)

But Walker's Special Old was blended long ago. The very day that its ingredient whiskies were distilled. They were carefully and painstakingly combined.

Preblended. To reach that elusive point of perfection that creates Walker's Special Old. Only then were they sealed in white oak casks. To age and mellow. Together. The result is incomparable bouquet, flavour, and character.

Our people take the longer, more difficult route to make Walker's Special Old. Because how else could we call it Special?



We blend it before we age it.

BLASTS, FALL-OUT OVER CANADA

Missile Site on Border?

WASHINGTON (CP)—Ten potential defence missile sites—five on or near the Canadian border—were announced Wednesday by the U.S.

They will be surveyed for use in the so-called "thin missile defence system the U.S. recently decided to build over six years for $5 billion. Official reason is a defence against a missile threat from China in the 1970s. Critics of the plan see it as the first step in a system that could grow to cost $40 billion.

Sites will be surveyed at Seattle, Grand Forks, N.D., New York City, Detroit and Boston, said the U.S. Defence department. Others are Chicago, Salt Lake City, Dallas, Albany, Ga., and Hawaii.

Special radars will be beamed over Canada and the Pacific. Spartan missiles would seek to intercept and destroy enemy rockets up to 400 miles away. Faster, shorter-range rockets called Sprints would ring major cities to pick off any missiles that evaded the Spartans.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., son of a prominent Canadian scientist and McGill graduate, testified recently before Congress as the Pentagon's research chief that the U.S. system would cause explosions over Canadian territory.

"If any people were looking at that part of the sky, the flash would temporarily blind them," he said. But he contended there would be no "serious" after-effects.

His submission showed long-range Spartans intercepting enemy missiles deep in Canada although high in the atmosphere. The faster Sprints with a range of about 30 miles, located at Detroit for example, would dump heavy heavy nuclear fallout in Canada if used.

BAIL REFUSED IN DRUG CASE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Americans facing charges arising from the seizure of marijuana Sunday were refused bail Tuesday and were remanded in custody until November 21.

Craig Wallin, 22, and Harry Donovan, 21, both of Seattle, are charged with possessing the drug for the purpose of trafficking.

They both face an additional charge of trafficking in marijuana.

B.C. Indians Stall Talks

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Indian Affairs Minister Laing is being urged to set a time limit for British Columbia Indians to settle a dispute which is holding up parliamentary consideration of a bill establishing the Indian claims commission.

It has been government policy since 1963 to establish the commission to assess and settle all Indian claims and grievances against the federal government.

The late Guy Favreau, then superintendent-general of Indian affairs, pledged in 1963 the commission would be created.

A government bill to do so was withdrawn in 1963 after being severely criticized by Indian bands. A similar bill got second reading in 1965 in the Commons.

The 1965 bill then was shown to Indians, fulfilling government promises to consult them on every major development affecting them.

The consultation uncovered a dispute among British Columbia Indians as to who should be their spokesman before the commission. It was decided not to go ahead with further parliamentary action until the dispute was settled.

Indian affairs officials say settlement of treaties and some sort of recompense for loss of historic hunting and fishing rights are necessary to eliminate a feeling among many Indians that the white man is guilty of bad faith.

This was also a recommendation of the recent report on Indians and the law, prepared for the government by the Canadian Corrections Association.

While the government is anxious to work on the problems it is felt it must allow B.C. Indians as much time as possible to iron out their own difficulties.

NEW LINK IN EVOLUTION THEORY

28-Million-Year-Old Skull Said Forerunner of Man

NEW HAVEN, Coun. (UPI) — Discovery of a new link in the evolution of man was announced to day by a Yale University professor who led an expedition to Egypt which unearthed the skull of an ape who died 28 million years ago.

Prof. Elwyn Simons, a professor of geology, said the skull is eight to ten million years older than any previously uncovered and represents a "major connection link" in the evolution of primates.

The skull, which is incomplete, was "better preserved than any fossils related to man that are older than 300,000 years," Prof. Simons said.

He displayed the discovery at the final day of the annual meeting of the society of vetebrate paleontologists. Simons is curator of the vetebrate paleontolity — fossilized remains — at Yale's Peabody Museum of Natural History.

Simon's described the skull as a "major stage in the documentation of the forerunners of man." The animal found 60 miles southwest of Cairo in the Fayum Desert, was originally "about the size of an organ grinder's monkey," the professor said.

The skull was unearthed by Grant Meyers, a research Associate of the Peabody Museum. Encased in rock, the skull was flown back to Yale for examination.

When the rock was chipped away, the skull was found to be "unusually complete," missing only parts of the top and bottom and four teeth.

Researchers studied the ground in which the skull was found to arrive at the estimated age of 28 million years.

Simons said that while the animal had been fairly primitive "it already possessed most of the distinct features of higher primates."

He said the discovery "tends to confirm" theories of association between other established links in the evolution of man.

Dream City A Reality?

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Plans are being made to build a model dream city in Minnesota—possibly one weatherproofed with plastic domes—an engineer on the government-supported project reports.

Max L. Feldman of the General Electric Co. reported Monday the federal government has contributed nearly $250,000 to aid private industry planning for the estimated $6,000,000,000, built-from-scratch city that would have 250,000 population, and might be complete by 1976.

He told a science-writers seminar that planning concepts include two-mile diameter domes; multi-purpose buildings to include homes, business concerns and recreational facilities; and computerized medical check-up systems.

Feldman said the financing might be accomplished by selling stock to the public.

The city would be built 50 to 100 miles from any existing large city.

Trials Soon For Repaired Rupert Queen

The B.C. government ferry Queen of Prince Rupert, which has been under repair since running on to a reef three months ago, is expected to begin trials this week.

Engine trials will be conducted at the Burrard Dry Dock where the vessel's crumpled bottom and damaged engine room have been under repair. She will then be given sea trials before returning to the Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert run.

Monty Aldous, general manager of the B.C. Ferry Authority, said there was no definite word on when the $6,500,000 ferry would return to service.

$300,000 Left To Pets

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI)—An attorney and the nephew of a wealthy woman who loved pets have been named to be executors of her will, which gives $300,000 to three-score dogs and cats.

The executors, named in a probate hearing before Judge William McGee, are Sidney Lipscomb of Crane, nephew of Mrs. Dora T. Rollins, and attorney Robert Newkirk.

Mrs. Rollins died last month. In her life, relatives said, she had few close friends among humans, but cared for virtually every stray cat or dog that came around. She kept spotless pens and quarters for the pets.

The will also provided for somebody to be hired to take care of the pets and live rent-free in Mrs. Rollins' home. Nobody has been chosen yet.

STOP TIPPING

The Holland-America ship line says it has decided to abolish tipping aboard its passenger-carrying ships because the system is outdated and a source of embarrassment and irritaton to passengers.

NEW DRUG

Dramatic Recovery From Burns

TORONTO (CP) — Four critically burned survivors of the crash of a Czechoslovakian airliner at Gander, Nfld., in September made dramatic recoveries after treatment with a new semi-synthetic type of penicillin, said the Canadian Medical Journal.

The new penicillin, developed in Britain and called Carbenicillin, "may well play a future role in the reduction of mortality due to infection of severe burns" the magazine says in an article by a Halifax medico-science team.

The team of four doctors and two technicians was headed by Dr. C. E. van Rooyen.

The crash killed 35 passengers. Of the survivors, 20 were admitted to Halifax's Victoria General Hospital.

Carbenicillin was imported from Britain with the permission of the federal food and drug directorate. It provided emergency treatment for the four most critically burned.

SUFFERED BAD BURNS

Two were women in their mid-20s who suffered third-degree burns to 45 per cent of their bodies. One was a 30-year-old woman with 40 per cent burns, half of them third degree, and the fourth was a 16-year-old boy. All had frequent bouts of fever and chills.

After intravenous injections of the new antibiotic, all were well enough to take skin grafts within a few days, the report said.

"Although only four cases have been treated, the effect of the antibiotic has been impressive," the article said.

Laboratory investigation showed a quick and marked reduction of a type of bacteria known as pseudomonas aeruginosa. Skin reconstruction processes began and the antibiotic proved valuable during periods of grafting when patients are vulnerable to infection.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to James Scott, age 8, of Thomasville, North Carolina for his question:

How big is the star Sirius?

First a young astronomer learns to find the North Star. Then he wants to find the brightest star in the sky. But before he can do this he must learn to pick out the planets. This is because some planets can outshine the biggest and brightest of the stars.

Sirius is the brightest star that ever shines at night above the earth. Many other stars in the heavens are bigger and brighter. But they are farther away from our Solar System. Distance makes them look dimmer. And Sirius is one of our closest starry neighbours. It is also a whale of a star, bigger and much brighter than our own glorious sun. We call it the Dog Star because it is part of the constellation Canis Major, the Big Dog. Canis Major follows after Orion, the most dazzling constellation of our winter skies.

Stars, even small ones, are huge. We must strain our brains a bit to grasp their sizes. It is not easy for a small person to grasp the full size of our big round world. And compared with Sirius, our planet Earth is almost too small to mention. Let's begin by comparing the sizes of the earth and the sun. Then let's compare the size of the sun with the sparkling Dog Star.

The world diameter sounds very grand but any young astronomer can learn to handle it. It means the width of a star or a planet. The earth's diameter is a straight line through the exact centre of the globe from side to side. It is almost 8,000 miles long, or twice the distance of the full length of North America. The diameter of the sun is 860,000 miles. Our starry sun is more than 100 times wider than our own world. The diameter of Sirius is about 112 million miles, which is almost twice the width of the sun.

Twice as Big as Sun

Now let's scale these immense objects down to smaller models. Suppose the sun was a beach ball two feet wide. On the same shrunken scale, the earth would be about the size of a pea. The star Sirius would be a whopping beach ball with a diameter of almost four feet. Compared with this small model of Sirius, the earth would still be no bigger than a pea.

Another way to measure the size of an object is by volume. Its volume is the amount of space it occupies. The volume of the sun is more than a million times greater than the volume of the earth. If it were a hollow star, the sun could swallow a million earth-sized planets and still have plenty of room for dessert. And if Sirius was hollow, about eight sun-sized stars could be stuffed inside it. And the Dog Star is more than eight million times bigger than our whole world.

Our daytime star, of course, is the sun. It seems much bigger and it shines 13 million times brighter than Sirius. This is because it is close to us. The sparkling white light of Sirius takes more than 8½ years to reach us. If the two stars were side by side, Sirius would shine 30 times brighter than the sun. And the dazzling Dog Star is nearly twice as wide and also twice as hot as our sun.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Brice Salyers, age 10, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, for his question:

What kind of creature is a goony bird?

The word "goony" means clumsy and somewhat stupid. You would not expect to use this word to describe a graceful flying bird, but the mariners on old sailing ships did just that. They called the wide-winged albatross the goony bird. His slim white wings are tipped with black and in flight he can spread them to a width of 12 feet. He is an ocean-going bird who visits the land only to nest and bring up his children. The rest of his life is spent entirely at sea and the great birds can soar and glide gracefully aloft for many hours.

In flight the albatross is a wonder to behold. But he is not built for land maneuvers. He often follows ships, hoping for scraps of food. Sailors of olden days regarded him as a sign of good luck, especially when he landed on the deck. But while aboard the ship the big bird was far from graceful, and when time came to leave, his take-off was clumsy — or goony. That is the reason why the elegant albatross became known as the goony bird.

Osteoarthritis, the degenerative form known as "arthritis of old age" attacks both men and women equally. It usually affects those joints which are subjected to the greatest physical load—those carrying the body weight such as the spine, hips and knees. It is often found in people who are overweight.

ON CHATEAU

Real Estate Dealer Loses $56,000

Five more Crown witnesses told an extradition hearing in magistrate's court Wednesday they lost considerable sums of money in the Chateau Victoria fiasco.

And two of them resigned as officers of BHP Investments, the company behind the project, because they said they came to distrust promoter Charles Warren Beeler.

The hearing is being held to present crown evidence calling for the extradition of Beeler, now living in San Francisco.

Frederick Pollard, manager of the Yorkshire and Canadian Trust Co., told the hearing he resigned from BHP "because I found Beeler had used funds for himself when they should have been paid into the company."

He said he invested in the company himself.

LOST $20,000

"The adventure cost me $20,000 and a lot of trouble."

Cyril Chapman told the hearing he resigned as manager of the Empress Hotel in early 1963 to become general manager of the chateau.

By July of 1963, he said he lost confifence in the project "because I had doubts about the integrity of Mr. Beeler."

He said he bought one share in the company believing $4,990 of the $5,000 was a loan. He resigned in November, 1963, losing the entire amount.

John Brown, a Seattle real estate dealer told the hearing he lost $56,000 on the deal.

He said he swapped some California property for the Esquimalt site of the Chateau early in 1962, but that Beeler bougth it back a few months later.

SIGNED NOTE

Brown told the court Beeler signed a note for $97,400 for the property and later gave Brown 10 shares as payment.

—He said the $56,000 loss excluded "anticipated profits from the sale of properties."

Bulldozer operator Lawrence Arnold told the hearing he did several months bulldozing work on the property for Beeler and was paid in full.

But he too said he bought one share for $5,000 and a second for $1,000.

Vancouver real estate dealer Frank Kearney said the lagoon property was foreclosed in 1964 and later sold for $100,000.

He said he paid $3,500 for two shares in BHP.

The hearing is expected to conclude today.

AT HOME now is Mrs. Mary Sotnick who, on Oct. 21, was pronounced dead by a Toronto coroner. The 79-year-old widow was declared dead by coroner Elie Cass and funeral arrangements were being made when Mrs. Sotnick's son saw the sheets move on her bed. She was taken to hospital and four days later regained consciousness. She is looking forward to spending another Christmas with her five children and seven grandchildren.

CABINET WON'T TALK PAROLE UNTIL 1969

OTTAWA (CP)—Solicitor-General Pennell told the Commons Wednesday the cabinet cannot consider until June, 1969, parole for Steven Truscott, whose murder conviction was confirmed by the Supreme Court of Canada this year.

He gave this reply to a written question by Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre). Mr. Pennell said 10 years must elapse after conviction before parole can be considered.

In June, 1959, Truscott, then 14, was convicted of the strangling death of Lynn Harper, 12, in Clinton, Ont.

HOME GARDEN

Azaleas Welcome Dampness

By HILDA BEASTALL

You may have an azalea growing in a pot, hopefully looking forward to flowering it by Christmas week.

Hilda

These potted azaleas are easy enough to keep for years, having them in bloom for four or five months at a time.

By November the plants should be full of buds after spending the summer outdoors, or lacking a garden, in a sunny window for part of the day.

Since azaleas resent hot, dry air, they will need dampness at the roots, and dampness through the foliage every day.

An easy way of attending to this is to stand the pot in a basin of water twice a week for an hour so that the entire root ball will be thoroughly moistened.

Each day the plant should have tepid water syringed through the foliage from an atomizer. Doing this in a sink or tub is the least messy way.

ROOT DRYNESS

Leaves drying and falling from potted azaleas at this time of year can usually be traced to dryness of the roots and the dry air of the house.

Flower buds will be found at the tips of every little branch and syringing with clear water aids in their development. Once the buds commence opening avoid syringing over the petals.

An azalea in a shallow five-inch azalea pot can bear a hundred or more blossoms. Regular watering is needed to keep them coming, and removing the tiny stem which bore the blossom after the petals fall prevents wasted effort by the plant attempting to make seed.

Fertilizer is best given after the plant has quit blooming, perhaps by March or April. It should then be repotted into fresh leafmould and peat-moss, fed with an acid-type fertilizer, and put outdoors around the middle of May to grow all summer. Buds should be set by October for the next winter's blooms.

Laboratory Blast Hospitalizes Pair

Injured Sprayed With Glass, Acid

By DON VIPOND

A shatering blast in a government research laboratory this morning sprayed two men with acid and glass fragments.

Both were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance after a safety shower in the laboratory failed to work.

Dr. Joseph Baker, 44, of 3498 Lovat, is in "fair" condition with multiple laceration and acid burns. His lab technician, William Eric Payne, 20, of 905 Lawndale, was treated for similar but less serious injuries and released.

Windows and light fixtures splintered and chemicals powdered the second-floor laboratory at the Federal Forestry Research Building on West Burnside just north of the Trans-Canada Highway after the explosion about 9:40 a.m.

EXPLOSIVE LIQUID

The injured men were working with percloric acid, an explosive and corrosive liquid used to break down organic matter.

When the blast occurred four flasks of the acid were housed in a metal oven-like enclosure called a fume hood which is equipped with an exhaust system.

A glass sliding door closing off the hood was blown to bits.

"It almost blew my ears off," Martin Talmon, a research technician in an office across the hall, said of the noise.

COVERED WITH BLOOD

Both men were covered with blood.

Saanich police, firemen and two ambulances converged on the building.

"It was a terrific explosion," said assistant fire chief Thomas Moss. He said Mr. Payne's shirt was almost blasted right off.

"It was just hanging in shreds."

Both laboratory director R. R. Lejeune and Ajai Manksingh, a research scientist, described Dr. Baker as a veteran scientist who had worked with percloric acid for years and exercised every precaution.

Mr. Manksingh said the acid is regularly used as an agent in analysis but always "drop by drop."

It can be touched off if it is mixed with other chemicals too rapidly or accidentally jolted.

Mr. Lejeune and Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart said an investigation will be conducted to try to uncover the cause of the blast.

VOTE DUE TONIGHT ON DEATH PENALTY

Times News Service

OTTAWA — The vote on a government bill limiting the death penalty to murderers of policemen and prison guards is expected to come in the Commons tonight.

The division will come on second reading—approval in principle—of the measure, which calls for a five-year trial period.

If the bill gets through, as seemed likely today, it will then be up for clause-by-clause study before third and final reading in the Commons.

A motion to adjourn debate on the bill was defeated 125 to 71 Wednesday night and this was interpreted by some supporters of the bill as evidence that it is on its way to passage.

In a surprise move today Liberal back-bencher Georges Lachance moved that the bill be sent back to the House justice committee for further study in relation to the whole question of penal reform. His amendment was seconded by Roger Regimbal (PC—Argenteuil-Deux Montagmes). It was rejected by a 125-to-76 vote.

WINTER ELECTION?

'Mean Business' Says Stanfield

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Canadians may be in for a winter election.

Members of Parliament are having to face up to this cheerless prospect with the entry Wednesday of Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield into the Commons.

The Progressive Conservative back-benchers beat their desks like drums as the party changed guard on Parliament Hill.

The new national leader from Nova Scotia, moved with almost shy reluctance through the ritual by which all new members are introducing to the green carpeted chamber. His predecessor John Diefenbaker was absent.

After he took his seat Mr. Stanfield met the press outside the chamber. He made it quite clear that he will make every effort to defeat the Liberal minority government and bring on an early election.

"It is our duty to defeat the government in the House if we can. We mean business," he said. "We're not there to obstruct, but to be effective."

SOFT SPOKEN

Inside the house he was soft spoken.

After he had been greeted formally in the Commons he promised, "It will be my endeavor to assist in the operation of the House and in forwarding the business of the country."

But outside the House talking to newspaper, radio and TV reporters, he was more belligerent. He was asked what he regarded as the top issue today and replied, "national unity."

He also cited the economic problems confronting the government as of prime importance, demanding action.

Inflationary pressures, he warned, could destroy Canada's

NOT GESTAPO CHIEF

Prints Prove He's Peddler

Lt.-Col. Hector Valdez, Panamanian investigations department chief, said the 1942 fingerprint matches that of Francis Willard Keith, held here on suspicion of being Mueller.

Mueller, Hitler's Gestapo chief, is one of the world's most wanted Nazi criminals.

Suspicions that Keith was Mueller were further dispelled when he addressed a press conference here this morning in perfect English.

"I am Francis Willard Keith, and I have been in Panama for many years," he said.

POUND STRONGER

LONDON (UPI)—The pound sterling surged higher in brisk trading today on the strength of reports of a $1 billion international loan to bolster the sagging currency.

The hectic trading on foreign exchanges caught speculators gambling on the possibility of a devaluation "on the wrong foot," market sources said. They clamored for sterling so rates soared.

By noon, the pound held at 2.7843, having earlier touched 2.7847 against the U.S. dollar. The Canadian dollar was ¼ cent cheaper at 2.9881 while sharp gains were registered against all European currencies.

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Britain may be forced to impose tougher economic curbs, including the possibility of new import controls, as the price for a new $1,000,000,000 medium-term loan by 11 industrial countries, including Canada.

Informants said today the British government has been virtually assured that it will get this massive support to underpin the wobbly pound, but that lenders want strong guarantees of repayment.

Britain's biggest problem is that she cannot export enough goods and services to cover the cost of her much-needed imports. Various measures, such as higher commodity and income taxes, dented the internal demand for goods temporarily. But now the consumer market is swelling again, including the market for imports.

One official suggested that if import controls come, they likely will be slapped on luxury goods. Canada has a growing market here for some manufactured items but she still is a main shipper of raw materials which Britain requires for her own production and exports drive.

During the 1964 sterling crisis, the government imposed an extra duty of 15 per cent on manufactured goods.

This brought protests from Britain's trading partners, mainly those in Europe. The surcharge was reduced and finally eliminated last year. This time quotas on imports of luxury goods are reported to be under consideration.

Under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT—a country can impose import restrictions, without fear of massive retaliation by her trading partners, if she can show the

Police Defuse Bomb

LONDON (AP)—A parcel containing a bomb was found on the steps of the new Ulster government office in Mayfair today a few hours before its official opening by Princess Alexandra.

Police dismantled the device, which had a clock and explosive mixture, and put a guard on the building.

An explosives expert was summoned.

Police described the bomb as obviously a home-made job. It contained what they called a highly volatile mixture of sodium chlorate, weed killer and sugar.

The street past the new Ulster (Northern Ireland) office was closed.

A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to speculate whether the bomb might have been placed there by agents of the Irish Republican Army, an organization now declared illegal in both parts of Ireland.

The Ulster office is headquarters of the Ulster agent, Sir William Jenkins, who represents the self-governing Northern Ireland administration here.

The northern part of Ireland remains linked with Britain, while the south is an independent republic.

Guests at today's opening ceremony by Princess Alexandra, cousin of the Queen, were to include Lord Erskine, governor of Northern Ireland, Capt. Terence O'Neill, the Northern Ireland Prime Minister, and representatives of the British government.

'Public' Winning In Bennett View

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial finance ministers attending a closed conference with Finance Minister Sharp today described the meeting in terms ranging from "constructive" to "black enough."

Mr. Sharp presided at the first session of a two-day conference during which the current economic situation was reviewed by Bank of Canada economists. Later the ministers will discuss what should be done about inflation, taxes, and medical care insurance.

Emerging from the West Block committee room for lunch, Paul Dozois, finance minister of Quebec, said the conference so far had been constructive. He would not comment further, until he had more of the federal government's views and the thoughts of other provincial ministers.

C. S. MacNaughton, provincial treasurer of Ontario, said the problem confronting the country is difficult, and "the situation is black enough." Ontario is prepared to join the federal government in reducing government expenditures, he added.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia was asked: "Who's winning?" "The public," he said as he pushed through the crowd of reporters outside the conference room.

Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick, also his province's top representative at the meeting, said Mr. Sharp's expenditure-cutting and taxing plan for the immediate future has got to be supported. If it were not, inflation would become "a whole lot worse."

APPROVES HIGHER TAXES

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan was asked whether he thought higher taxes would be necessary.

"Oh yes, a necessity," he said. "I think all the provinces will have to increase taxes."

None of the provincial representatives made any formal statement public about his contribution to the conference.

The conference started as scheduled with a review of the current economic situation and prospects for the future, prepared by the Bank of Canada and the federal finance department.

MOST SERIOUS BATTLE IN TWO YEARS

Greeks Cool Off Cyprus Confrontation

NICOSIA (AP) — Tension eased on Cyprus today as Greek Cypriot troops withdrew at sunrise from two villages they overran in the most serious outbreak of communal fighting in nearly two years.

The government forces also released to UN peace-keeping troops about 250 Turkish-Cypriot men who had been rounded up in a house-to-house search Wednesday after eight hours of fighting.

The UN troops took control of the villages and prepared to return the men home.

In Ankara, Turkey's cabinet met through the night, its armed forces were placed on the alert and Turkey's airports were closed to civilian traffic for seveal hours. But the Greek-Cypriot backdown appeared to ease the threat of retaliation from Turkey, 40 miles north of Cyprus, and the Turkish airports reopened.

UN sources in Nicosia said medical teams from the UN peace force found 23 Turkish-Cypriot bodies in the two villages 40 miles south of Nicosia, Turkish Kophinou and Greek-Turkish Ayios Theodorus.

Greek-Cypriot officers on the scene said only one of their soldiers was killed.

UN headquarters in Nicosia said the number of casualties had not been established, but seven wounded Turkish-Cypriot civilians had been evacuated to Nicosia.

Turkish President Cevdet Sunday broke off a tour of Turkey's eastern provinces to hurry back to Ankara. Gen. Cemal Tual, chief of the Turkish general staff, met twice during the night with the cabinet. One of the commanders told newspaper men the armed forces had been put on the alert and might interyene in Cyprus "if necessary."

Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel said the cabinet would inform the Parliament about the situation on Cyprus. In answer to queries, he did not say the crisis had lessened but noted that Greek-Cypriot troops had pulled back.

A diplomat in Ankara said it was believed pressure from the Greek government in Athens played a role in the withdrawal. Turkish Ambassador Turan Tului conferred in Athens today with Greek Foreign Undersecretary Constantine Christopoulos but there was no announcement afterward.

Talks Suspended By Newspaper Guild

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province was turned down, Pacific Press Ltd. said Wednesday.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the over-all increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters) — A sailor has "I hate the navy" tattooed on his right hand so it shows every time he salutes an officer, the Royal Navy said Wednesday.

It was discovered by a naval doctor who interviewed more than 2,000 sailors to find why they had tattoos. Seventy per cent received their decorations while under the influence of alcohol.

That's a lot of money but a lot of little people have made it possible.

"We put on two plays and raised $9.01," says a note handed a university student canvasser Wednesday.

Children who signed the note were:

. . . LOAN

action is essential to overcome a financial or currency crisis.

When the pound came under heavy attack in 1964, the 11 industrialized nations made available to Britain $1,000,000,000 in standby credits. Britain could draw on these foreign currencies as she required them to replenish depleted reserves. But those credits were only for about six months. What Britain now likely will receive will be a firm loan for three years.

Prime Minister Wilson met with his cabinet today, and some members of his Labor party were reported unhappy with the new reported borrowing and the restrictions on the economy it would bring.

Britain's international trading position, hard hit by dock strikes and the Middle East war's closure of the Suez Canal, has sent the pound tumbling to its lowest position for years.

Financial authorities said it would come under still sterner pressure this weekend as foreign holders of sterling switch to other currencies for fear of devaluation-unless new and impressive foreign credits could be arranged.

SEEK CREDITS

These credits, authoritative sources said, are being sought from advanced industrial nations, among them the United States, Canada, West Germany and Switzerland.

But the big question in the lobbies of Parliament was whether Wilson's government could accept the inevitable conditions tied to the credits—conditions almost certainly demanding cuts in social welfare programs.

The pound's troubles appeared to be a hammer blow to Wilson's determination to seek membership in the European Common Market, unless international credit backing is found on such a scale as to make devaluation unnecessary.

The commander of the UN peace force for Cyprus, Gen. I. E. Martola of Finland, reported that Greek-Cypriot troops disarmed UN posts in the two villages, seized his troops' equipment and disabled the UN radio equipment. He made a strong protest to the Cypriot government. Some 700 Canadians make up a major portion of the force.

The Greek-Cypriot government claimed that the fighting started when a police patrol was fired on as it passed through the Turkish sector of Ayios Theodorus. The police returned the fire, the government said, and the fighting spread to nearby Kophinou, on the island's busiest highway between Nicosia and Limassol.

UN sources said there were no reports of any injuries to UN units composed of British troops manning posts in the area.

Four-fifths of the 600,000 Cypriots are of Greek origin and are Orthodox Christians whose religious leader, Archbishop Makarios, is the nation's president. The rest of the people are Turkish Moslems.

War between the two communities erupted in December, 1963, badly straining relations between Greece and Turkey, the two easternmost members of the Northern Atlantic Treaty Organization. The UN peace force has managed to keep the island quiet much of the time, but there has been no apparent progress toward a political settlement.

. . . STANFIELD

Unemployment is increasing steadily he pointed out.

"The government is so badly strapped for money it has no room to manoevre," he said.

He stressed that he was "not crying alarm, but the country is facing some very difficult problems and it is very important we get some satisfactory answers."

Mr Stanfield said that in his opinion the government did not appear to be meeting the problems effectively.

"I don't think we should pull our punches just to make it easy for the government," he said. "If they are defeated in the house — that's it.

"If you belive the government is not handling things properly as we do, then you have got to take responsibility," he said.

Clearly Mr. Stanfield will seize every opportunity that presents itself to defeat the Liberal minority government and bring on an early election. He repeated it would be an "act of patriotism" if the Conservatives could oust the liberals. He said the Liberal government has lost the confidence of Canadians.

The minority government now holds half the occupied seats in the Commons. The standing is: Liberals, 132; Conservatives, 95 New Democratic Party, 22; Creditistes, eight; Social Credit, four; Independents, three; vacant one. Total seats in the Commons is 265.

Michael Starr acted as opposition leader until Mr. Stanfield took a seat in the Commons.

Mr Starr is quietly confident that if the official opposition (the Conservatives) move a non-confidence motion when finance minister Mitchell Sharp brings down a supplementary budget, the government will be defeated.

A major factor in the outcome of this will be the attendance in the Commons. The former Conservative leader, Mr Diefenbaker often "blew the charge" only to turn around and find few of his Tory troops were with him.

Under Mr Stansfield, Mr Starr promised, it will be different." There will be no ducking votes."

The Liberals would have to go to the country on a promise to raise taxes. The Conservatives would campaign on promise to reduce government expenditures, establish a priority for spending and abolish some existing programs that are unpopular.

The Conservatives are convinced that their fortunes are again at a peak. The time is ripe for an election from their point of view.

VOTE DUE TONIGHT ON DEATH PENALTY

Times News Service

OTTAWA — The vote on a government bill limiting the death penalty to murderers of policemen and prison guards is expected to come in the Commons tonight.

The division will come on second reading—aproval in principle—of the measure, which calls for a five-year trial period.

If the bill gets through, as seemed likely today, it will then be up for clause-by-clause study before third and final reading in the Commons.

A motion to adjourn debate on the bill was defeated 125 to 71 Wednesday night and this was interpreted by some supporters of the bill as evidence that it is on its way to passage.

Lab Blast Sends Two To Hospital

Sprayed With Acid, Glass

By DON VIPOND

A shattering blast in a government research laboratory this morning sprayed two men with acid and glass fragments.

Both were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance after a safety shower in the laboratory failed to work.

Dr. Joseph Baker, 44, of 3498 Lovat, is in "fair" condition with multiple laceration and acid burns. His lab technician, William Eric Payne, 20, of 905 Lawndale, was treated for similar but less serious injuries and released.

Windows and light fixtures splintered and chemicals powdered the second-floor laboratory at the Federal Forestry Research Building on West Burnside just north of the Trans-Canada Highway after the explosion about 9:40 a.m.

EXPLOSIVE LIQUID

The injured men were working with percloric acid, an explosive and corrosive liquid used to break down organic matter.

When the blast occurred four flasks of the acid were housed in a metal oven-like enclosure called a fume hood which is equipped with an exhaust system.

"It almost blew my ears off," Martin Talmon, a research technician in an office across the hall, said of the noise.

COVERED WITH BLOOD

Both men were covered with blood.

Saanich police, firemen and two ambulances converged on the building.

"It was a terrific explosion," said assistant fire chief Thomas Moss. He said Mr. Payne's shirt was almost blasted right off him.

"It was just hanging in shreds."

DOUBT GROWING

Gestapo Chief Or Peddler?

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Detective Chief Hector Valdez, who arrested a shabby insecticide peddler at request of the West German government, said today he doubted the man was Gestapo Chief Heinrich Mueller, Adolf Hitler's chief torturer and mass executioner.

The man, listed on his Panamanian identification card as F. (Francis) Willard Keith, was being held in a ground floor jail cell opening onto a sunlit courtyard. Occasionally he strolled outside under the watchful eyes of guards.

Valdez said Mueller had been coming in and out of Panama since 1941 selling wines and insecticides.

West Germany asked for his extradition and said it based the identification on handwriting experts and on the fact Mueller's wife identified him from photographs. His photographs were sent to West Germany for indentification.

"As for me, I don't think it's him," Valdez said. "They (the Germans) have their reasons I guess, but in my opinion it's not Mueller. Then again . . . six million Jews . . . we have to make sure. There is a marked resemblance in the photographs."

PAPERS FROM U.S.

Valdez exhibited the man's identification papers which said he was born Feb. 21, 1906, in Webb City, Mo., that his father was listed as William Keith and his mother as Frances. One credential showed he entered Panama Dec. 23, 1952, from Venezuela with a U.S. passport.

Mrs. Mueller identified the man as her husband Wednesday when a Berlin prosecutor entered her candy shop in Munich and confronted her with photographs of the arrested man. But 24 hours later, her

'Mean Business' Says Stanfield

WINTER ELECTION?

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa

OTTAWA — Canadians may be in for a winter election.

Members of Parliament are having to face up to this cheerless prospect with the entry Wednesday of Conservative Leader Robert Stansfield into the Commons.

The Progressive Conservative back-benchers beat their desks like drums as the party changed guard on Parliament Hill.

The new national leader from Nova Scotia, moved with almost shy reluctance through the ritual by which all new members are introducing to the green carpeted chamber. His predecessor John Diefenbaker was absent.

After he took his seat Mr Stanfield met the press outside the chamber. He made it quite clear that he will make every effort to defeat the Liberal minority government and bring on an early election.

"It is our duty to defeat the government in the house if we can. We mean business," he said. "We're not there to obstruct, but to be effective."

SOFT SPOKEN

Inside the house he was soft spoken.

After he had been greeted formally in the commons he promised, "It will be my endeavour to assist in the operation of the house and in forwarding the business of the country."

But outside the house talking to newspaper, radio and TV reporters, he was more belligerent. He was asked what he regarded as the top issue today and replied, "national unity."

He also cited the economic problems confronting the government as of prime importance, demanding action.

Inflationary pressures, he warned, could destroy Canada's competitive position in world markets. It could rob the country of satisfactory rate growth.

HIS HATE IN HAND

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters) — A sailor has "I hate the navy" tattooed on his right hand so it shows every time he salutes an officer, the Royal Navy said Wednesday.

It was discovered by a naval doctor who interviewed more than 2,000 sailors to find why they had tattoos. Seventy per cent received their decorations while under the influence of alcohol.

FUND IN HOME STRETCH

Little People Help By Raising $9.01

The United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal turned into the home stretch today with donations topping 90 per cent of the $600,000 objective.

Audited collections at noon stood at $540,948, or 90.1 per cent of the sought-after goal.

That's a lot of money but a lot of little people have made it possible.

"We put on two plays and raised $9.01," says a note handed a university student canvasser Wednesday.

"We heard about all the kids with no homes, food and things so we raised some money to help."

Children who signed the note were:

Tough, New Curbs Price of Huge Loan

POUND STRONGER

LONDON (UPI)—The pound sterling surged higher in brisk trading today on the strength of reports of a $1 billion international loan to bolster the sagging currency.

The hectic trading on foreign exchanges caught speculators gambling on the possibility of a devaluation "on the wrong foot," market sources said. They clamored for sterling so rates soared.

By noon, the pound held at 2.7843, having earlier touched 2.7847 against the U.S. dollar. The Canadian dollar was ¼ cent cheaper at 2.9881 while sharp gains were registered against all European currencies.

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Britain may be forced to impose tougher economic curbs, including the possibility of new import controls, as the price for a new $1,000,000,000 medium-term loan by 11 industrial countries, including Canada.

Informants said today the British government has been virtually assured that it will get this massive support to underpin the wobbly pound, but that lenders want strong guarantees of repayment.

Britain's biggest problem is that she cannot export enough goods and services to cover the cost of her much-needed imports. Various measures, such as higher commodity and income taxes, dented the internal demand for goods temporarily. But now the consumer market is swelling again, including the market for imports.

One official suggested that if import controls come, they likely will be slapped on luxury goods. Canada has a growing market here for some manufactured items but she still is a main shipper of raw materials which Britain requires for her own production and exports drive.

During the 1964 sterling crisis, the government imposed an extra duty of 15 per cent on manufactured goods.

This brought protests from Britain's trading partners, mainly those in Europe. The surcharge was reduced and finally eliminated last year. This time quotas on imports of luxury goods are reported to be under consideration.

Under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT—a country can impose import restrictions, without fear of massive retaliation by her trading partners, if she can show the

Police Defuse Bomb

LONDON (AP)—A parcel containing a bomb was found on the steps of the new Ulster government office in Mayfair today a few hours before its official opening by Princess Alexandra.

Police dismantled the device, which had a clock and explosive mixture, and put a guard on the building.

An explosives expert was summoned.

Police described the bomb as obviously a home-made job. It contained what they called a highly volatile mixture of sodium chlorate, weed killer and sugar.

The street past the new Ulster (Northern Ireland) office was closed.

MAY BE IRA PLOT

A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to speculate whether the bomb might have been placed there by agents of the Irish Republican Army, an organization now declared illegal in both parts of Ireland.

The Ulster office is headquarters of the Ulster agent, Sir William Jenkins, who represents the self-governing Northern Ireland administration here.

The northern part of Ireland remains linked with Britain, while the south is an independent republic.

Guests at today's opening ceremony by Princess Alexandra, cousin of the Queen, were to include Lord Erskine, governor of Northern Ireland, Capt. Terence O'Neill, the Northern Ireland Prime Minister, and representatives of the British government.

'Public' Winning In Bennett View

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial finance ministers attending a closed conference with Finance Minister Sharp today described the meeting in terms ranging from "constructive" to "black enough."

Mr. Sharp presided at the first session of a two-day conference during which the current economic situation was reviewed by Bank of Canada economists. Later the ministers will discuss what should be done about inflation, taxes, and medical care insurance.

Emerging from the West Block committee room for lunch, Paul Dozois, finance minister of Quebec, said the conference so far had been constructive. He would not comment further, until he had more of the federal government's views and the thoughts of other provincial ministers.

C. S. MacNaughton, provincial treasurer of Ontario, said the problem confronting the country is difficult, and "the situation is black enough." Ontario is prepared to join the federal government in reducing government expenditures, he added.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia was asked: "Who's winning?" "The public," he said as he pushed through the crowd of reporters outside the conference room.

Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick, also his province's top representative at the meeting, said Mr. Sharp's expenditure-cutting and taxing plan for the immediate future has got to be supported. If it were not, inflation would become "a whole lot worse."

APPROVES HIGHER TAXES

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan was asked whether he thought higher taxes would be necessary.

"Oh yes, a necessity," he said. "I think all the provinces will have to increase taxes."

None of the provincial representatives made any formal statement public about his contribution to the conference.

The conference started as scheduled with a review of the current economic situation and prospects for the future, prepared by the Bank of Canada and the federal finance department.

MOST SERIOUS BATTLE IN TWO YEARS

Greeks Cool Off Cyprus Confrontation

NICOSIA (AP) — Tension eased on Cyprus today as Greek Cypriot troops withdrew at sunrise from two villages they overran in the most serious outbreak of communal fighting in nearly two years.

The government forces also released to UN peace-keeping troops about 250 Turkish-Cypriot men who had been rounded up in a house-to-house search Wednesday after eight hours of fighting.

The UN troops took control of the villages and prepared to return the men home.

In Ankara, Turkey's cabinet met through the night, its armed forces were placed on the alert and Turkey's airports were closed to civilian traffic for seveal hours. But the Greek-Cypriot backdown appeared to ease the threat of retaliation from Turkey, 40 miles north of Cyprus, and the Turkish airports reopened.

UN sources in Nicosia said medical teams from the UN peace force found 23 Turkish-Cypriot bodies in the two villages 40 miles south of Nicosia, Turkish Kophinou and Greek-Turkish Ayios Theodorus.

SAY ONE KILLED

Greek-Cypriot officers on the scene said only one of their soldiers was killed.

UN headquarters in Nicosia said the number of casualties had not been established, but seven wounded Turkish-Cypriot civilians had been evacuated to Nicosia.

Turkish President Cevdet Sunday broke off a tour of Turkey's eastern provinces to hurry back to Ankara. Gen. Cemal Tual, chief of the Turkish general staff, met twice during the night with the cabinet. One of the commanders told newspaper men the armed forces had been put on the alert and might intervene in Cyprus "if necessary."

Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel said the cabinet would inform the Parliament about the situation on Cyprus. In answer to queries, he did not say the crisis had lessened but noted that Greek-Cypriot troops had pulled back.

A diplomat in Ankara said it was believed pressure from the Greek government in Athens played a role in the withdrawal.

Turkish Ambassador Turan Tului conferred in Athens today with Greek Foreign Undersecretary Constantine Christopoulos but there was no announcement afterward.

steadily he pointed out.

"The government is so badly strapped for money it has no room to manoevre," he said.

He stressed that he was "not crying alarm, but the country is facing some very difficult problems and it is very important we get some satisfactory answers."

Mr Stanfield said that in his opinion the government did not appear to be meeting the problems effectively.

"I don't think we should pull our punches just to make it easy for the government," he said. "If they are defeated in the house — that's it.

"If you belive the government is not handling things properly as we do, then you have got to take responsibility," he said.

LOST CONFIDENCE

Clearly Mr. Stanfield will seize every opportunity that presents itself to defeat the Liberal minority government and bring on an early election. He repeated it would be an "act of patriotism" if the Conservatives could oust the liberals. He said the Liberal government has lost the confidence of Canadians.

The minority government now holds half the occupied seats in the Commons. The standing is: Liberals, 132; Conservatives, 95 New Democratic Party, 22; Creditistes, eight; Social Credit, four; Independents, three; vacant one. Total seats in the Commons is 265.

Michael Starr acted as opposition leader until Mr. Stanfield took a seat in the Commons.

Mr Starr is quietly confident that if the official opposition (the Conservatives) move a non-confidence motion when finance minister Mitchell Sharp brings down a supplementary budget, the government will be defeated.

A major factor in the outcome of this will be the attendance in the Commons. The former Conservative leader, Mr Diefenbaker often "blew the charge" only to turn around and find few of his Tory troops were with him.

Under Mr Stansfield, Mr Starr promised, it will be different." There will be no ducking votes."

The Liberals would have to go to the country on a promise to raise taxes. The Conservatives would campaign on promise to reduce government expenditures, establish a priority for spending and abolish some existing programs that are unpopular.

The Conservatives are convinced that their fortunes are again at a peak. The time is ripe for an election from their point of view.

. . . LOAN

action is essential to overcome a financial or currency crisis.

When the pound came under heavy attack in 1964, the 11 industrialized nations made available to Britain $1,000,000,000 in standby credits. Britain could draw on these foreign currencies as she required them to replenish depleted reserves. But those credits were only for about six months. What Britain now likely will receive will be a firm loan for three years.

Prime Minister Wilson met with his cabinet today, and some members of his Labor party were reported unhappy with the new reported borrowing and the restrictions on the economy it would bring.

Britain's international trading position, hard hit by dock strikes and the Middle East war's closure of the Suez Canal, has sent the pound tumbling to its lowest position for years.

Financial authorities said it would come under still sterner pressure this weekend as foreign holders of sterling switch to other currencies for fear of devaluation-unless new and impressive foreign credits could be arranged.

SEEK CREDITS

These credits, authoritative sources said, are being sought from advanced industrial nations, among them the United States, Canada, West Germany and Switzerland.

But the big question in the lobbies of Parliament was whether Wilson's government could accept the inevitable conditions tied to the credits—conditions almost certainly demanding cuts in social welfare programs.

The pound's troubles appeared to be a hammer blow to Wilson's determination to seek membership in the European Common Market, unless international credit backing is found on such a scale as to make devaluation unnecessary.

who had worked with percloric acid for years and exercised every precaution.

Mr. Manksingh said the acid is regularly used as an agent in analysis but always "drop by drop."

It can be touched off if it is mixed with other chemicals too rapidly or accidentally jolted.

Mr. Lejeune and Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart said an investigation will be conducted to try to uncover the cause of the blast.

Talks Suspended By Newspaper Guild

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province was turned down, Pacific Press Ltd. said Wednesday.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the over-all increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

daughter said, Mrs. Mueller began to have her doubts.

The daughter told newsmen: "She says the man in the pictures had a lot more hair than my father did, and that among millions of people there are always some look alikes." Pictures from Third Reich days showed Mueller affected an extreme Prussian-style haircut—a sparse brush on top and high shaven sides.

Simon Wiesenthal, the man who helped track down Adolf Eichmann, said in Vienna he is "more than doubtful" about the Mueller identity.

He also said Mueller would not have had to work as a peddler since he would have access to "dark funds" after the war as other Nazi war criminals did.

In Bonn, informed sources said Israel was seeking to have the arrested man extradited to the Jewish state. Israel has a death penalty. West Germany does not.

In Berlin, the prosecutors said a lack of fingerprint specimens may make extradition more difficult than expected. Legal sources here said it might take a year.

. . . CYPRUS

The commander of the UN force for Cyprus, Gen. I. Ahtola of Finland, reported that Greek-Cypriot troops disarmed UN posts in the two villages, seized his troops' equipment and disabled the UN radio equipment. He made a strong protest to the Cypriot government. Some 700 Canadians make up a major portion of the force.

The Greek-Cypriot government claimed that the fighting started when a police patrol was fired on as it passed through the Turkish sector of Ayios Theodorus. The police returned the fire, the government said, and the fighting spread to nearby Kophinou, on the island's busiest highway between Nicosia and Limassol.

UN sources said there were no reports of any injuries to UN units composed of British troops manning posts in the area.

Four-fifths of the 600,000 Cypriots are of Greek origin and are Orthodox Christians whose religious leader, Archbishop Makarios, is the nation's president. The rest of the people are Turkish Moslems.

War between the two communities erupted in December, 1963, badly straining relations between Greece and Turkey, the two easternmost members of the Northern Atlantic Treaty Organization. The UN peace force has managed to keep the island quiet much of the time, but there has been no apparent progress toward a political settlement.

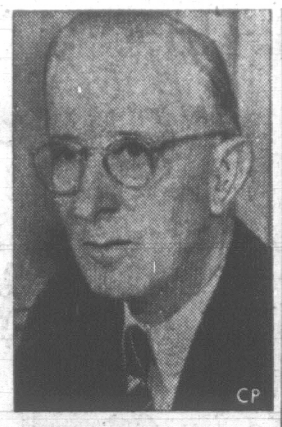
Doctor Solves Mysteries Because He Can't Forget



DR. MURRAY
. . . another milestone

TORONTO (CP) — "I can't shrug off a mystery and forget it," Dr. Gordon Murray once told friends at a Toronto tennis club.

"It rankles."

When the 73-year-old master surgeon announced this week that he had achieved regeneration of the spinal cord in animals and humans, it marked another milestone in a life of medical achievements.

It also climaxed eight years of research and came 21 years after an artificial kidney he invented was used on this continent for the first time in saving the life of a woman in Toronto General Hospital.

Dr. Murray performed some of the first operations in Canada on children with congenital heart defects—"blue babies"—was the first surgeon to transplant an aortic heart valve and pioneered as an anti-coagulant the use of heparin, an agent which prevents blood clots.

A slight, poker-faced man who appears notably calm in a crisis, Dr. Murray is a non-conformist who has become accustomed to being treated with skepticism by his colleagues.

EXPERTS DOUBT IT

As word of his latest medical breakthrough circulated around the world, one specialist asked whether the report could be a swindle while another said it "does not sound feasible."

Few thought his artificial kidney would work when it was introduced in the Toronto hospital Dec. 6, 1946, after 18 years of speculation, study and intensive experiments.

It was being tried as a last resort to save an attractive 26-year-old woman whose kidneys stopped functioning after she had attempted an abortion.

Every method known to medicine at that time had failed to restore her health and she was dying of uremia, caused when sudden damage to the kidneys stops their function of filtering the blood and removing its waste products as urine.

After a few days the patient began making extraordinary progress towards recovery and a month later she was back to wok.

Tuesday night a 24-year-old accident victim paralysed from the shoulders down since October, 1963, was wheeled before the Toronto East General and Orthopedic Hospital Research Foundation on a bed.

"He hasn't moved a joint for three years," Dr. Murray said after the 24-year-old Quebec truck driver slid his feet off the bed and stood, amazing the formally-attired audience.

He said the victim, Bertram Proulx of St. Jean de Cherbourg, Que., was "in hopeless despair" before an operation to repair his spinal cord.

In the audience was Dr. James Simpson, who last year separated California-born Siamese twins in an operation at the Hospital for Sick Children, and who was taught surgery by Dr. Murray at the University of Toronto.

Dr. Simpson described Dr. Murray as a man "with the most inquiring mind I ever met."

"His mind is completely open, and because it is he notices certain signs that others see and ignore."

It was his powers of observation that led to the development of an artificial kidney, Dr. Simpson said in an interview.

"He would have a patient in kidney failure coming from some distance in an ambulance. By the time the patient got to him the kidney would have started functioning again. Dr. Murray had the insight to figure out that somehow the jiggling in the ambulance had started it working."

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1967—PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

Since Finance Minister Sharp has been kind enough to prescribe a temporary (heh!) income tax boost as a cure for our national case of hot-pockets, I think we should try to do something nice for him in return.

Obviously, the finest gift from us recipients would be a further tightening of the purse-strings. With this in mind, I suggest that Mr. Sharp arrange for the appointment of a taxpayers' commission to investigate government over-spending.

I would be most happy to volunteer for a place on this body, and since economy is to be our watchword, suggest that appointees settle for rather less than the hundred-a-day and expenses that seems to be Ottawa's minimum for this line of work.

Naturally, we would need a chairman. The logical choice for this post would be a housewife with two kids in school and one in university, and a grocery-budget so slender that she must make every penny count.

Since government is by far our largest and most complex industry, our commission of gored citizens might be in some doubt as to where it should start its cost-cutting operation. Should it whittle from the bottom, as Mr. Sharp has done with his income tax increase, or should it commence at a higher level?

Personally, I'm for starting with the 127 members of Parliament who absented themselves from the Monday night sitting. It's probable that some of those truants were absent with good reason. As for those who weren't, why pay $18,000 salaries to drones and loafers?

Recommended that their ridings be joined to neighboring constituencies represented by MPs more concerned with the people's business!

Having trimmed some fat off that roast, we might then take a sharply critical look at the various departments, with a view to saving a buck where we can. I urge particular watchfulness for feather-bedding, or more formally, for unnecessary increase of any department's manpower count.

We could save a sizeable amount here by drastically reducing the departmental corps of public relations men, including the higher-echelon types whose function is disguised by pretentious titles.

With a passing slash at the department of industry, a hive reputed to possess more $14,000-and-up generals than privates, we will now pass on to an area where our commission can do the finance minister a proper good turn.

This is in the investigation of other commissions.

The one that comes immediately to mind is the Royal Commission on Biculturalism and Bilingualism, a road show whose stage-managing interested me when this costly production came to Victoria in 1964. That's a long time back, and the Bi-and-Bi, silent since it filed a warning of urgent danger a couple of years ago, is still engaged in its marathon.

We can't do anything about the heavy money which the Bi-and-Bi has already cost the taxpayer. Perhaps, however, we could hasten its deliberations by inserting a penalty clause in its contract.

Then there's the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, a comparative newcomer that got off the mark last February.

At last report, this enquiry was taking time out to think, at $100 a day. After a sufficient period of meditation, it will march on, expensively, for another two years or thereabouts.

I feel that our commission on government spending could save Mr. Sharp a pretty penny by bashing this venture into subsidized suffragetism with might and main.

By so doing—and by persuading government in general to quit spending as if there's no tomorrow—we might nip one of the chief causes of inflation at its source.

Day-Old Baby Left at Door 'Doing Fine'

The white baby, wrapped in two towels, was found at the back door of a home on Kinch Avenue by a nurse returning home from day shift.

Mrs. P. Thomasen, the nurse's next door neighbor, called the police.

The nurse told them: "I drove into the driveway at the back of my house and saw a bundle of rags lying on the doorstep of the back door."

Closer examination revealed the tiny baby wrapped in the towels.

The nurse took the baby to King's Daughters' Hospital, where it was examined, confirmed to be a recent birth and placed in an incubator.

The baby's umbilical cord was tied with a piece of paper-covered wire such as is used in packaging bread.

Hospital administrator Ken Noton said this morning the baby, which was only hours old when found abandoned, is in good condition.

He said: "She looks healthy, strong and normal."

Mrs. Thomasen declined any comment on the startling find, and RCMP would not disclose the name of the nurse.

30 Unions Send Delegates To Picket Line

By BRUCE YEMEN

Representatives of about 30 unions joined the picket line at McCarter Shingle & Shake, Ltd., for an hour today to show solidarity with 17 striking employees.

An estimated 50 men showed up for the quiet 7:30 a.m. demonstration, approved Wednesday night by the Victoria Labour Council.

"I've never seen such unanimous solidarity," said Bruce Robertson, business agent for Local 3802 of the Shingle Weavers' Union which has been on strike since Oct. 17 at the new plant on Songhees Road.

Local 2802 president William Bell said the demonstration will make clear to management that it isn't dealing with only a small group of workers.

Mr. Robertson said an industry-wide meeting of shingle weavers' union delegations in the Pacific region will be held this Sunday in Vancouver to discuss the Victoria strike in particular and the impact of automation on the industry in general.

AUTOMATION

He said the meeting is expected to provide some long-range guidance in handling automation, which is one of the issues in the strike at the modern McCarter plant.

The meeting will give strong support to the Victoria local, he said.

Larry Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council, said the demonstration today was a "gesture" and that any further council action would depend on progress of negotiations in the strike.

Mr. Robertson said the last meeting between the company and union was 15 days ago and repeated union willingness to meet "at any time."

FEAR CREATED

He said the union is trying to adjust to automation advances in the shingle and shake industry but said management had created much fear and suspicion among workers by not making clear its automation aims.

Mr. Robertson said the local 2802 is seeking wage rates similar to others in the industry.

Spokesmen for the company could not be reached for comment.

No representatives of management were in sight during the solidarity picket, union members said.

GIVEN A BOOST in their strike against McCarter Shingle & Shake, Ltd., on Songhees Road, by a union solidarity picket today were striking workers of Local 2802 of the Shingle Weavers' Union, shown here. The sign "Go Home Yankee Scab" refers to two Americans who the union charges are keeping the plant going behind the picket line.

Worker Burned In Gas-Fed Fire

Mechanic's Condition Said Poor

A mechanic is in poor condition today with severe burns to his face, hands, arms and chest after a flash fire swept a Colwod service station Wednesday.

David John, 26, of 340 Michigan, was treated for minor burns and released from hospital.

An assessment of the damage was being made today. First estimates put the cost as high as $12,000.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Owner Bob Schwabe said John struck a welding torch seconds before the fire ignited.

"There were fumes from somewhere," he said.

Firemen found the torch still burning after the blaze was extinguished.

Witnesses contradicted one another as to whether or not there was an explosion.

Colwood fire officials say the damage was confined to a customer's car, several tires, tools, and a small part of the building.

The entire interior was damaged by smoke. Schwabe said it is covered by insurance.

PREMIER'S FIGHT

Slander Appeal Set Next Week

A B.C. Supreme Court order requiring Premier Bennett to pay $15,000 damages for slander to George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the provincial purchasing commission, will be appealed next week.

The appeal was scheduled to be heard in Victoria Law Courts Monday, but has now been moved to the Appeal Court in Vancouver. Date and time of the hearing will be announced.

In a Supreme Court judgment last March, Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan ruled that remarks made by the premier at a Social Credit meeting on March 5, 1965, were slanderous and calculated to disparage Mr. Jones as chairman of the B.C. Purchasing Commission.

The premier's lawyer, George L. Murray, QC, filed an appeal against the judgment. He contended that the words which Mr. Jones alleged were slanderous were "not capable of conveying a defamatory meaning."

Tom Berger is counsel for Mr. Jones.

DOCTORS SCARED?

City Ponders Bid For Hypnosis Centre

A 34-year-old electronic technician at HMC Dockyard wants to open Victoria's first hypnosis centre.

Frank Mallory, 4483 Majestic Drive, appeared before the Victoria city finance committee this morning to plead his case and seek the business licence which would permit him to commence operations.

Mr. Mallory has been a hypnotechnician for seven years and has demonstrated his techniques locally and in the United States.

He told the committee that he was a member of the Association to Advance Ethical Hypnosis, an organization recognized and used by the American Medical Association.

Hypnosis is used by several medical doctors in Victoria but the Canadian Medical Association recognizes only hypnotists who are also qualified medical practitioners.

FULL-TIME JOB

Mr. Mallory told the committee that if his application for a business licence was granted he would leave his job at the dockyard to go into full-time work as a hypnosis consultant.

The main object of the proposed operation would be to train people to conduct self-hypnosis prior to visits to the dentist or prior to minor surgery.

Mr. Mallory added that hypnosis was now a generally accepted medical aid, but said he doubted whether the Victoria branch of the CMA would look favorably on his proposals.

"The CMA tends to feel that hypnosis is too time-consuming," he said. "I have the feeling that they are still a little scared of it."

NO OPTION?

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the committee, noted that council had no option but to grant the required business licence.

"The CMA will not approve, they never do approve things like this unless a medical doctor is providing the service," he said. "But unless city council unanimously turns down the application we have no choice but to grant this request. Legally we have no option in the matter."

Mayor Hugh Stephen said council would have to do what was legally right but stressed that he was perturbed by the application.

"I think we should approach the medical profession to get an expert opinion," he said. "I confess that I am a little worried about it. While hypnosis is becoming accepted it is still not an exact science."

UP TO COUNCIL

The committee agreed to advance the matter to city council with a recommendation that the licence be granted but also approved that a check be made with the medical profession to see if any dangers to the public could result.

If the licence is granted Mr. Mallory will establish an office under the name of Victoria Hypnosis Services Limited.

A married man with three children, Mr. Mallory has been a resident of Victoria for 15 years, is a member of Fairfield United Church and leader of the 8th Fort Victoria Cub Pack.

In the past, he said, he has worked in close liaison with doctors and dentists in the city.

Hypnosis services have been operating in Vancouver for 15 years and similar centres are also in operation in Edmonton, Calgary, Toronto and Montreal.

Two Charged In Burglary

Two men were to appear in magistrate's court this afternoon in connection with the robbery of the Union Centre, 2750 Quadra St., Tuesday night.

The pair are to be charged with breaking and entering.

Buttle Lake Visit Comforts Mine Critic

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan today found some reassurance that the main lake of Strathcona Park will not be despoiled by pollution.

He reported that a weekend visit to Buttle Lake to view Western Mines Ltd. dumping of mine tailings into the bottom of the lake gave him an agreeable surprise.

"I watched this dirty grey slurry going out by pipe and disappearing entirely from view," he told reporters.

"There was just no sign of discoloration on the surface of the water.

"This doesn't say it's not doing any harm of course but the company seems to be doing all it can to prevent pollution."

However, he said he would accept the findings of a special research committee which is keeping daily checks of the lake's water for preparation of a report on the slurry's effects on fishlife and potability of the water.

"I don't think it (the slurry) will do any good to the lake but I'll accept the report of the scientists when it is made.

Post Office Substation Open Monday

Victoria's first postal substation will be open for business at 8 a.m. Monday.

Postal Station A, the first in a proposed series of sub-stations, is located in Town and Country shopping centre on north Douglas St.

The official opening will take place at 2 p.m. when Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich will hand the keys of the new building over to Allan Davies, postmaster of Greater Victoria.

"The purpose of the new station is to decentralize and to take the pressure off the main office," says Mr. Davies. "It will provide complete postal facilities."

The site was chosen because it is near the junction of the Trans-Canada Highway and the Patricia Bay Highway, both regular routes for mail carriers.

Thirty carriers and 15 jeeps will serve a large area north of Finlayson Road on Douglas Street; west as far as Langford, Colwood, Glen Lake and Belmont Park and in Cordova Bay and Royal Oak areas.

Residents will be able to pick up undelivered parcels at the station instead of having to go downtown.

Business firms will have their boxes at the station and postage meters for the area will be set up there.

The new post office will keep regular hours—six days a week from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Two Hours Later 'Speed' Was $50

A visitor from Manitoba who police say went 48 miles per hour in a school zone at 9 a.m. today found himself in court and fined less than two hours later.

Magistrate Ostler fined Carnahan $50.

WHAT DOES HIS WORSHIP DO WITH ALL THAT SPARE TIME?

Being the mayor of Victoria is a cinch—if you can stand the pace of 77 meetings a month.

Meetings over the 10-month stretch totalled 135, ceremonial gatherings and speeches to conventions 340, official office interviews 295.

Soil Shallow and Money Scarce But Uvic 'Friends' Sprouting

The University of Victoria rises in a handsome setting but soil is poor and money scarce for floral landscaping.

These were the hard facts put before about 30 people in the Education and Art Building Wednesday night who answered a call for community horticulturists to help put some bloom in Uvic's cheeks.

The principle function of the university is to teach, said Lloyd McKenzie, lawyer and member of the board of governors. As in all such institutions it is plagued with a shortage of money so aesthetics has taken second place to essentials.

There is a need to harness the energy and skills of gardeners from the garden city to help fill the gap.

TREES IN

Vancouver landscape architect John Lantzius said the university's main effort over the past three years has been planting large trees to compliment the architecture.

Parking areas need screening and the flat campus needs "softening" with elevation changes to make it more interesting.

"There are lots of possibilities," he said. The entire campus could be developed as a giant arboretum possibly, although there is a need for "areas of simplicity," with rolling grass and natural trees.

A. J. Saunders, who heads the building and grounds staff, said the area of the campus now under some form of cultivation is already bigger than Beacon Hill Park.

About 160 acres are at least partly developed. In addition there are 46 acres of cleared bush, 21 acres in turf with drainage and another 12 acres in playing fields.

The soil is very poor, he said, low in organic and mineral content and averaging only six inches over almost impervious clay which means little moisture retention and heavy run off.

"This should be the lipstick on the university."

He suggested it would be an ideal setting for rhododendrons and azaleas, flowers suggested by several people as the logical ones to begin with.

AN EXPERIENCE

Uvic's grounds have potential for being an educational experience, said Marcus Bell, biology professor. Only Victoria in all of Canada has the climate to grow any Canadian plant. He suggested the possibility of a national arboretum.

The university has responsibility for basic landscaping but could be open to criticism if it went beyond a certain point in spending, said Chancellor R. B. Wilson.

He envisaged the role of any garden club as providing the extras.

From the meeting came a six-man committee headed by Mr. McKenzie which will receive proposals from the university's landscape architect and other planners and present them to a second meeting of interested horticulturists.

And those present also settled on the name "Garden Friends of the University."

Dangerous Boat Operation Nets Fisherman Fine of $750

Court was told that last July 7 Nelson was spotted by the B.C. Fisheries vessel Laurier in Queen Charlotte Sound. The officers attempted to check the vessel because they thought it was in a closed area.

A chase ensued which lasted for 40 minutes. When the gill-netter stopped the officers approached it in their skiff. They said the fishboat then was started again and bore down on them, narrowly missing the skiff.

They said Nelson shouted, "Get the hell out of the way. You have no business here." They said they were charged twice by the fishboat and narrowly avoided being swamped.

Ask The Times

Q. How did the Black Watch gets its name? P.G.

A. When England was trying to keep Scotland under control, in 1725, the government decided that the "Lobsterbacks" or Redcoats would be too conspicuous when out on forays. The government decided to use Scotsmen and formed six units under high-ranking clan officials. They wore a dark tartan for camouflage purposes and this came to be known as the Black Tartan, and the men who wore it, charged with keeping watch on the Highlands, came to be known as the Black Watch. Official name of the regiment is the Royal Highlanders.
